Offices : Salisbury Square, London, E.C.4.

Inland Telegraphic Address : "Testimony, Fleet, London." Cable Address : "Testimony, London." Telegraphic Code : "C.I.M.," C.M.S. Edition. Telephone : City, 7994, 7995.

Hours of Business : 9.45 A.M. to 5.30 P.M. ; Saturdays, 9.45 A.M. to 1 P.M.

GENERAL POLICY, etc.—All communications as to the general policy of the Society with regard to ecclesiastical matters, and any letters to be brought officially before the General Committee, should be addressed to the Hon. Clerical Secretary.

CONTRIBUTIONS to the General, Appropriated, Special or Medical Mission Funds should be sent to the local treasurer, or may be paid at any time at the Society's House, Salisbury Square, E.C.4, or to the Society's bankers, Williams Deacon's Bank, Limited, Birchin Lane, E.C.3, and in Ireland at the C.M.S. Office, 21, Molesworth Street, Dublin. Cheques and postal orders sent direct to the Office should be made payable to "The Church Missionary Society," and crossed "Williams Deacon's Bank, Limited," and addressed to the Lay Secretary. Contributions should be accompanied by full particulars as to whether they are to be credited to any Association, or as "Paid Direct," and if for the General or any Appropriated Fund.

SPECIAL REQUEST re CONTRIBUTIONS.—The Committee wish to impress upon local secretaries and treasurers that at present, whereas the expenditure is spread fairly equally over the whole year, a large proportion of the income is received during the last few months of the year, and to ask :

1. That efforts may be made to obtain subscriptions at an early date in the financial year which closes on March 31.
2. That at the end of every month all moneys lying at the local banks or in the hands of treasurers may be forwarded to the Lay Secretary.

If this were done, a considerable amount each year would be saved in interest on loans.

It would greatly minimize the work at Head-quarters if parochial associations would forward all contributions through the central treasurer for either their deanery, archdeaconry, or diocese.

EDITORIAL.—Communications as to literary matters and subjects connected with the contents of the publications of the Society should be addressed to the Editorial Secretary.

CANDIDATES.—All inquiries as to offers of service in the foreign field and the training of candidates should be addressed to the Secretary of the Candidates Department.

FOREIGN.—Letters connected with the details of the ordinary work abroad should be addressed to the Foreign Secretaries. Those connected with Medical Missions should be addressed to the Secretary to the Medical Committee.

HOME ORGANIZATION.—The Home Organization Department is under the control of the Home Secretary, to whom all correspondence should be addressed. He will welcome personal conference regarding any matter connected with the work of the Associations throughout the country. Correspondence regarding "Own Missionaries" should be addressed to the Lay Secretary. Arrangements for Sermons and Meetings in connexion with Associations will be made by the Organizing Secretaries for the respective districts, a list of whom is given on page viii.

For information regarding the work and needs of Educational Missions, application should be made to the Secretary to the Educational Committee.

Inquiries relative to the Medical Mission Auxiliary, and applications for deputations or special literature, should be made to the Organizing Secretary for Medical Missions.

Applications from Gleaners', Young People's, and other Unions, for deputations to meetings, and ordinary correspondence, should be addressed to the respective Secretaries.

Correspondence with regard to the subject of Missionary Study and in connexion with the Circulating Library should be addressed to the Assistant Secretary for Missionary Study.

PRAYER USED AT THE ANNUAL MEETINGS OF THE SOCIETY AND AT THE OPENING OF MEETINGS OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE

ALMIGHTY and most merciful FATHER, we give Thee humble thanks for the light of Thy Gospel. Make us more grateful for this Thy mercy, and more zealous for the salvation of all mankind.

Visit in mercy the Church of Christ; enrich it more abundantly with the grace of Thy Holy Spirit; and bless its endeavours to make known Thy Truth. Unite, as one man, all who are truly labouring for Thee. Disappoint the designs of Satan. Let all Christian Societies live in harmony and love; give them wisdom in all their plans; perfect Thy strength in their weakness; and direct their labours to Thy glory.

The harvest truly is great, but the Labourers are few! O Thou Lord of the Harvest, send forth Labourers into Thy Harvest! Fill with Thy Spirit those whom Thou hast sent forth; and enable them faithfully and boldly to preach, among Jews and Gentiles, the unsearchable riches of Christ. Keep them from the snares of the world, the flesh, and the devil; deliver them from all evil; and make them wise to win souls.

Upon all the native converts whom Thou hast gathered to Thyself through Thy labouring servants throughout the world pour out Thy Holy Spirit, that as Thou hast begotten them again unto a lively hope, so they may ever be followers of Thee as dear children. Deliver them from all remaining darkness and ignorance; destroy and abolish in their hearts all that remains of Satan's kingdom; grant that their faith and hope and love may grow exceedingly; make them to be ready to every good work, and more especially to exert themselves for the salvation of those around them; that so, by their zeal and faithful testimony, by their holiness and fruitfulness, they may glorify Thy Name before their countrymen, and bring in unto Thee from the midst of them such as shall be saved.

Have compassion, O most merciful Father, on all those who have come under instruction, though they be not yet altogether Christians! Convince them effectually by Thy Word and Spirit of their sinful and miserable state; pour upon them the spirit of grace and supplication, and draw them to Jesus.

Take away blindness from the Jews. Let them receive Thee, O Jesus, as their Messiah, and proclaim Thy saving Name among the Gentiles!

Deliver all Mohammedans from the delusions of the False Prophet. O Thou True Prophet of Thy Church, enlighten them by Thy Holy Spirit, and bow them down at the foot of Thy Cross!

Pity blind idolaters who are kept in cruel bondage by the god of this world. Turn them from idols, that they may serve the Living and True God.

O Thou Almighty Saviour, Who by the right hand of God art exalted, and hast received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, shed forth His light and grace on this dark world!

Cause all Christians, we beseech Thee, to sow bountifully that they may reap also bountifully. O Thou that lovest a cheerful giver, let all grace abound toward them, that they may minister liberally of their substance to the making known of Thy Name!

With these our humble prayers, we join our praises and thanksgiving for what Thou hast already done in making known Thy salvation; perfect Thy work, O Lord; shortly accomplish the number of Thine elect; and hasten the coming of Thy Kingdom.

Be present with us, O Lord, at this time. Give us all a single eye to Thy glory. May Thy blessing rest upon our meeting; and may all our hearts be this day quickened and encouraged to fresh and persevering efforts in Thy Service.

We ask these mercies for the glory of Thy Name, through the merits and mediation of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ; and would ascribe to Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, Three Persons in One God, everlasting praise. Amen.

Our Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil: For Thine is the kingdom, The power, and the glory, For ever and ever. Amen.

PRAYER USED AT THE OPENING OF MEETINGS OF THE HOME AND FOREIGN COMMITTEE

Almighty God, our heavenly Father, Who hast purchased to Thyself an Universal Church by the precious blood of Thy dear Son, we give Thee hearty thanks that it hath pleased Thee to call us to the knowledge of Thy grace and faith in Thee, and to appoint our lot in an age and country where the true light shineth. We bless Thee that Thou hast awakened us in some measure to feel our responsibilities. We praise Thee for what we have seen and heard of the power of Thy Word among the Heathen; we adore Thee for Thy many servants who have gone out from amongst us to toil, and suffer, and die in making known Thy salvation; and we thank Thee that Thou dost allow us, unworthy sinners, to unite together in this work of faith and labour of love.

We humbly confess our past lukewarmness in this Thy service, notwithstanding these Thine inestimable benefits and mercies. For our Lord Jesus Christ's sake, forgive us our past negligences, and so endue us with Thy Holy Spirit that we may more earnestly seek Thy glory in the salvation of souls.

Grant us, we beseech Thee, Thy very present help at these our meetings. We ask, most gracious God and Father, for a constraining sense of the love of the Lord Jesus, and for wisdom to direct us in all our endeavours. Increase upon us the spirit of power, and of love, and of a sound mind. Give us faith and courage; give us zeal and patience; give us a single eye to Thy glory; and help us to bear and to forbear. The silver and the gold are Thine, O King of kings! Supply us with what is needful for Thy great work, and make us faithful stewards of Thy bounty, for proclaiming to the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ.

We pray also for all who are united with us in the direction of this sacred cause.

May Thine especial blessing rest upon our Committees, with their Secretaries, throughout the world. Bestow on them the help that we feel so needful for ourselves. Enable them to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace, and ever to find favour in the sight of all with whom they may have to do.

Especially we beseech Thee to look, O most merciful Father, upon our missionary brethren. Draw out our hearts towards them more and more; and while they are bearing the burden abroad, give us grace to help and succour them by our sympathy and prayers at home. Bless every letter written to them from this house, and all our intercourse with them. We pray for them that they may be filled with Thy Spirit. Grant that the same mind may be in them which was also in Christ Jesus. Let them never lose their first love. Raise them above the cares of this world. Help them to deny themselves and to endure all things for the elect's sake. Give them the tongue of him that is taught. Clothe them with humility. Teach them to follow peace with each other, and with all men. Support them under spiritual distresses, temptations of the adversary, bodily sickness, domestic anxieties, and hope deferred. And so confirm Thy Word from their lips by the power of the Holy Ghost, that through them multitudes may be turned from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto Thee, our God.

We commend to Thee the missionaries' children entrusted to our charge. Bring them all to a saving knowledge of Christ Jesus. Defend them with Thy heavenly grace that they may continue Thine for ever, and daily increase in Thy Holy Spirit more and more, until they come unto Thy everlasting kingdom. Give all needed grace to those who have the direction of the Home in the discharge of the arduous work with which Thou hast been pleased to entrust them.

We most heartily thank Thee, O Lord, for those whom Thou hast already sent forth through this Society; and we pray for a yet larger outpouring of a missionary spirit on our younger clergy, on the members of our Universities, on those who are elsewhere preparing for this holy work, on the young men and women of all ranks and orders throughout our land. And herein do we implore Thy special favour on our training institutions, that their numbers may be replenished continually: and that none may go forth from them but such as shall be able ministers of the New Testament, full of faith, and of the Holy Ghost.

We praise Thee, O Thou God of all grace, for the converts, the native catechists, and the native clergy, whom Thou hast granted to us in our several Missions. As Thou hast raised the native Churches thus far, bring them, we pray Thee, to full ripeness and perfectness of age in Christ. Pour out upon them Thy Holy Spirit. Stablish, strengthen, settle them, and so enlarge their liberality that they may both maintain Thy Word among themselves and may make it known to the regions beyond them, till all the Gentiles hear the glad tidings of Thy love.

And now, O Lord God, be Thou in the midst of us to-day. Give us a constant sense of Thy presence, and may all our undertakings be begun, continued, and ended in Thee, to the honour of Thy great Name, for the sake of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

LAWS OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY FOR AFRICA AND THE EAST

(As revised at a Special Meeting of Members of the Society, held on 11 February, 1919)

I. THIS Institution shall be designated "The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East"; and shall be conducted by a Patron or Patrons, a Vice-Patron, a President, Vice-Presidents, a COMMITTEE, and such Officers as may be deemed necessary, all being Members of the Established Church of England or of Churches in communion therewith.

II. The office of PATRON of the Society shall be reserved for Members of the Royal Family; and that of VICE-PATRON for His Grace the Primate of all England, if, being a Member of the Society, he shall accept the office. The PRESIDENT shall be such Temporal Peer or Commoner as may be appointed to that office, and VICE-PRESIDENTS shall consist of all Archbishops and Bishops of the Churches of England and Ireland, who, being Members of the Society, shall accept the office; and of such other persons as, being also Members, shall be appointed thereto by the COMMITTEE.

OF MEMBERS AND GOVERNORS

III. Annual Subscribers of One Guinea and upwards, and if Clergymen Half-a-Guinea, with Collectors of One Guinea and upwards, per annum, shall be Members of the Society during the continuance of such Subscriptions or Collections. Benefactors of Ten Guineas, and upwards, in one sum shall be Members for Life.

IV. Annual Subscribers of Five Guineas shall be Governors during the continuance of such Subscription; and Benefactors of Fifty Pounds, and upwards, in one sum, shall be Governors for Life.

V. Subscriptions and Benefactions shall confer the same privileges whether paid to the Society direct or through an Auxiliary or Association.

VI. The COMMITTEE may appoint such persons as have rendered essential services to the Society, either Honorary Governors for Life, or Honorary Members for Life.

OF GENERAL MEETINGS

VII. An Annual Meeting of the Members of the Society shall be held in London, on the Tuesday next before the first Wednesday in May; when the proceedings of the foregoing year shall be reported, the Accounts presented, and the Treasurer and elected Members of the COMMITTEE chosen. Whenever any vacancy in the office of Treasurer shall occur, the COMMITTEE may fill up the vacancy, for the interval between the occurrence of such vacancy and the next Annual Meeting.

VIII. The COMMITTEE may summon a Special General Meeting of the Members of the Society, at which not less than Thirty shall constitute a Quorum, at any time, and they shall do so on receipt of a requisition in writing, addressed to the Secretaries, and signed by not less than Fifty Members of the Society, and specifying the object of the Meeting. Ten days' notice shall be given in three London Daily Newspapers, and in two other Newspapers, of any such intended Meeting, and of the purpose for which it is called; which shall be deemed sufficient publicity.

IX. None of the Laws of the Society shall be repealed or altered, nor any new ones made, but at the Annual Meeting, or at a Special General Meeting called for that purpose.

X. An Anniversary Sermon shall be preached at some Church in London, by a Clergyman appointed by the COMMITTEE. An Annual Report of the Society shall be printed for the use of its Members.

OF THE COMMITTEE

XI. The COMMITTEE shall consist of the following, being Members of the Established Church of England or of Churches in communion therewith.

(a) Twenty-four laymen and twelve women being Members of the Society, and twelve Honorary Members for Life being women, elected at the Annual Meeting.

(b) All Clergymen who are Members of the Society and have been so for not less than one year.

(c) All Honorary Governors for Life, and all such other Governors as have been so for not less than one year.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being Members of the Established Church of England or of Churches in communion therewith), a Home and Foreign Committee, a Finance Committee, and a Patronage Committee, and shall have power to fill up vacancies.

XIII. Each of the said Committees shall keep Minutes of its Proceedings, and shall make such reports of its proceedings to the COMMITTEE as the COMMITTEE shall require.

XIV. The COMMITTEE shall appoint annually a Committee of Estimates.

XV. The office of the Home and Foreign Committee is (in the Home Department) to provide literature and to circulate information respecting the Society; to seek for proper missionary Candidates; to adopt means of obtaining Subscriptions, Benefactions, and Collections in Churches, and Chapels, and at Meetings; to take a general oversight of the Associations; and to nominate, from time to time, to the COMMITTEE, suitable persons to act as Agents and Representatives of the Society for these objects, and (in the Foreign Department) generally to direct the foreign work of the Society, to report on the need for new Missionaries, to supervise the training of Candidates, to nominate Missionaries to the COMMITTEE, to superintend their instruction, when necessary, and to recommend their location.

XVI. The office of the Finance Committee is, generally, to superintend the accounts and financial affairs of the Society, and from time to time to note and to report to the COMMITTEE how far the expenditure corresponds with the sanctioned Estimates.

XVII. The office of the Patronage Committee is to procure patronage and support to the Society: and to nominate to the COMMITTEE proper persons as Patrons, President, Treasurer, Vice-Presidents, Honorary Life Governors, Honorary Life Members of the Society, and the preacher of the Anniversary Sermon, also the Secretaries, Departmental Secretaries, and the Heads of the Society's Home Institutions.

XVIII. The Home and Foreign Committee shall appoint from among themselves a Candidates Committee, and may appoint at their discretion other Committees, for the examination of Missionary Candidates.

XIX. Subject to the control of the COMMITTEE, the Home and Foreign Committee, the Finance Committee, and the Patronage Committee respectively, may delegate any of their duties to Sub-Committees elected from among themselves and may authorize such Sub-Committees to report direct to the COMMITTEE. Subject in each case to the previous sanction of the COMMITTEE there may be added to any Sub-Committee appointed under this law a limited number of Members of the Society not being Members of the Committee appointing them.

XX. The COMMITTEE may make bye-laws and from time to time vary regulations as to the conduct of business by themselves and by the other Committees, and subject to and so far as not inconsistent with any such bye-laws and regulations for the time being in force, the COMMITTEE shall receive and deal with the Reports of the other Committees, shall decide upon the countries where Missions shall be carried on, and shall superintend and control the affairs of the Society in general. The COMMITTEE may authorize any of the Committees appointed under Law XII, and with the consent of the appointing Committee any Sub-Committee to deal with and dispose of any matters and classes of matters the consideration of which falls within its province, reporting its action to the next meeting of the COMMITTEE. Subject to the control of the COMMITTEE, every Committee may make regulations for its own government, and may appoint Sub-Committees and fix their quorum.

XXI. The COMMITTEE shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well-conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject in the case of the appointment of Secretaries, to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting. One, at least, of the Secretaries shall be a layman.

XXII. The COMMITTEE shall have power to acquire property of every description for the purposes of the Society, and to invest the funds of the Society as they may deem expedient, and to vest all or any portions of the property and funds of the Society in the Church Missionary Trust Association, Limited, or in such Trustee or Trustees, or corporate body, as they may in each case think fit.

XXIII. The COMMITTEE shall meet on such regular day in every month as shall be from time oim fixed by the COMMITTEE, and oftener if needful. The other Committees shall meet as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on. All Committee Meetings shall be opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable Prayers.

XXIV. The Patrons, Vice-Patron, President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, and Secretaries shall be ex-officio Members of the COMMITTEE and of the Committees appointed under Law XII.

XXV. Five Members personally present shall form a quorum of the COMMITTEE; and Three of each of the Committees provided for in Law XII; in each case exclusive of the Secretaries; in all other Committees and Sub-Committees the quorum shall be Three unless otherwise fixed by the Committee appointing. In cases of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote. Every Committee may act notwithstanding vacancies.

XXVI. All orders for payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Two Members of the Finance Committee and countersigned by the Lay Secretary, or in his absence by one of the other Secretaries. The Finance Committee shall have power from time to time to advance to the Lay Secretary such sums for interim payments as may in their opinion be required.

XXVII. The accounts of the Society shall be audited and reported upon by Public Accountants appointed by the COMMITTEE; and Five Honorary Auditors shall be appointed annually by the COMMITTEE for the purpose of considering the Reports of Public Accountants, and of making recommendations thereon, and generally on the Accounts to the COMMITTEE once at least in every year. The Honorary Auditors shall be Members of the Society, not more than two of them being elected Members of the COMMITTEE.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXVIII. Every offer for Missionary Service shall be referred by the Secretaries either to the Home and Foreign Committee or in the first instance to the Candidates Committee under rules laid down by the Home and Foreign Committee; and the Home and Foreign Committee shall have power to deal with the offer, both as to the "training" and as to the nomination as a "Missionary" of the Candidate. Provided that no one shall be sent out as a Missionary without having been approved by the Home and Foreign Committee, and without, as a general rule, having appeared before them.

XXIX. Candidates nominated by the Home and Foreign Committee and accepted by the COMMITTEE, shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for their future employment as the Home and Foreign Committee shall judge expedient.

XXX. Candidates shall consider themselves engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time that the COMMITTEE shall decide, and be subject to such regulations as may be established by the COMMITTEE for the direction of the Missionaries; respect, however, being had to their personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by them with the Society.

XXXI. Men who have been duly prepared and finally approved for Missionary work, shall go out, either ordained or unordained, at the discretion of the COMMITTEE.[1]

XXXII. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of the Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the COMMITTEE. After having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the COMMITTEE, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, such provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable as in the judgment of the COMMITTEE is suitable. The COMMITTEE shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support. The COMMITTEE shall be further empowered in special cases to make such arrangements with those employed by them as they may think fit.

GENERAL

XXXIII. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXIV. All questions relating to matters of Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, respecting which a difference shall arise between a Bishop abroad and the COMMITTEE, shall, in the absence of any tribunal having legal cognizance of the same, be referred to the Archbishops and Bishops of the Provinces of Canterbury and York, whose decision thereupon shall be binding upon the Society and its agents, and representatives.

The proposed reference shall be made by the COMMITTEE, through his Grace the Primate, accompanied by such explanations and statements as the COMMITTEE may deem advisable.

XXXV. The object of the preceding Law being only to provide a mode of settling questions relating to Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline as to which no provision has yet been made by the Society, it is not to be so construed, as in any other respect to alter the principles and practices of the Society, as they are contained in its Laws.

XXXVI. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon its designs: under the full conviction, that, unless He "prevent us, in all our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," the Society cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

[1] Note based on Memorandum by Rev. H. Venn, 1839.—The Bishops of the Church of England under the authority of the law of the land ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] the Society's Missionaries; and in the event of their being appointed by the COMMITTEE to labour at stations within the jurisdiction of a Bishop of the Church of England abroad, it is the practice of the Society to apply to the Bishop for licences in which are specified the districts to which the Missionaries have been assigned. This is done on the understanding that licences will neither be refused nor when granted be withdrawn from the Missionaries during their connexion with the Society, except for some assigned legal cause.

NOTES.—TABLE I. Col. 11. A station is a place where at least one foreign missionary resides regularly, or an ordained native with a similar status and responsibility. Different points of occupation in a city are considered as one station. Col. 12. An out-station is a place, other than a station, with a resident native agent.
Col. 13. Organized congregations are normally those sending delegates to church councils which have taken a permanent form.
Col. 14. Communicants are counted again as baptized adherents. Col. 17. Definite instruction is contrasted with mere church attendance.
TABLE II. Cols. 23–27. Teachers are those devoting the greater part of their time to educational work.
Cols. 25 and 26. The Christians among these are included in figures under columns 8 and 9 (Table I).
Col. 27. The non-Christian teachers are included in columns 25 and 26.

LIST OF STATIONS AND MISSIONARIES

On 1 June 1919

 A STATION is a place where at least one foreign missionary resides regularly, or an ordained native with a similar status and responsibility, so that the place may be occupied by him in one year and by a foreign missionary in another. The main stations (where there is more than one in a Mission) in the following list are prefaced by a numeral to promote facility of reference in using the index on p. xcvii. The post-town of each station, when it is known, is given in parenthesis after the name of the station, except in cases where the station is itself a post-town. Where not otherwise stated, it may be assumed that the stations which are not numbered have the same post-town as the main stations after which they appear. For Palestine, where there is no delivery of letters, it is desirable to address letters intended for the stations which are not numbered to the "care of" one of the missionaries at the main station. The figures immediately after the name of the station or post-town refer to the year in which the station was first occupied. The word "vacant" under the name of a station indicates that there was no European missionary or native clergyman resident there on 1 June, 1919.

The figures after the names of the European and Colonial labourers show the year of their first sailing for the Society's Missions, or of their reception into connexion in the field. Missionaries' wives take the status of their husbands as concerns local connexion. The university or college of the workers is indicated after their names, and the nature of their work is shown in some cases after the date of their joining the staff.

The figures after the names of natives (clergymen or laymen), show the date of ordination as deacon, or of acceptance as a missionary.

The terms "Hon." and "Partly Hon.," in parenthesis, after the name of a missionary, mean that such missionary draws no allowances, or only a portion of the usual allowances. In the case of the Colonial Associations the missionaries have been selected, and, when necessary, also trained by the Associations, by which likewise they are supported in the field. The Canadian C.M.S. also has selected men and women for the Society's Missions, but they are sent out and supported by the Missionary Society of the Canadian Church, of which the Canadian C.M.S. is financially an integral part. In nearly all the instances referred to, the C.M.S. is responsible for all other than personal allowances, as well as for the expenditure which is involved in the maintenance of the work.

The maiden names of wives of European and Colonial missionaries, and the year of marriage, when known, are given in parenthesis. In the case of each woman who was a missionary of the Society before marriage, the Mission in which she laboured and the year of joining it are stated; and in the case of a woman who was a missionary of another society, the initials indicating the society are given, as well as the country in which she worked and year of joining. Wives of missionaries are always expected by the Society to lay themselves out to do good among the native women in every practicable way, such as by cultivating familiar intercourse with them, educating children, and instructing the adult women.

The names of missionaries in the field are placed under the stations at which they were working on 1 June, 1919. The names of those who were then at home, or on the way home, or on the way out, are placed under the stations at which they last resided, save that those who were then on the way out and had been assigned to some other stations are put under those stations, and those who were on extended leave appear under a special heading at the end of their Missions. The names under each station are printed in order of date, without reference to nationality, sex, orders, or other difference; except that the secretaries of Missions are placed first in order at the stations where they reside, and wives of missionaries are placed immediately after their husbands. The names of the clergy of the Sierra Leone Native Church and of the district councils in Nigeria and South India are arranged alphabetically.

At the end of the list are given the names of accepted missionaries who have not yet sailed.

The following signs and abbreviations are used :—

* "Own Missionary," that is, connected with, and, as regards personal allowances, wholly or partially supported by, individual friends of the Society or by the associations or other bodies whose names are given in brackets [thus ( )].

† Local connexion, that is, that the offers of service were accepted by the Society's representatives in the several Missions, or, in Canada, by the Canadian bishops.

‡ Supported by native church funds, which are in most instances aided by the Society.

THE ANNUAL SERMON

BY THE

REV. ALBERT AUGUSTUS DAVID, D.D.,
HON. CANON OF COVENTRY
Head Master of Rugby and a Vice-President of the Society

"AND THIS IS LIFE ETERNAL, THAT THEY SHOULD KNOW THEE THE ONLY TRUE GOD, AND HIM WHOM THOU DIDST SEND, EVEN JESUS CHRIST."—St. John XVII. 3, R.V.

"GOD, HAVING OF OLD TIME SPOKEN UNTO THE FATHERS IN THE PROPHETS BY DIVERS PORTIONS AND IN DIVERS MANNERS, HATH AT THE END OF THESE DAYS SPOKEN UNTO US IN HIS SON."—Heb. i. 1, R.V.

IN Jesus' environment God was the great reality. He was more acutely conscious of the presence of God than of any other presence in the world. He could communicate with Him easily. He was immediately sensitive to His will. In other words, He was alive to God.

This life He gives to men. He calls it life eternal. It is possible to begin now, and to continue for ever, to live unto God as He did, seeing Him as plainly as we see each other, communicating with Him as readily as with our fellow-men, feeling the influence of His will on us, and giving Him in prayer the influence of ours.

But this life unto God depends on knowledge of God. Among ourselves we are not alive to those we do not know. I see a man, I speak to him, and hear his answer. But till I am aware what lies behind the outward form, the spoken word, his effect on me is transient and slight. Only by long continued intercourse will he gradually reveal to me his character, his powers, his inner self. Not till then, not till I know him, is he real to me, or I alive to him.

To mankind God has been revealing Himself from the beginning by divers portions and in divers manners. By slow steps has mankind accepted the portions, and discerned the manners, and discovered Him. Who shall say how many generations from the beginning until now have grasped each what it could understand, working it out in their lives, working it into their souls ?

Let me direct your attention to two groups of ideas about God which men have worked out for themselves in two more or less successive stages. Then let us glance forward to a third stage, and a third group, that remain.

In the first stage, broadly speaking, men had to learn the lesson of God's power. He reigns supreme, first in the tribe, then in the nation, then in all the earth. They were helped to learn it by the analogy of their own rulers. Theirs were the days of autocracy. It seemed natural to them that one man should have supreme power over groups and masses of his fellow-men. A patriarch or king controlled the lives of his family or subjects. Their fate was in his hands. His slightest wish must be obeyed. In theory he could do exactly as he pleased. It was theirs to submit or rebel. Thus when they tried to imagine the Lord of all the world, they tended to think of Him like that, like one of their own potentates, infinitely greater, but with the same irresponsible power, put forth without strain, without suffering. There He sat (so it seemed to some), serene, untroubled, safe above the miseries and labours of the world below.

You will see at once why I have put the matter thus crudely. For uncorrected this analogy led them wrong. And the language about God which we have inherited still leads some of us wrong. Such titles as "King of kings and Lord of lords" and "Sovereign Commander of all the world" suggest to the unthinking misleading associations, as of an almighty despot imposing his authority from above, overwhelming obstacles, suffering no opposition, forcing enemies to submit, if only he will. Is not that conception at the root of many difficulties in popular theology about the relation of God to this war ? "If He is Almighty, why did He not stop it ? "

But even among the men of old time the analogy was corrected. Side by side with the revelation of God's power, thus in spite of mistakes established in the mind of man, ran the revealing of His love. Prophets spoke of God the Husband, wedded to His people, of God the Father, yearning for His children's love. Psalmists sang of God the Shepherd, and the Friend. Of this growing conviction Jesus took hold, and with startling boldness transferred to it the whole emphasis of His teaching. Mankind had learnt that God is Power, now they must learn that God is Love.

And again we see a relation with human politics. He points it Himself. "Jesus called them to Him, and saith unto them, Ye know that they which are accounted to rule over the Gentiles exercise lordship over them; and their great ones exercise authority upon them. But so shall it not be among you; but whosoever will be great among you, shall be your minister; and whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all."

Thus, through His disciples, He spoke to the rulers of men, and not in vain. Our great ones in Church and State are they that bear the heaviest burden because they serve. Thus has the western conception of leadership replaced the autocracy of the East. Thus has the discovery of God the Son working with His children and suffering their pains reacted on human government and made of it a nobler thing.

Such are the two groups of ideas about God which mankind has mastered and possessed. And we at the end of these days have fused them into one. To us God is Almighty, not because He does at all times whatsoever pleases Him, but because He can and does endure to the utmost for the men He loves, and can wait with unconquerable patience for their response. God the Father above us, the embodiment of power, reigning, ordering, disposing; and God the Son among us, leading, and therefore working and suffering; these two are One.

But is that enough? We know already that it is not. "God above" and "God among" is still outside mankind. Christ until He died was still as it were a part of the external world. Having died, He came again to dwell not among us only, but within. "If we love one another, God dwelleth in us." "Ye are a temple of the living God, even as God said, I will dwell in them." From the Father and the Son proceeds the Holy Spirit. To comprehend Him so is a piece of after-knowledge that completes the human vision of the Most High. God within us. It remains for us to recognize Him there.

Are we doing it? How many are our opportunities! Every experience each of us has of common life, of corporate life, which means a larger life, will help. Here is an individual experience described in better words than I can find, by Hugh Walpole in "The Secret City": "Have you never felt when you have been swept into the interaction of some group of persons that you were being employed as a part of a figure that without you would be incomplete? The figure is formed. For an instant it remains, gigantic, splendid, towering above mankind as a symbol, a warning, a judgment, a threat. Dimly you recognize that you have played some part in the creation of that figure, and that living for a moment as you have done in some force outside your individuality, you have yet expressed that same individuality more nobly than any poor assertion of your own small lonely figure could afford. You have been used, and now you are alone again. You were caught up and united to your fellow-men. God appeared to you, not as you had expected in a vision cut off from the rest of the world, but in a revelation that you shared, and that was only revealed because you were uniting with others. And yet your individuality was still there, strengthened, heightened, purified."

That is the experience of all who have risen above themselves into a larger life. And our social world to-day is rich in larger life. And what of our political development? Is there for us also in these last days a human analogy by which God can continue a revelation of Himself? The answer is plain. We are to witness and to share a new ruling power, different from those hitherto experienced and conceived, no longer vested in one man as of old, perhaps depending less on leadership than of late. Leaders we must have, and God will send them. But perhaps we have relied too much on leaders, and the rank and file will soon be not so far behind. Anyhow, power will be diffused. And Love? Can that too operate in the mass? There is much to encourage the hope. The world is moving up to unity. Why? Some would set it down to policy, to enlightened self-interest, to fear of future wars. But we here at least will look for a deeper cause than these. It is the stirring of God, the stirring of Love, within men. It is one answer to Jesus' prayer "that they may be one, even as We are." And in the Churches, where unity ought to be so easy and is so hard, we may surely say that there is stronger yearning and intenser prayer to be one at least in spirit than there has ever been before. Will it not be a shame on us, a shame to Christ, if we are left behind the world in striving for it?

Thus still in divers manners are we made aware that God is "teaching us all things," and leading us to the perfect knowledge of Himself, which is eternal life. And we whose desire is one with Christ's desire for the building of His Body in all the world, we of all men must diligently seek the knowledge of God Who dwells in men. I am concerned to-day neither with missionary appeal nor with missionary policy. But I earnestly wish to point to myself and to you one line of missionary thought. We are called to it not only for the sake of our particular cause, but for the sake of the whole world's life unto God. And for renewed knowledge of Him on which the more abundant life depends the time is ripe. We have been in the depths. Whenever men are brought low shall they not rise, if at all, to a higher vision of God? It has often been so. Men have gone down into depressions only to ascend to heights to which it seems they cannot attain from the dead level of prosperity. From our new height can be caught, must be caught, a more glorious sight of Him. Shall we not lead the way to it?

This knowledge of "God within"—let us study it among ourselves. If we were aware of God within our fellow-Christians would our differences loom so large? "There are diversities of gifts, and diversities of workings"—yes, and of expression and interpretation too—"but the same Spirit, and the same Lord."

Let us study it among those to whom we are sent. Not only does God Who made them claim them for His own, not only does Christ Who died for them draw them to Himself, but also God desires them for His dwelling-place. Into them He has breathed the breath of life, and He waits to live a more abundant life in them when they shall live to Him.

Let us study it in His dealings with them. Even now we see the Holy Spirit moving as He listeth and almost without our aid from man to man in mighty multitudes. Our eyes are seeing the promise fulfilled: "I will pour out My Spirit upon all flesh."

Let us study it with awe and reverence in the mind of God Himself. To reign supreme is not enough for Him. To lead the host of soldiers and servants is not enough for Him. He cannot be satisfied until in Power as in Love He is alive and active in the whole mass of mankind.

PROCEEDINGS AT THE 120TH ANNIVERSARY

At the Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society, held at Queen's Hall, Langham Place, London, on Tuesday, 6 May, 1919, being the Society's 120th Anniversary, COLONEL SIR R. WILLIAMS, Bt., M.P., President, in the Chair, after reading of Scripture and Prayer, "The General Review of the Year" was presented, and, on the motion of Major-General E. R. Kenyon, C.B., C.M.G., seconded by the Rev. Preb. the Hon. W. Talbot Rice, the following Resolution was adopted :—

That the General Review of the Year which has just been presented, together with the Report, be adopted, printed, and circulated under the direction of the Committee ; that the thanks of the Meeting be given to the Rev. Canon A. A. David, D.D., for his Sermon before the Society last evening, and that it be printed and circulated ; that Sir T. F. Victor Buxton, Bt., be the Treasurer of the Society ; and that the following be elected members of the Committee for the ensuing year (for list see p. vii).

After which, on a motion by the Rt. Hon. H. Pike Pease, M.P., Assistant Postmaster-General, seconded by the Rev. Canon E. A. Hensley, Central Provinces, India, it was resolved :—

1. That the members of the Society assembled at this 120th Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society offer praise to God for the gift of victory and the new hope of peace and goodwill. They thank Him for His grace towards the Churches in the mission field through anxious days of stress and danger, for His protecting care over their missionary brethren in Christ, and for the continued ingathering of converts ; they rejoice at the spirit of courage and sacrifice manifested both abroad and at home in generous giving and in abundant service at a time of fierce trial and strain.

They also praise God for the knowledge that He reigneth, be the earth never so unquiet, and that, in the Gospel entrusted to His servants, there is redemption for the individual, healing for the world's wounds and sorrows, power superior to all the forces of evil, a standard of righteousness for the nations, brotherhood which can bind together men of all races, and abundant life for all mankind. They recognize that the war and its consequences emphasize the ever-present challenge to proclaim that Gospel at once and effectually, and they acknowledge that this challenge can find adequate response only in a fuller and more sustained offering of life and all its powers to Christ than the Church has made heretofore.

They therefore resolve, by God's grace, To renew their consecration to the task of proclaiming the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ throughout the world in obedience to His command ; To do their utmost to exalt Christ, to bring His spirit to bear upon all the relationships of life here at home, and to live as world citizens called to share in the fulfilment of God's eternal purpose ; To call men and women to such a thankoffering of their lives in service to Christ that, through them, His will may be done, whether in the mission field or at home.

2. In view of the following facts which vitally concern the C.M.S. : (a) The gathering strength of great movements, affecting the religious, social, and economic life of mankind, fraught with vast possibilities for good or evil in so far as they are controlled by the spirit of Christ, or by the spirit of the world ; (b) The existence of large numbers of Christians in the mass movement areas who through lack of Christian shepherding, have only partially emerged from their heathen outlook and life ; (c) The opportunities for extension and urgent calls to undertake new work, such as the care of mission stations formerly worked by German societies in India and East Africa ; (d) The inability during the years of war to fill many of the 187 gaps in the ranks of our missionaries caused by death or retirement ; (e) The great increase in the cost of maintaining even the present work, necessitating at least £100,000 per annum increased income ;

They resolve: To plead for offers of service, especially from trained leaders, educationists, doctors, and nurses; To consider seriously whether they cannot double, or largely increase their own gifts, and to do their utmost to persuade others to do likewise, with a view to raising the annual income of the Society to at least £500,000; To take their part in the Thankoffering as an expression of their gratitude to God and their re-dedication to Him; To seek to bring home their privilege and duty to those who have hitherto taken little or no part in the work of the Church overseas.

3. Realizing the magnitude of the task, but strong in the knowledge that the impossible is possible because God reigns, and because all power is given to the Risen and Ascended Lord, they pray for that overcoming faith which makes available the resources of God and is the earnest of victory.

The following Meetings were also held in London in connexion with the Anniversary:—

On May 6 at the C.M. House, Salisbury Square, at 3 P.M. (for women), Lady Procter in the Chair;

And at Royal Albert Hall, South Kensington, at 7 P.M., the Lord Archbishop of Armagh in the Chair;

And on May 9, at Queen's Hall, Langham Place, at 7 P.M. (Medical Mission Auxiliary), J. Auriol Armitage, Esq., M.D., C.M., in the Chair.

Addresses were delivered at these meetings by the Bishop of Athabasca, the Bishop of Western Equatorial Africa, Bishop I. Oluwole (Western Equatorial Africa), the Rev. J. H. Linton (Persia), Drs. J. H. Lechler (Western China) and A. C. S. Smith (Uganda), Mrs. Marcus Wigram, M.B. (Punjab and Sindh), and the Misses A. M. Henty (Central Japan), D. J. Snelson (Central Provinces, India), and F. L. Thompson (Kiu-Shiu, Japan).

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE

General Review of the Year

[READ AT THE ANNIVERSARY IN QUEEN'S HALL, 6 MAY, 1919]

"This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."—1 John v. 4.

AN amazing victory has been gained. Since our last annual meeting our hearts have been attuned to praise, for world forces antagonistic to the Kingdom of Heaven have been broken. So sudden and so complete has been the victory granted to our armies in the field that men everywhere—and not least those in the actual fight—have seen in it the hand of God. To Him, therefore, we give our humble and heartfelt thanks. "Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto Thy name give glory."

As patriots we rejoice, but as Christians our chief concern is with the stage reached in the coming of the Kingdom of God. In one direction a spiritual foe has been overcome, but the world-spirit is still rampant, and a great cry is going up in many lands for a true kingdom of peace which cannot be shaken. Now, if ever, is the call for a victorious faith. Now, if at all, the appeal of world-conquest in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ must surely stir the armies of youth to a new enthusiasm of response and action.

Last year the Committee mentioned the growing recognition of the true character of the rival forces, and the signs of the approach of a supreme conflict. Their statement has been abundantly justified by the events of the year. The great war is at an end, but other expressions of the spirit behind the war are all too abundant. The alarming spread of Bolshevism marks the strength of the disintegrating force of the great world-spirit. This is but one instance, but it indicates how severe will be the struggle. For us, however, the final issue is never in doubt. The hope of the coming of the Kingdom of Christ and of the King Himself is brighter than ever. Love divine must ultimately triumph. Christ has overcome the world. Faith in Him, combined with the glorious fact of His faith in us, and this alone, will bring us the life and the joy of human brotherhood.

A new phase

Entering as we are into a new phase of faith's age-long struggle, it is fitting that we should contrast the situation now with that of five years ago. As we look to the foreign field we find much to hearten and inspire us. We thank God for a strong upsurging of new life among the outcastes of India and a rapid awakening of the pagans of West Africa. In storm-tossed China we see a growing confidence reposed in the followers of Christ. New windows are being opened in the world of womanhood throughout the East. In the minds of educated Mohammedans and high-caste Brahmans there is dawning slowly but surely a vision of the Christ. And to these gracious signs of the Holy Spirit's work must be added a heightened sense of responsibility in the native Churches everywhere. Evangelistic campaigns and a fast growing native leadership witness to this. We do not minimize the adverse signs—the increase of a materialistic spirit, the low moral standard of many Christians, the tendency of the new nationalism to regard the Christian religion as an alien plant, the strain of relationships due to the budding spirit of healthy independence in the young Churches. But we believe that the strong steady pressure of a Spirit-filled Church will yield immediate and far-reaching results.

Is there anything in the spiritual situation at home calculated to make us more hopeful than five years ago that this pressure will be exerted? We believe there is. Evil has been manifested in all its naked horror. New vitality has come into a belief in God that was waning. The overthrow of a false ideal of world-domination has begotten new confidence in the ultimate triumph of right. Men are ready as never before for service and sacrifice. The inter-dependence of nations to-day is all but universally recognized. Education in this respect, begun by the war, is being continued by Bolshevism. Ideas and ideals cannot now be confined within national frontiers. The propagandist zeal of the Bolshevists and their lavish expenditure of money in spreading their anti-social doctrines are demonstrating the fact that ideals which do not make converts abroad will cease to be a power at home.

We have but to add to this list the deepening desire for real brotherhood to see that the striking change in men's mental and spiritual outlook presents a favourable opportunity for pressing upon them the claims of Christ, and for calling them to a great adventure in the service of Him Who alone can redeem, in Whom alone men and nations can fully realize themselves.

The League of Nations

An outstanding event of the year—perhaps more important than the Armistice—is the decision of the Peace Conference to found a League of Nations. It marks an "unforgettable stage in the progress of the human race." Supporters of the C.M.S. can hardly fail to grasp its deep significance. It holds aloft before the world the ideal of human brotherhood for which they and their fathers have laboured for more than a hundred years. It does more than this. If the Covenant be ratified, conditions will be created friendly to the spread of this ideal. Only the voice of Christ can raise the dead, but the Covenant fulfilled will roll away stones of hindrance.

The necessity for guardianship of the weaker race is appreciated, but a mandatory State is never to rule for its own profit. Control is to be exercised in the light of open day. There must be no exploitation. Backward peoples must be protected from the evils of civilization, and traffic in alcohol, in arms, and in slaves prohibited. More important still, freedom of religion is to be guaranteed, and the full development of the native tribe or nation is to be a sacred trust for the stronger race. As we become aware of the full import of these conditions, we cannot but thank God and take courage. It is a preparation for the Gospel of peace.

India

With these thoughts on the general situation, we pass to a review of the march of events in the separate countries where the C.M.S. is at work. And India rightly holds the premier position. Her growing national consciousness has been at once recognized and furthered by the publication of the Montagu-Chelmsford Report. Though details of the scheme have been strongly criticized, the general plan for self-government has been welcomed by moderate opinion both in England and India. One real danger has, however, been revealed—the possible exploitation of the country by a Brahman oligarchy; and nothing in recent years has been so effective, particularly in South India, in shaking the general mass of Indians out of their immemorial apathy. Even the outcastes are alive to the danger. The emancipation of the depressed classes, mentally, socially and, above all, spiritually, is seen to be the one true safeguard.

Difficulties

Letters from missionaries reveal how many unlooked-for difficulties have hindered the steady work of evangelization during the year. Among these sickness easily holds the foremost place. Six million deaths have occurred through the influenza scourge alone, more than half as many as plague has caused during the twenty-two years that it has been epidemic in the country. "The whole district is one huge mortuary," writes one. And to this calamity have been added the rigours of famine through the failure of the south-west monsoon. A lurid light is cast on the people's sufferings by the reply of a mission agent to a suggestion that a poor woman's appetite should be increased by a tonic: "Memsahib, we absolutely can't afford it. We have only one meal a day and we daren't eat too much even then."

Another difficulty has arisen out of the large reduction of the missionary staff in order to meet war claims. Some have been working with the coolie corps, others as recruiting officers in the villages; even the task of editing the "United Provinces War Journal" (a government publication), with its weekly circulation of 120,000 copies, has fallen on the missionary staff. Workers on furlough have been unable to return; and those in the field, many with furlough long overdue, have almost reached breaking point. It is sober fact that from one cause and another the position of our colleges, divinity schools, and boarding schools has been rendered critical.

There is, however, another side to the story. Certain reactions to these troubles are plainly visible. One missionary writes: "The people's hearts are much softened, and they are more ready to listen to the Gospel than before." Another says: "The sickness has done one good thing. The people, where so many have died, have begun to sit loose to the custom of having a heathen feast after a death. Once this custom gets broken down for any reason it will probably be easier to keep the Christians from observing it." A third, speaking of a confirmation service held at Saigaon by the Bishop of Bombay, says: "What made it unique was that certain Hindus specially wished to attend and to return thanks by making offerings for answers to prayers. . . . At the time of the offertory these Hindus brought forward to the Bishop their gifts of sweetmeats and fruits and money, and they were presented at the Holy Table. God is evidently speaking to the Hindus there in this way." Good overcoming evil is seen in two other directions—the wide influence secured by Christians through their devoted work among the influenza sufferers, and the appointment of Indian workers in several instances to posts hitherto held by European missionaries.

Mass movements

The momentum of mass movements has in no way lessened. Outcastes from all over India clamour for Christian teaching, and seek entrance into the Christian fold by baptism. The Bishop of Madras in the "Mass Movement Quarterly" testifies to the tremendous social and spiritual uplift which Christianity is bringing to great numbers of these degraded people. The marks of the Christ-life—"justice, freedom, kindness, and a better life"—are seen wherever Christ is professed. A worker in Masulipatam writes:—

> Last month I visited five large villages where they wanted teachers. One of the villages is a very promising one, with over a hundred homes. Most of the people there have given up the worship at the shrine that was built in their midst about ten years ago, and which now is in a neglected condition. In another village the people are willing that a teacher should come and teach them about Jesus Christ, even under the shadow of their old gods and shrines—in fact, in the front room of the shrine itself. . . . I need at least fifteen teachers to take charge of village schools and congregations early next year, and yet I have only three coming out of the training school.

The same story—eagerness to become Christians and a dearth of teachers and pastors—is heard on every hand. But the chief emphasis in all the letters is on the increasing seriousness of our failure to overtake the proper care of these village Christians. From one province we read: "The Christians here are indeed but new-born babes, and the indifference and the proneness of many to idolatry are a sad grief to us all." From another: "What naturally strikes one on visiting these village congregations for the first time is their appalling ignorance. In the majority of cases they do not seem to understand even the most simple of Christian truths . . . ninety per cent are unable to read, nor is there much apparent desire to learn more about Christianity when once they have been baptized."

The need for consolidation and regular intensive work is the lesson deduced by most of these writers. This demand will receive careful and prayerful consideration; meanwhile the call to the Church at home is surely for a greater measure of self-sacrifice.

One encouraging feature calls for special notice. The Government have approached the C.M.S. authorities at Bezwada with a view to starting a school in which to train teachers for work in the elementary schools among the Panchamas or outcastes. The Bishop of Dornakal, commenting on the proposal, speaks of the evangelistic opportunity thus given as "simply immeasurable." The Government are supplying Rs 17,000 for this school, and the Gleaners' Union at home has gladly raised the balance of Rs 6500 (£500) needed for building and furniture.

The position among the educated Hindus as sketched by a missionary is illuminating:— The educated classes

> He is thoroughly loyal to the British Empire, though at the same time he is keen on some form of self-government. He is obsessed by politics almost to the entire exclusion of social and religious matters. Christian ideas are in the air, such as the unity of God, the folly of idolatry, the tyranny of caste, the goodness of God, and the principles of Christ's teaching, but there is no great movement towards Christianity as a religion. The solidarity of Hindu society is a matter on which the Hindu prides himself, and any attempt to break up the social structure such as conversion to Christianity involves, is met with the fiercest opposition. The two greatest obstacles to all religious and social reform are still the ignorance of their women and the revival of Hinduism in an expurgated form. While the present-day leaders in Hindu society profess to deprecate the former, and half-hearted attempts are made by them to set up girls' schools, they avowedly encourage the latter.

Among other items of interest must be mentioned the permanent inclusion of the Dummagudem C.M.S. district in the diocese of Dornakal, and the committing to the Bishop of Dornakal of the episcopal oversight of the whole of the Telugu Mission. Another sign of the times is to be seen in the Committee's transfer of the C.M.S. parochial property in Tinnevelly to the diocesan authorities as a centenary gift.

Ceylon

In Ceylon the centenary of the Society's Mission has been celebrated with rejoicing, Bishop Waller and Bishop Azariah taking part in many of the meetings and services which, it is hoped, have helped to deepen the spiritual life of the people and lead them to greater efforts to win their fellow-countrymen.

Mauritius

The work in another C.M.S. island Mission, that in Mauritius, is next month to be handed over to the diocesan authorities in accordance with an arrangement made ten years ago.

Africa
Nigeria

From the Christian point of view, Nigeria has become "a modern Uganda." Destined to a prosperous future through the development of its great natural resources, there is promise also that it will have a profound influence on the spiritual life of the whole of Africa. In the Southern Provinces the great movements towards Christianity continue, and during the year they have gathered rather than lost force in spite of grave hindrances through the war, influenza, and shortage of staff. During the year 2686 adult converts have been baptized in the Niger Mission alone, and 27,199 other persons were under instruction in December. At Igbara-Odo, in the Yoruba Country, the chief asked the Christians to help in cleaning his idol groves for a special idol festival. On remonstrance he answered: "What am I to do? there only remain the old men and women: you have taken all the young men and made them Christians." In both the Ekiti Country and the Owo district there is hardly a village without a church. At first the compelling motive is a desire for "something which will raise the people in the scale of civilization, though they hardly know what"; in the end it often leads to full allegiance to Christ. But this is hardly attained by the general body of Christians. The redeeming vision of Christ is indistinct, and the moral standard low. "Many have turned from idols, but not all have turned to God." The fault does not lie with the Africans themselves; the grace of God can save to the uttermost, however radical the needed change of outlook and life; the blame rests rather on the Church of Christ. These children in the faith are left to untrained teachers and evangelists, and Bishop Tugwell points out the great remedy—more missionaries to carry out the training of catechists and pastors.

This is the main problem where Mohammedanism is practically unknown—in the Ibo Country on the eastern bank of the Niger, and among the Ijaws, Shekiris, and Sobos in the Delta; but to the west of the river, in the Yoruba Country, the need for immediate and concentrated Christian pressure is the more urgent from the oncoming force of Islam. Fuller episcopal oversight will be one step towards the strengthening and consolidating of the Christian forces, and this will probably come in the near future through a division of the diocese.

Among the good signs must be reckoned the growth of self-support, a movement towards Christianity among the women, and the almost complete disappearance of the German traffic in spirits. There will, however, be little gain should British spirits take their place, and the Committee welcome the action of the Government in ordering that for the present no trade spirits be imported into the British West African Colonies. May this be but a preliminary step to permanent prohibition!

The Northern Provinces of Nigeria present an entirely different picture. They contain fewer than 600 baptized Christians connected with the Society, as compared with more than 77,000 in the remainder of the diocese. Advance is rendered difficult by the attitude of government officials. A missionary says: "The restrictions imposed by the British Administration not only seriously hamper the Christian worker, but tend to create the impression in the minds of chiefs and people that adherence to the Christian faith involves disloyalty to His Majesty's Government. This attitude in the Northern Provinces is a subject which calls for the immediate attention of the Church in England."

Uganda

The light still shines brightly in the Uganda Diocese, where 8796 persons received baptism in 1918, and is rapidly spreading among the Kavirondo tribes, a fine race of men, thoroughly independent in character, and, when won for Christ, full of evangelistic zeal. At Kisumu, for example, during last year there were 243 adult baptisms and 700 persons were admitted as catechumens. This was almost entirely due to the zeal of the converts, for there was only one paid teacher, and his services were lost before the end of the year owing to the famine. One Kavirondo, baptized in 1914, was called up as a military transport porter and stationed at Tabora. He so preached Christ to his fellow-workers that a military chaplain visiting there found twenty men fully prepared for baptism. In the Maseno district there are 6000 catechumens and only one clergyman. The work done and left undone can be dimly imagined.

East Africa

In East Africa, as elsewhere, the maintenance of the work of the German Missions remains an unsolved problem: our own missionaries are, however, going back to "German" East Africa, where the government Administrator has written letters recommending the speedy return of the ladies to their posts. In other parts of East Africa there are signs of progress. Many baptisms have been recorded; mission work among the women is on the increase; Christians through their service with the Missions Carrier Corps have been strengthened by the Christian brotherhood experienced. The Committee look with hope and confidence for even further and fuller development now that these Missions have the advantage of the oversight and counsel of Bishop Heywood.

The event of chief importance, however, in East Africa has been the holding of another conference of Christian leaders at Kikuyu. The conference of 1913 did much to focus men's minds on the world's need of a united Church; it also deepened desire. The conference of 1918 has taken a long step towards its attainment. True, the decisions become operative only in a comparatively small sphere, but, under God, the influence of such unifying force may be worldwide. A working alliance between the Church of Scotland Mission, the Africa Inland Mission, the United Methodist Church Mission, and the C.M.S. now only awaits the final sanction of the Church of Scotland Assembly. The members pledge themselves to foster the desire for an early union by every possible means. They also promise to prepare the way by standardizing the methods of their church organizations in such matters as district and parochial councils, and the training of catechumens and of pastors; and further they agree to certain conditions for the admission to, and the administration of, the sacraments. Full intercommunion is seen to be impossible at present, but all agree to welcome to the Lord's Table recognized communicants belonging to any of the allied societies who may be for the time isolated from the ministry of their own Church. The ideal of a united African Church, with no distinction between Europeans and Africans, is clearly presented, and the members passionately affirm that they will not "rest until they can all share one ministry." The realizing of the ideal is brought nearer by the formation of a representative council, to meet at least once a year; by the presence at the conference of many settlers and government officials and their warm-hearted support of the constitution; still more by the increased volume of prayer throughout the Church of Christ for the blessings and power of unity.

The Near East

Egypt

So far as it is known no bodily harm has been suffered by any of our missionaries during the recent disturbances—disturbances which, perhaps, would never have occurred if the Government had always observed a firm, though tolerant Christian attitude. In Egypt itself, to the Committee's regret, it has become necessary to close the school at Helouan owing to Miss P. A. Jackson's ill-health, but in the Northern Sudan prospects are brighter, as it has been possible to send out two women missionaries for educational work.

Palestine

A moving and impressive service was held in St. George's Cathedral, Jerusalem, on the signing of the Armistice. Christian, Jew, and Moslem met to give thanks to God for victory and to pray for wisdom in the face of the pressing problems of peace. Every community was represented. The service was conducted by the Society's Egypt missionary, the Rev. W. Wilson Cash, S.C.F., who has been awarded the D.S.O., and the Bishop's chaplain, the lesson being read by the military governor. Several missionaries, including the secretary of the Mission, were able to return during the year as workers connected with the Syria and Palestine Relief Fund, and reports from them speak of the widespread destruction and desolation left by the Turk. Testimony has also come to hand regarding the acceptable services rendered to our troops by the native pastors of the Palestine Church. To show their appreciation, English soldiers contributed gifts amounting to over £150.

Turkish Arabia

Official sanction has not yet been given for the re-opening of the Society's work in Mesopotamia. The Rev. Dr. E. E. Lavy, who has suffered from a severe attack of typhus fever, is still attached to the work of Armenian relief in Baghdad, and Miss E. E. Martin started in March for Mosul for work among the 10,000 Armenian refugees assembled there. On Christmas Day the 18th Division had a collection for the poorer C.M.S. folk in Mosul, and on Advent Sunday the whole force collected £850 for the Army Missionary Association. This will probably be divided between S.P.G. and C.M.S.

Persia

Work in Persia was carried on under conditions little short of prohibitive, for to political disturbances were added famine and disease. Fever, smallpox, cholera, and influenza claimed a heavy toll of victims during the year, and the under-staffed Mission was hard pressed to meet the many demands for aid. From Shiraz, place of sacred memories of Henry Martyn, has come a cheque for 500 krans, a gift from the European congregation for C.M.S. work in Kerman. Unfortunately, it has as yet been found impossible to send back any of the large number of women missionaries who have been detained at home during the war.

The Far East

The character of the new world of which all men speak to-day must be profoundly influenced by events in the Far East, and both in China and Japan the spiritual situation is obscure. One thing is, however, quite clear. If the Church is to be "more than conqueror" over the great world-spirit, she will need to be very faithful in prayer and in the gift of her best men and women.

China

China has had more than her share of the general unrest of the world, for she has been in the throes of civil war. The confusion has been worse confounded by disorderly soldiers and bandits over-running the whole land, while the people have suffered at the hands of all. In such chaos no progress has been possible either in constructive legislation or in industrial development. Corruption has been greater than ever, while the trade in opium in many parts has increased at an alarming rate. In January, however, the Chinese Government, which had purchased the balance of the opium stocks of Shanghai and Canton, caused half of it to be burned, and the remainder was to be destroyed forthwith. In the midst of this state of turmoil the Christian Church has proved itself a refuge from the storm. Not only have missionaries been generally free from molestation, but, in striking contrast with the experience of but a few years back, their compounds have sheltered thousands of Chinese in times of danger, while both the missionaries and Chinese Christians have acted as mediators between the bandits and their victims. Bishop Cassels writes from Szechwan:—

> In January the revolutionary troops (who in this part of the province were simply bands of outlaws who had associated themselves with the southern party) captured city after city, and on the eleventh took possession of Paoning. But by going out while the fighting was still proceeding and getting the opposing leaders together, I was able to obtain more favourable terms for the city and to prevent the suburbs being burnt down.
> A few days later I was all ready to start for Mienchuh to attend the C.M.S. conference. But the commercial guild and other leading men of the place waited on me and begged me not to leave the city just then as things were in a critical condition, and I might be able to help. So it seemed right for me to remain.

The unrest has afforded many opportunities for preaching the Gospel, and not without response. In some places the sale of Bibles and other Christian books has been extraordinary, and a great increase of friendliness towards the Church has been manifest. One missionary says: "The ground has been broken up and there is such an opportunity for the sower of the Word as there has not been for a long time." Another goes so far as to say: "We are suffering from an excess of popularity." The same letter, however, warns us against over sanguine hopes, for so far the real victories of the Cross have been few.

The normal work of the Church has been hindered considerably by the nation's unrest. Schools have been closed, evening meetings prevented by martial law, and sometimes the British consuls have forbidden missionaries to itinerate. In spite of all, however, there is much to encourage. Self-support is growing, the women's work is deeply influencing the vitality of the Church, and national weaknesses are being overcome by the grace of God. One sign of the power of Christ may be mentioned. A lecturer at the Chinese college in Changsha, a former student in Japan and London, baptized at Swanwick in 1915, has recently given up his lectureship, by which he was earning £30 a month, in order to be trained for ordination. While he was at the college he had thirty men in his Bible classes, one for teachers and one for students.

The hope for China is in a strong Chinese Church, with men and women of its own nationality as its leaders. Bishop Molony, describing the consecration of Archdeacon Sing Tsae-Seng as assistant bishop on October 2, speaks of it as "the event of the year, not only in our Chekiang Mission, but for the Chung Hua Sheng Kung Hui" (the Anglican Church in China).

Japan

In Japan the opposition to Christianity, of which mention was made last year, has in no way lessened. In some directions it has clearly increased. The spirit of nationalism still sides with the orces inimical to Christianity. Great pressure is brought to bear on the priests to stimulate Buddhism into new life, and response to the stimulus is seen in the effort to introduce into their religious life the methods and organization of the Christian Church. The winning of the children is their immediate objective, and not only have Buddhist Sunday schools been started in many places, but the work of the priests has been reinforced by the teachers in the elementary schools. The activities of these teachers has been a marked feature of the year under review. At one centre at least, a monthly magazine has been started, and the children have been taught the tenets of the Buddhist and Shinto religions and how to worship at the shrines. Even in our own school at Momoyama the belief that Christianity is anti-national is given as one explanation of the fact that no boy was baptized during 1918. The day is perhaps not far distant when the spirit of nationalism will become an effective ally of the Gospel, when the Church has practically proved that only in and through Christ can national life be fully developed.

But Christianity has had other foes in Japan—the step sisters, riches and poverty. In commercial centres men have been absorbed in a mad race for wealth, and not a few from the professional classes have left their metier for business. Rice has been "cornered," the prices of other commodities sympathetically increased, and by equal steps the poverty of the country folk rendered more acute. Long hours of work, increased riches, and the sting of extreme poverty, tell their inevitable tale in a state of mind irresponsive to the gospel appeal.

What adds to the seriousness of the outlook is the entrance of the world-spirit into the Church herself. Sunday observance is said to be "incompatible with modern demands and modern activities . . . and not in accord with Japanese customs and Japanese life." The prevalent business morality is tacitly accepted; indeed, many openly say that Christians must conform to the moral standards obtaining in the commercial world. And to these signs must be added the defence set up by some Christians of sharing in the heathen worship at local shrines.

There is another side to the story. Attempts to resuscitate Buddhism are often but short-lived, and the feeling grows that it will never satisfy. As one writer puts it: "There is a 'hunger' among those who are not Christians." Encouragement of a more positive kind is also to hand. Many have been led to Christ through the evangelistic meetings of Mr. Kanamori and Mr. Uchimaura, and missionaries in their letters often single out instances of Christianity at once vital and uncompromising.

These isolated facts are encouraging, but the fact remains that in Japan there are no signs yet of a "breaking through."

The ordinary expenditure of the year just closed has been

The Home Base Finances

£412,848, and, in addition, auxiliary contributions have been paid out to the amount of £18,143, making a total of £430,991, as compared with £355,687 plus £11,689, or £367,376 in all, in the previous year. The estimates for the year (which take no account of auxiliary contributions) provided for an expenditure of £357,556, as compared with £346,141 for 1917-18, an increase of only £11,415, but the total increase in the ordinary expenditure has proved to be £57,161. The difference in the main is due to the following increases which could not have been foreseen in October, 1917, when the estimates were passed: Loss on exchange, £30,000; increased allowances to missionaries and native workers, higher cost of passages, etc., £18,770; collection and administration, £5465. The last item may seem large, but the increased cost of everything has affected the Society's expenditure, just as it has that of every business man and householder. The receipts have amounted to £440,370. After deducting £34,881, received for the Thankoffering Fund, there remains £405,489, or only £1600 less than the ordinary income of 1917-18, which was the largest the Society has hitherto received. To this sum must be added £59,230, the amount of appropriated and auxiliary balances, brought forward from 1917-18—making a total of £464,719. Against this must be charged (a) appropriated and auxiliary balances which have to be carried forward, £75,327; (b) auxiliary contributions paid out or invested, £18,242; and (c) £17,400, the amount of legacies received above average of last five years; making a total of £110,969. This leaves £353,750 to meet the expenditure of £412,848. There was, therefore, a deficiency of £59,098 in the available income for 1918-19, to which must be added the balance of the old deficit of £22,445—a total encroachment to the extent of £81,543 on the Working Capital of £136,157.

Seeing that they were faced with two or three difficult years during which income and expenditure would gradually have to be adjusted, the Committee have allocated £125,000 of the Thankoffering Fund for this purpose, and, believing that this will be provided, they are not at present keeping back any missionaries or ordering any restriction of the work. The Committee are very sensible of the earnest and self-denying efforts which have been made by multitudes of their friends, but in view of the great rise in prices, which affects the cost of the Society's work both at home and abroad, they must make it known that a very large increase in income will be required if necessary extensions are to be made, or even existing work maintained. The Committee would appeal to all their supporters who are at all able to do so to double their contributions, and at the same time to do their utmost to secure fresh support, that this work for God may not be hindered.

The expenditure of the Medical Mission Auxiliary was £41,717, which was more than covered by the receipts.

Re-arrangement of committees

Much thought and labour have been expended on the machinery at the home base. Certain weaknesses had become apparent. It was felt that the various committees were not sufficiently representative of the whole constituency; that the home and foreign work needed a closer co-ordination; and that C.M.S. supporters in the northern province should be brought into more vital contact with the Society as a whole. Under the present arrangements the chief difficulties in bringing this about were the time taken and the expenditure incurred by members in frequent visits to Salisbury Square. A new scheme has been drawn up which, it is believed, will attain the object in view. By it the Home and Foreign Committees are combined in one; this and the General Committee are to meet once a month on consecutive days; the personnel of the committees will be much more truly representative of the whole Society; and a secretary will be appointed and charged with the administration of the Society's work in the northern province.

Peace thankoffering

The other outstanding fact of the year has been the decision to appeal for a thankoffering for God's gracious gifts of victory and peace. The world's statesmen are building anew the fabric not of Europe only but of the human race. The Committee know that such reconstruction depends upon evangelization, and have therefore issued an appeal for a sacrificial gift of men and money. With regard to the latter, the Committee ask for a large increase of the permanent income of the Society, and a special contribution of £500,000. A large proportion of this will be devoted to mass movement work in India and Africa and to the education of Indian Christians, while a part will go to making good the ravages of war in Palestine, Mesopotamia, and East Africa.

Mention must also be made of an attempt to bring the world's need of Christ before the men in the Army and Navy under the ægis of the Y.M.C.A. The Rev. L. G. Buchanan has organized lectures and a missionary exhibition among the soldiers in France. The Rev. J. H. Linton, a C.M.S. missionary, with a large experience of life in Persia and Nigeria, has, at the request of the Central Board of Missions, done similar work among our sailors at the naval bases and in some of the ships of our Fleet. By the request of the Archbishop of Canterbury the services of the Rev. W. E. S. Holland have been lent to the recruiting campaign for missionary service organized by the Central Board of Missions.

Candidates

A carefully considered interim report on the training of candidates presented to the Committee in December suggested that future candidates should receive training in connexion with Cambridge University. This question is still under consideration, but in view of the fact that many of those who offer themselves need preparatory training before proceeding to Cambridge, the Committee have decided to open a preparatory institution in London, with the title of "St. Andrew's Hostel." Four hundred and thirty eight inquiries and offers of service were received during the year (172 men and 266 women). The majority of these were simply inquirers, and the writers did not definitely become candidates. Of those who actually offered their services, two men and thirty-four women were accepted for training, and thirteen men and twenty-two women were accepted for service. In addition to these, four missionaries (one man and three women) were accepted by the Colonial Associations.

Conclusion

The Committee would end on a note of hope, for deeply conscious as they are of the strength of the foe, they are equally conscious of the mighty strivings of the Holy Spirit in the hearts of the human race. The fruits of the Spirit's work are everywhere in evidence. In the East they are seen in the great mass movements towards Christianity, in the growing soul-hunger of thinkers, in the changing ideals of Hindus, Buddhists, and Mohammedans, and not least in the increasing opposition of non-Christian religions to the Gospel of Christ. In the West the fruits are visible both within and without the Christian fold. Within, the eternal struggle between the love which is of God and the anarchic spirit of the world is invested with a new vitality; Christians, learning afresh the insufficiency of human strength, are relying more simply on the power of Christ, and God is leading His divided forces to a unity without which Christian conquest of the world-spirit can never be complete. Without, the evidence of the Spirit's work is no less striking. God is speaking to men through the social and political movements of the day. The issues are being cleared; spiritual conceptions have won a new emphasis; the world as a brotherhood is struggling into view; the interdependence of men and nations is being recognized and realized; and many in perplexity and hope are turning to God.

The Committee are deeply convinced that advance all along the line awaits the Christian forces in the near future if only the gospel message is clearly proclaimed and demonstrated by word and life. And the content of the message has not changed. It is not: "By God's help you will win through," but rather, "One has already overcome." His glorious faith is God's gift to us; His spiritual armour is ours; His spiritual spoils are ours also.

Our faith is in a Saviour once crucified, yet alive for evermore, seated at the right hand of God at the innermost centre of life; within the living heart of this vast organism of humanity. If His Church does but repose her trust in Him and dare to follow His lead, however severe the contest, victory will not tarry.

Home Operations

The work of the Church Missionary Society is carried on under the direction of a Committee consisting of the following members of the Church of England or Churches in communion therewith: twenty-four laymen and twenty-four women, elected at the annual meeting; all clergymen who are members of the Society and have been such for not less than one year; and all honorary governors for life and such other governors as have been such for not less than one year. At their first meeting in every year this Committee appoint three other committees: (1) The Committee of Patronage, which seeks to secure patronage and support for the C.M.S. and nominates for most of the important positions connected with the Society at home: (2) The Home and Foreign Committee, which is concerned with all the organization at home for the collection of funds, the seeking of missionary candidates, and the circulation of information about the work of the C.M.S. and is also entrusted with the administration of the foreign work, and the selection and training of missionaries; connected with it are a number of sub-committees, one of which selects men for nomination as organizing secretaries, etc., another deals with C.M.S. literature, a third is concerned with candidates, three are "group committees," Group I dealing with C.M.S. Missions in the Far East and in North-West Canada; Group II with those in India, Ceylon, and Persia; and Group III with those in Africa, Palestine, and Turkish Arabia, and another has charge of medical mission matters: (3) The Committee of Finance, whose office is to superintend the accounts and financial affairs of the Society. Besides these committees there are many others, which deal respectively with estimates, and medical, educational, and other sections of the Society's work.

The Society's work in the country is in the charge of associations for dioceses, archdeaconries, or smaller areas, which have the co-operation and assistance of the organizing secretaries. Invaluable help is rendered by a large number of honorary workers in connexion not only with these associations but also with branches of the Clergy Union, the Laymen's Union, the Gleaners' Union, the Women's Union, the Young People's Union, and the Home Preparation Union, and with study circles in all parts of the country.

The Hibernian Church Missionary Society has its own organization and officers. A few associations in Scotland are banded together to form the Scottish Auxiliary.

Home co-operation

IT is a matter for deep thankfulness that each year as it passes reveals fuller co-operation at the home base among those who seek to evangelize the world. The movement which, in its modern form, may be regarded as having begun at the World Missionary Conference at Edinburgh in 1910, has made rapid progress during the years which have since elapsed, and the Conference of British Missionary Societies, one of its chief outcomes, which was first held somewhat informally in 1911, has grown, and is now of great importance. The practical working of the organization is in the hands of a standing committee; special committees composed of recognized experts deal with Christian education, Christian literature, work among Moslems, the home base, etc., and, with more slender connexion with the conference, have sprung up various united bodies—a United Council for Missionary Education, a Board of Study for the Preparation of Missionaries, and an Advisory Board on Medical Missions. At the meeting of the Conference in 1918, the value of combination between the societies when approaching the Government on such subjects as the work carried on until lately by German missionaries in British territories, religious liberty in lands hitherto under Turkish rule, the conscience clause in India, the liquor traffic in Africa, and the like, was abundantly shown.

Conference of British Missionary Societies

A difficult year

The maintenance of the work of the Church Missionary Society at home in the year 1918–19 was attended with great difficulty. One after another of the secretaries at head-quarters and of the organizing secretaries joined the forces as chaplains, and the staff of clerks at Salisbury Square lost almost all its most experienced members. The gaps were filled to some extent by emergency appointments, and friends in many parts of the country and at head-quarters gave valuable help; but of necessity the efficiency of the work suffered in some degree, while, as in other departments of life, the strain was very great on those who had to remain at their posts. Nevertheless the Society's organization was maintained with but little curtailment, and in certain directions some advance was even witnessed. Several months elapsed after the armistice was signed before the demobilization of those who were engaged in war work could be arranged, but by March, 1919, many of them were back at their posts, and the Committee were able to contemplate the speedy restoration of normal conditions. They are deeply grateful to those who as war time secretaries, organizing secretaries, and in other capacities, came to the help of the Society at a critical time.

Finances

It says much for the devotion and ability of these friends that in a year of such difficulty through shortage of staff and the general preoccupation of the nation with its life and death struggle, the Society should have received within £1600 of the largest ordinary income which it has ever known. The gross receipts, excluding £22,241 for special funds, amounted to £440,370, but of that sum £34,881 was contributed to a Thankoffering Fund for Victory and Peace, leaving £405,489 as the ordinary income. The ordinary expenditure was £412,848, a much larger sum than had been estimated, owing mainly to loss on exchange, and the imperative necessity of increasing allowances to missionaries and native workers. But the whole of a year's income is not available to meet the year's expenditure, for several adjustments have to be made, as explained on page 12. The actual position is shown by the following statement:—

The general expenditure to be met was		£412,848
Towards meeting which there was:—
From ordinary receipts	£266,948
From appropriated contributions partly given during the year and partly derived in balances brought forward	86,802
		353,750
Deficit on the year's account		£59,098

To this sum must be added the balance of the old deficit of £22,445, making an adverse balance of £81,543. The Committee, however, have carried £17,400, the excess of the legacies received during the year over the average received from that source in the last five years, to the legacy equalization fund, and there are balances of appropriated and auxiliary funds, amounting to £75,327, available for future work.

Thankoffering fund

The thankoffering fund which has been referred to above is to be only a part of the thankoffering for which the Committee have decided to ask. At their meeting in November they resolved that an appeal should be put forth for many lives for world-service for Christ and for £500,000, and they appointed a special committee to formulate plans in detail for bringing the appeal before the Society's constituency and an even wider circle. Much has already been done. The Archbishops of Canterbury, York, and Armagh have expressed their good wishes for the success of the effort; meetings, at which emphasis has been laid in the first place upon full consecration to Christ for service wherever He shall choose, have been held in London and elsewhere; a list of objects to which gifts may be appropriated has been drawn up; and special literature has been provided.

Mass movements appeal

Prior to the launching of the thankoffering scheme the efforts of the home organization department had been largely concentrated on meeting the needs of the mass movement areas in India and Africa. Good work in the form of arousing interest and collecting funds was done, and among the schools in Manchester and Liverpool especially a warm response was met with. The mass movements appeal has since been merged in the wider thankoffering appeal, which sets forth the call to provide for the training of Christian teachers, the maintenance of students during their time of preparation, and the requisite buildings for schools in regions where mass movements are in progress.

Work among sailors and soldiers

Of quite a different character was the endeavour to take advantage of the opportunities afforded by the war of bringing the missionary cause before officers and men in both the Navy and the Army. The Y.M.C.A. offered facilities in its huts in France, and the C.M.S. co-operated with several other societies in providing a portable exhibition of missionary curios, together with lantern slides and a supply of suitable literature. The Rev. L. G. Buchanan, vicar of Holy Trinity, Hull, devoted four months to this work; and in spite of many counter-attractions at Rouen, the base chosen for this effort, the exhibition was thronged, and a smaller exhibition, set up on the station platform, proved a great attraction to soldiers passing through.[1] A second collection of curios was afterwards made for use in the Navy, and the Rev. J. H. Linton had most encouraging experiences as he visited various naval bases and many of the ships of the Fleet. For example, during a week in November, when he was a guest on board H.M.S. A——, he was afforded opportunities of preaching at the Sunday services on board that vessel and a couple of monitors; his evenings were devoted sometimes to midshipmen in the coastal motor boat mess, sometimes to officers in their dens; he gave cinema shows on board different vessels or on shore in the Seamen's Institute, and lectures at the W.R.N.S. hostel and at the Wireless and Signal Club. Another week was spent with the Grand Fleet where, by the kind offices of the Admiral, he was given the status of Admiralty lecturer. By such means he was brought into touch with numbers of old public schoolboys, as well as officers and men of all ranks.

Candidates

During the year 1 May, 1918, to 30 April, 1919, offers of service or inquiries about the conditions of work abroad were received from 438 persons (172 men and 266 women). In many instances the matter went no farther than inquiry, but the Committee dealt with the cases of 88 persons (23 men and 65 women). Thirty-six of these (2 men and 34 women) were accepted for training; and 35 (13 men and 22 women) for service, either after training or as qualified when they offered, including some in local connexion and others on special agreement; and in addition the acceptance of 4 missionaries (1 man and 3 women) by the C.M.S. of Australia and Tasmania was recorded. The corresponding figures for 1917–18 were: offers of service or inquiries, 304 (86 men and 218 women); candidates accepted for training, 22 women; accepted for service, 15 men and 16 women.

Committee reorganization

In accordance with its decision in November, 1917, when dealing with certain memorials as to the position of the Society, presented by different bodies of members and friends,[1] the Committee appointed a sub-committee "to consider the possibility of a more democratic method of administration, giving greater influence in the Society's councils to the various sections of its home constituency." Eventually a scheme was formulated and adopted by the General Committee in November, 1918, by which the Home and Foreign Committees are combined in one, and provision is made for the representation on it of each archdeaconry contributing at least £1000 per annum to the Society's funds, the universities of Oxford and Cambridge, the Hibernian C.M.S., and Scotland. This committee and the General Committee meet monthly on two consecutive days.

Patronage

The office of Vice-President has been accepted by the Bishop of St. Edmundsbury (Dr. Hodgson), the Bishop of Warrington (Dr. Linton Smith), the Bishop of Worcester (Dr. Pearce), the

[1] REPORT, 1917–18, pp. 124–8.

Bishop in Fukien (Dr. Hind), and the Bishop of Mombasa (Dr. Heywood). To the same office the Committee have appointed Archdeacon G. J. Howson (Woolton), Maj.-Gen. E. R. Kenyon, C.B., C.M.G., R.E. (London), Mr. T. W. H. Inskip, K.C., M.P. (London), Mr. G. A. King (Croydon), and Mr. H. E. Thornton (Nottingham). The following have been appointed Honorary Life Governors: Mr. G. E. W. Cranage (Corbridge-on-Tyne), the Revs. S. Green (Ipswich), W. F. T. Hamilton (Woking), F. Papprill (Leicester), Dr. H. W. Pigeon (Hull), Mr. J. C. Procter (Liverpool), and the Rev. D. H. D. Wilkinson (Nottingham); and Mrs. J. B. Braddon (Upper Norwood), Miss Clara Gedge (Croydon), Mrs. Gem (Old Radford), Mrs. Hill (Halifax), Mrs. Digby Lighton (Ross-on-Wye), Miss M. C. Outram (Muswell Hill), Mrs. F. Ritson (Bishopwearmouth), and Miss Walker (Lowestoft) have been appointed Honorary Life Members.

Obituary

During the year under review the Society has lost by death the services of the following missionaries:—the Rev. G. E. Reeks of the Niger Mission, Miss E. M. Piffin of Uganda, Miss B. M. Davis of South India, Miss S. C. Lloyd of Ceylon, the Rev. J. L. Bacon of Kwangsi and Hunan, and the Rev. J. Field, Mrs. W. H. Collison, and Mrs. A. E. Price of British Columbia. Nine Vice-Presidents have passed away: the Bishop of Calcutta (Dr. Lefroy); Bishop Boyd Carpenter (formerly of Ripon); Bishop Percival (formerly of Hereford); Bishop Walsh (formerly of Mauritius and Dover); Dean Allan Smith, of St. Davids; Archdeacon W. Conybeare Bruce; Archdeacon A. E. Moule (a veteran missionary); Sir R. Pennefather, C.B.; and Sir C. E. Tritton, Bt. Eight Honorary Life Governors have died: the Rev. Canon J. H. Acheson, the Rev. Prebendary Beresford, Mr. W. N. Heald, Mr. A. S. Leslie Melville, Dr. J. H. Loch, the Rev. W. Townsend Storrs (Indian Mutiny survivor and pioneer missionary to the Santals), Captain R. Wade Thompson, and Mr. J. D. Tremlett; and eight Honorary Members for Life: Mrs. Cobbold (widow of Archdeacon R. H. Cobbold, formerly of Chekiang), Miss E. M. Hassall, Miss M. Holroyd, Miss M. E. Janvrin, Mrs. Lynch, the Dowager Lady Pearce, Miss J. Roberts, and Miss C. Stanistreet.

Since this section of the REPORT was written, the Society has sustained a heavy loss by the sudden death on May 31 through a motor-car accident of Sir T. F. Victor Buxton. For many years he was chairman of the committee in charge of the Society's Missions in Africa, Egypt, and Palestine, and he visited Sierra Leone, East Africa, Uganda, Egypt, and Palestine, on some occasions as the representative of the Society. He was appointed treasurer of the Society in 1917.

The Colonial Associations

Colonial C.M.S. Associations were set on foot in Australasia in 1892 as a result of a visit from Dr. Eugene Stock and the Rev. R. W. Stewart, who were sent as a deputation by the Committee of the Society. The New South Wales C.M. Auxiliary, which had existed since 1825, was then reconstituted, and new associations were formed for Victoria (with which Tasmania and South and West Australia afterwards combined) and New Zealand. In 1916 the two Australian associations were incorporated into one society, with the title: "Church Missionary Society of Australia and Tasmania." This society and the New Zealand C.M.S., as the association in New Zealand is now termed, accept, train, and send forth candidates for missionary work in C.M.S. and other fields, and are responsible for their support. They have sent to the C.M.S. field ninety-six missionaries (excluding wives of missionaries), namely, thirty-nine from the New South Wales Branch, forty-two from the Victoria Branch, and fifteen from the New Zealand C.M.S.

In Canada, Wycliffe College, Toronto, formed a missionary association in 1888, which maintained men in Japan and in North-West Canada. In 1895 this gave place to a Canadian Church Missionary Association, afterwards called the Canadian C.M.S., and the missionaries previously sent out by Wycliffe College were added to the Society's staff. The Canadian C.M.S. is now financially an integral part of the Missionary Society of the Canadian Church, which sends out and supports the missionaries. Since the formation of the Canadian Church Missionary Association twenty-two of its missionaries have joined the C.M.S. staff, but many of these are now working in India, China, and Japan, in spheres which are not, though some of them were, a part of C.M.S. Missions, and their work is administered by the M.S.C.C.

In 1895 several parishes in Cape Colony which supported the C.M.S. formed themselves into a South Africa Association, which is analogous rather to diocesan or archidiaconal associations in England than to the Australasian associations. The association is responsible for the personal allowances (in whole or in part) of a number of missionaries, in the same way as parishes or unions in the United Kingdom having "own missionaries." Candidates for missionary service are sent to England for training and acceptance.

The West Indies C.M. Council, which was constituted in 1897, selects West Indian agents for service in West Africa, and superintends their preparation at the Mico College in Jamaica. It is not responsible for their support.

Australia

THE income of the Victorian Branch of the Church Missionary Society of Australia and Tasmania in 1918, amounted to £10,826, a larger total than in any previous year. Two new missionaries sailed for East Africa and one for Western India. The Rev. A. R. Ebbs has resigned the position of secretary which he had occupied for sixteen years.

New Zealand

Archdeacon T. S. Grace, Junior, who was a missionary of the Society in New Zealand from 1881–5, died on 1 April, 1918. His father was on the staff of the New Zealand Mission for nearly thirty years.

South Africa

During the last twenty-five years the parish of St. Peter's, Mowbray, Cape Province, South Africa, has contributed £12,604 for parochial objects, and £18,510 for foreign missions, of which the Church Missionary Society has received £16,716. The average annual sum raised by missionary boxes in the past fifteen years has been £430. The parish is by no means wealthy.

The World

The population of the world is estimated at 1,623,000,000. Of these 495,000,000 are said to be Christians (240,000,000 Roman Catholics, 105,000,000 Greeks, and 150,000,000 Protestants); 10,000.000 Jews; 200,000,000, Mohammedans; and 918,000,000 heathen. About two-thirds of the people in the world do not profess or call themselves Christians, while it is probably true that something like one-half have never heard the Gospel, although the whole world, with the exception of Arabia and parts of Central Asia, is more or less open to missionary effort.

The Protestant missionaries connected with societies in Europe, America, Africa, Asia, and Australia in 1915 numbered 24,039. Of these 7041 were ordained men; 3279 were laymen; and 13,719 were women. The number of ordained Protestant natives was 7430; of other native Christian helpers, 101,669; and of adherents of the Missions, 5,145,236.[1]

German missions

One result of the war has been to render impossible the continuance by the Germans of their foreign missions. According to a statement made by Mr. J. H. Oldham, the Germans before the war had the Gossner Mission in the north of India, working mainly in Chota Nagpur and on the Ganges, with sixty missionaries and a Christian community of 90,000 baptized persons. In the Madras Presidency the Leipzig Mission, with which 22,000 converts were connected, worked in close collaboration with the Swedish Church, and the Hermannsburg Mission and the Schleswig-Holstein Mission were also represented in the presidency with 20,000 converts between them. The Basel Mission, though technically Swiss, drew the greater part of its support and of its missionaries from German sources, and had more than a hundred missionaries and 20,000 converts on the west coast of India, while on the Gold Coast of Africa it had a native Christian community of 25,000. In South Africa the chief missions were the Berlin Mission with 60,000 Christians, the Hermannsburg Mission with 74,000, and the Rhenish Mission; the last named worked also in German South-West Africa. In the Cameroons there were the Basel (15,000 Christians) and two other missions; in Togo the Bremen Mission; and in German East Africa six missions. Most of the work of the German missions in China was carried on in Kwangtung, but the Berlin Mission had also a considerable work in Shantung. In addition there were a number of smaller German missions in different parts of the world, and a considerable work in German New Guinea.

The National Missionary Council of India has made the following arrangements for the German Protestant missions in that country: the work of the Leipzig Mission has been taken over by the Church of Sweden; that of the Schleswig-

Holstein Mission by the North American Evangelical Lutheran Mission at Rajahmundry; and that of the Hermannsburg Mission by the Lutheran Church of Ohio, U.S.A.; the Bishop of Chota Nagpur is temporarily responsible for the Gossner Mission, working chiefly in Chota Nagpur; and the National Missionary Council has accepted an invitation to assume control of the work of the Basel Mission, though unable to provide funds for carrying it on, in Malabar, South and North Canara, South Maratha, the Nilgiris, and Coorg.

Bible translation and circulation

At the lowest estimate there are 650 languages and dialects in which at least one complete book of the Bible has been printed for religious use, while the whole Bible has been rendered into about 140 different forms of speech. In 1917 the American Bible Society, the British and Foreign Bible Society, and the National Bible Society of Scotland circulated more than 18,000,000 Bibles, testaments, or scripture portions, and in addition the Scripture Gift Mission, the Pocket Testament League, and other organizations circulated many millions of copies. The books went forth in thirty-four languages spoken in Europe, five in Asia Minor, twelve in Asia, eighteen in Africa, three in North America, and nine in the Islands of the Seas.

Africa

Africa is equal in area to Europe and North America combined, and comprises nearly 12,000,000 square miles. Its population is estimated at 180,000,000; about 35,981,000 people live in the British spheres, which cover an area of 2,233,478 square miles. There are said to be 843 languages and dialects spoken in Africa, 500 of which have never been reduced to writing.

One-sixth of the non-Christian population of the world lives in Africa, the great pagan continent. In East Africa there are few idols, and the religions chiefly consist in the use of charms and rites to keep off evil spirits. Mohammedanism is dominant in North and North-Central Africa; and farther south, especially on the west coast, it is spreading rapidly.

In connexion with the various Protestant missionary societies at work in Africa, there are some 2450 men and 2040 women missionaries. The number of adherents of the Protestant Missions is estimated at about 2,000,000.

Railway development

WHILE the development of railways in Africa has in some quarters been arrested by the war, in others it has been accelerated. London and Cape Town are now linked up by rail and river steamer, with the exception of the sea-crossings Dover-Calais and Brindisi-Alexandria, and two stretches from Redjaf-Nimule (150 miles) and Mwanza-Tabora (200 miles). The African systems in the Cape to Cairo route are the Sudan Government, the Uganda, the British South Africa Company, and the Cape Railways. The "Geographical Journal" (January, 1918) contained the following time-table: London to Cairo, 4½ days; Cairo to Khartoum, 3 days; Khartoum to Buliaba (Lake Albert), 21–24 days; Buliaba to Mwanza (Victoria Nyanza), 5½–12 days; Mwanza to Albertville (Lake Tanganyika), 12–14 days; Albertville to Bukawa (Congo), 8 days; Bukawa to Cape Town, 8 days. There are certain alternative routes from Khartoum to Bukawa. When the gap of 350 miles is filled in by motor roads the time will be reduced by about twelve days. The time-table represents the minimum times which the Government could adopt.

SIERRA LEONE MISSION

PAST HISTORY

Africa was the earliest field entered by the C.M.S. Its first two missionaries were sent in 1804 to the Susu tribes on the Rio Pongas. In 1816 the Society's efforts were concentrated upon the colony of Sierra Leone, which, after the abolition of the slave trade in 1807, had become the depôt for negroes rescued from slave ships by the British cruisers. Much blessing attended the labours of W. A. B. Johnson and other missionaries, but at a great cost of life, fifty-three missionaries and missionaries' wives dying between 1804 and 1824. The work was afterwards extended to the Bullom and Mendi countries, and, later, among the Temnes, Yalunkas, and Limbahs.

In 1861 the Sierra Leone Native Church was organized on an independent basis, and undertook the support of its own pastors, churches, and schools, aided by a small grant from the Society, which ceased in 1890. In 1876 the native Church took over the outlying missions in the Bullom and Mendi countries, and in 1908 it assumed responsibility for the remainder of the C.M.S. work in the interior, with the aid of some financial help from the Society.

The bishopric of Sierra Leone was founded in 1852. Dr. Walmsley, who was consecrated in 1910, is the present bishop.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The Society's work in the Mission, as distinct from that carried on by the native Church, is now confined to Freetown, the capital of the colony and protectorate of Sierra Leone, where it has Fourah Bay College (affiliated to Durham University, and worked in co-operation with the Wesleyan Missionary Society), a grammar school for boys, and the Annie Walsh Memorial School for girls, at which a normal class is held. The C.M.S. staff consists of 2 European and 7 African clergymen, 1 layman, 1 missionary's wife, and 3 single women, beside 20 African Christian lay agents. There are 34 clergymen and 243 lay agents connected with the Sierra Leone Native Church.

SIERRA LEONE suffered terribly from an epidemic of influenza at the end of the summer, which, it was estimated, swept away five per cent of the population of Freetown in a month.

Canon N. J. Cole, who was ordained in 1875, has retired.

Sierra Leone Church Missions

In 1908 the Sierra Leone Church accepted responsibility for the work previously carried on by the Society among the Temnes and Yalunkas, the Society making a grant in aid, which each year has been reduced by five per cent. In the ten years which have since elapsed, though there has been no deliberate curtailment of the work, it has declined in proportion with the Society's grant, which continues to cover the salaries paid in the transferred districts. A boarding school has been opened at Port Lokkoh, which it is thought may prove a more effective missionary agency than a number of scattered stations up-country, left without proper supervision.

Freetown

During the forty years which have passed since Durham University degrees were first conferred on students of Fourah Bay College, Freetown, one man has taken the B.D. degree, six men the B.C.L., thirty-two the M.A., and a hundred the B.A. In 1918 the degree of B.A. was conferred on three men, of M.A. on three, and of B.C.L. on one. The Grammar School, with 120 boys, was under the care of the Rev. T. C. John, an African clergyman, until October, when the principal, the Rev. H. Dallimore, returned from furlough. Four of the five boys who sat for the Cambridge junior local examination at the end of 1917 were successful. Athletic sports are found to be a valuable adjunct to the work, for rivalry between the boarding houses has become keen, and through the competitions the boys are learning to unite in seeking a common goal. At the Annie Walsh School, which was more crowded than ever, a communicants guild with twenty members was formed, and a successful reunion of former scholars was held.

WESTERN EQUATORIAL AFRICA MISSIONS

PAST HISTORY

A large proportion of the freed slaves gathered at Sierra Leone at the beginning of the nineteenth century had been carried away from the Yoruba Country, which lies a thousand miles along the Guinea coast to the east. About the year 1840 many of them, having by that time become Christians and traders on their own account, returned to their fatherland. The result was an invitation to the missionaries to go thither, and the establishment of stations at Badagry, 1845, and Lagos, 1852, on the coast; and at Abeokuta, 1846; Ibadan, 1853; Oyo, 1858 (reoccupied 1881); Ode Ondo, 1886; and other towns and villages in the interior. More recently, Oshogbo, 1900; Owo, 1908; Offa, 1910; Ado Ewi (in the Ekiti Country), 1911; and Eme (in the Ora Country), 1915, have been occupied.

In 1841 a government naval expedition, accompanied by a C.M.S. missionary, the Rev. J. F. Schön, and by Samuel Crowther, a liberated negro slave, explored the River Niger. In 1854 a second expedition penetrated up the stream 500 miles, finding the natives everywhere ready to receive Christian teachers; and in 1857 Mr. Crowther accompanied a third expedition, undertaken for commercial purposes, and laid the foundation of the Niger Mission by establishing three stations. One of these was Onitsha. Other stations were subsequently occupied, namely, Bonny, 1866; Brass, 1868; Asaba, 1875; Awka, 1904; Ebu, 1906; Patani, 1907; the Igabo Country, 1912; Ogwashi, 1915.

The first station to be occupied in the Northern Provinces was Lokoja (1865), whence the work has spread to other places in the immediate neighbourhood. In 1890 a party of missionaries went out under the leadership of the Rev. J. A. Robinson and Mr. G. Wilmot Brooke, with the idea of residing at Lokoja and thence making an effort to reach the Mohammedans of the Hausa States. The climate shortly proved fatal to both the leaders, and drove the rest home. In 1900 Bishop Tugwell led a party to Kano, and though they were not permitted to stay in that town they did not leave the country. The Basa Country was occupied in 1897; Bida, 1903; Zaria, 1905; and Kuta, 1906. In 1907, the Cambridge University Missionary Party (as C.M.S. missionaries) began work at Panyam, in the Bauchi highlands, and in 1910 at Kabwir.

Samuel Crowther was consecrated Bishop of the Niger Territories in 1864. He laboured zealously in the Mission till the end of 1891, when he died at Lagos. In June, 1893, the Rev. J. S. Hill succeeded Bishop Crowther, receiving the title of "Bishop in Western Equatorial Africa." Two experienced African clergymen, the Revs. C. Phillips and I. Oluwole, were consecrated as his assistant bishops at the same time. Bishop Hill died in January, 1894, and the Rev. H. Tugwell was consecrated the following March. In 1900 the Rev. James Johnson, a third African assistant bishop, was consecrated. Bishop Phillips died in 1906 and Bishop Johnson in 1917.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The Western Equatorial Africa Missions are carried on by 2 bishops, 25 English and 75 African clergymen, 11 laymen, 19 missionaries' wives, 22 other women missionaries, and 1432 African Christian lay agents, in several clearly defined districts, namely, in the Yoruba Country and in the Lower Niger districts, which are in the Southern Provinces of the protectorate of Nigeria, and in the Northern Provinces.

I. In the Yoruba Country the pastoral work is almost entirely entrusted to African clergymen. At the three oldest stations—Lagos on the coast and Abeokuta and Ibadan in the interior—district councils have been formed, and the clergy are appointed by local authorities and maintained independently of the C.M.S. These councils, moreover, are responsible to the diocesan synod for the evangelistic work in their districts, while the Lagos council has missionary work, largely self-supporting, in the Ijebu Country. At the other centres—Ilesa, Oshogbo, Oyo, Ado Ewi, Ode Ondo, Owo, Eme, together with Benin City, Warri, and Sapelle, in the Niger Delta—evangelistic work is largely in the hands of the Society, but provisional church councils, some of them with and others without a grant in aid from the Society, are responsible for the support of the African clergymen and other agents in their districts and are gradually preparing the way for self-government.

All the educational work, with the exception of grammar schools at Abeokuta, Ibadan, and Ijebu Ode, and some elementary schools, which are under the district councils, is administered and largely maintained by the C.M.S. The chief institutions are a training college for clergymen and schoolmasters at Oyo, a training institution for evangelists at Oshogbo, a boys' grammar school and a girls' seminary at Lagos, and a girls' school at Ibadan; the grammar school and the seminary are entirely self-supporting. In this connexion may be mentioned also the bookshop at Lagos, with its branches at Abeokuta, Ibadan, Ijebu Ode, and elsewhere.

Besides Bishops Tugwell and Oluwole, the Society has 9 European and 16 African clergymen, 5 laymen, 10 missionaries' wives, 11 other women missionaries, and 233 African Christian lay agents at work in the Yoruba Country. There are also 33 African clergymen and 545 African Christian lay agents in connexion with the Lagos, Abeokuta, and Ibadan district councils.

II. On the lower reaches of the Niger the work is carried on by the Niger Delta Pastorate (which has its head-quarters at Bonny and is manned and financed by Africans), save at Patani, and in the Igabo Country, where it is under the C.M.S. Niger Mission, and at Benin City, Warri, and Sapelle, which are linked with the Yoruba Mission. Higher up the river there are a number of stations and outstations, the chief being Onitsha, Awka, and Ebu, on the east of the Niger, and Asaba and Ani Ofu, on the west. At these places the pastoral and evangelistic work is largely in the hands of provisional church councils.

There are a training college for men at Awka, a training school for girls at Umudioka, and young women's homes at Ani Ofu and Emii; a number of elementary schools are also carried on. Medical work is maintained at Iyi Enu.

The European clergymen in the Niger Mission number 9; lay missionaries 3; missionaries' wives 6; other women missionaries 9 (1 nurse); and there are 23 African clergymen, of whom 14 work under the Niger Delta Pastorate. The African Christian lay agents in the Niger Mission number 482, those in connexion with the Delta Pastorate 93.

III. The Mission in the Northern Provinces is among the Hausa people, who are practically entirely Mohammedan, at Zaria; the Nupé people, who are partly Mohammedan and partly pagan, at Lokoja; and the Basa and Yoruba peoples, who are mainly pagan, at Lokoja and other stations around the confluence of the Niger and the Binue. Work has also been established at Panyam and Kabwir, in the Bauchi highlands, among the Sura and Angass tribes, who are entirely pagan.

Training classes for evangelists are carried on at Bida, Zaria, and Kabwir, and there is medical work at Zaria and Kabwir. The staff in the Northern Provinces is composed of 7 European and 3 African clergymen; 3 lay missionaries, of whom 2 are doctors; 3 missionaries' wives; 2 other women missionaries; and 79 African Christian lay agents.

The liquor traffic

THE duty on imported spirits of all kinds in Nigeria amounted in 1917 to £88,719, as compared with £372,982 in 1916, and the customs revenue on the export of palm-kernels, palm-oil, and cocoa to £339,639 in 1917 as against £57,624 in the previous year. Thus notwithstanding the heavy fall in imported spirits the revenue from these sources rose by £2,248. The importance of this experience in its bearing on the long debated liquor traffic problem is pointed out in the following extract from the annual report on customs and trade in Nigeria, from which these figures are taken :—

"Since the war it has been proved conclusively that Nigeria is not dependent on spirits for its revenue, and the record trade returns of the year 1917 indicate that the production of palm-oil and kernels is not dependent on imported continental spirits. Continental trade spirits were the mainstay of the German outward cargoes, and Germany's African trade was built up on these spirits. The extended use of specie will probably tend to limit the spirit trade, the duties on spirits will no doubt be increased and possibly the prohibited zone extended, so that it is likely that the dimensions of the spirit trade after the war will not be as large as in pre-war days.

Importation of trade spirits prohibited

The Secretary of State for the Colonies has informed the Governments of the British West African Colonies that the importation into them of all spirits is to be prohibited for the present save under licences, and that licences are not to be granted for the importation of "trade spirits."

Deaths of Bishop Johnson and Rev. E. J. Sowande

The death of Bishop Johnson, which was mentioned in last year's REPORT (page 21), has been followed by a re-arrangement of the work in the Benin, Sapelle, and Warri districts in the Niger Delta, which had been superintended by him; they have now been attached to the Yoruba Mission.

The Rev. E. J. Sowande, who died on October 6, was ordained in 1906 after a considerable period of service in the Yoruba Mission. After his ordination he worked for a time at the Oyo Training College and afterwards was appointed to the church of St. Peter, Lagos.

The Committee have accepted the resignations of Miss J. J. Thomas, after twenty-seven years' service, the Rev. J. McKay, after twenty-five years' service, Miss E. P. Miller, and Miss E. M. Paddon.

Literary work

The literary work in the Missions was as follows: Dr. W. R. S. Miller revised the translation into Hausa of the Books of Proverbs, Isaiah, Hosea, and Amos, and began work on 1 Samuel; the Rev. H. E. Smith wrote some hymns in that language; the Rev. J. D. Aitken translated St. Mark's Gospel into Isoko; the Rev. C. H. Wedgwood revised the translation of St. Luke into Angass and rendered parts of St. Matthew, St. John, several of the Psalms, and parts of the Prayer Book into the same language; and the Rev. E. Hayward translated St. Matthew's Gospel, the Book of Genesis, and part of St. Luke's Gospel into Sura.

YORUBA MISSION.—The Yoruba Mission, with its responsibilities increased, as already stated, by the addition to them of the work in the Benin, Sapelle, and Warri districts, suffered much through shortage of staff, and developments were thus hindered, especially in the women's work, for which there were many open doors.

Lagos

The number of boys in the Grammar School at Lagos rose to 230 before the autumn, when an epidemic of influenza broke out. The government grant was £408 as compared with £290 in 1917, and the boys acquitted themselves well in examinations, two of them gaining second and third places among 130 candidates in the civil service examination. The boy scout movement did valuable work, laying stress, as it does, on the importance of many of the qualities which African boys lack, such as truthfulness, smartness, punctuality, mutual helpfulness, etc. The scouts and the school band, which was revived during the year, made an excursion with two of the masters to a village called Ogudu and there carried on evangelistic work for a few days. The Girls' Seminary was full to overflowing and gained a good report from the government inspector. Egide, whose baptism was recorded in the REPORT for 1914-15 (p. 41) became a house teacher.

The need of mission bookshops

A new building was opened for the Bookshop, branches of which have been established at Bonny and Benin City. The extension of these branch bookshops is very desirable, for while others, not connected with the Mission, which have been opened in one or two of the towns of the Niger Delta, at present obtain most of their supplies from the Society's depôt, they might at any time order from England books which would do much harm. In the Ijebu Country, the sphere of the missionary work of the Lagos District Council, the Pastorate Association held its anniversary in December, 1917. The income of the association, which exists to raise funds for the payment of the Church's spiritual agents, was reported to have reached a total of £2633, the largest sum in its history. The children's meeting at the anniversary was held in a school-room close to a spot where used to stand a tree festooned with human skulls, each skull representing a human sacrifice lately offered for the protection of the city.

Abeokuta

A serious disturbance occurred in the neighbourhood of Abeokuta in June, 1918, when a rising took place against the taxation imposed to pay for road making, electric light, and water. It is estimated that at one time there were 30,000 rebels in arms and during the disturbances 700 persons were killed, including a European and one of the kings of Abeokuta. The troubles however are said to have had, in one respect at least, a happy outcome; for they showed the non-Christians the powerlessness of their medicine and worship to help them, and some of them began to seek after God. The Girls' School which was opened in 1917 had on the average thirty-five pupils, including seven boarders. The women missionaries at Abeokuta paid periodical visits to the Leper Asylum. To commemorate the signing of the armistice the inmates had a feast and a dance; "they all danced, those who had feet and those who only had stumps; those who had no feet danced on their knees and did it wonderfully well."

Ibadan

There were about sixty girls, more than half of them boarders, at the Girls' School at Ibadan. Several who left during the year took posts in mission day schools. The character of the school has been in some degrees changed, for elder girls are not now received and day scholars are admitted. It had been planned to open a special institution for the former at Akure, but circumstances rendered it impossible. Mohammedanism is extending rapidly in Ibadan, and it is estimated that there are from 40,000 to 50,000 Mohammedans among a population of about 200,000.

Oshogbo

The reports from Oshogbo, as from other districts in the Yoruba Mission, indicate that the widespread movement to seek Christian instruction, which seems to gather instead of losing force, has been and is inspired by a desire for education rather than for Christianity. A great social upheaval is taking place throughout Nigeria as the result of contact with European civilization. Many thousands have been received into the Christian Church. The number, however, is as yet small compared with the population. For example, in a large town which would be regarded as typical, 1000 Christians and adherents have been won during the last fourteen or fifteen years; but in that same place there are some 49,000 pagans and Mohammedans, and more pagans have embraced Mohammedanism than have embraced Christianity. Moreover, alas, it is said of those who bear the name of Christ, that while many have turned from idols, not all have turned to God. There are, perhaps not unnaturally, a number of instances of unworthy conduct among the converts, like that of a man, at one time a communicant but suspended for polygamy, who expressed a desire to preach to pagans at an open-air service when he himself was the worse for drink. Secessions from the Anglican Church to the "African Church," a sect which is accommodating on the question of polygamy, etc., are not infrequent and, still more serious, there are many "secessions from Christ." Much depends upon the character of the African teacher and great importance therefore attaches to the Training Institution for scripture readers which is carried on at Oshogbo. These men will be called upon to undertake charge of large and often intractable congregations, consisting mainly of young people, and will stand in need of real spiritual power.

Oyo

The Training College at Oyo prepares men for work as schoolmasters, catechists, and clergymen. In 1918 for the first time it received grants from the Government; these amounted to £400. The eighty-four students at the college had much to un-learn as well as to learn. To believe in the verities of the faith or to preach to others or to offer up long extemporary prayers—none of these is the chief difficulty either for them or for the ordinary African Christian, but rather to lead a Christian life. In the town there was little movement towards Christianity; indeed, the only movement that could be discerned was towards Islam, which is spreading at an alarming rate.

Ilorin

The Government have assigned sites for a mission house, church, and school at Ilorin.

Akure

Although as already stated the projected women's training home could not be opened at Akure, Mrs. E. Fry was able to carry on extensive work among women, giving instruction to bands of Christian women which have been formed. She also visited the people in their homes with the help of some of the most earnest Christians, who showed much anxiety to get all their non-Christian relatives visited. As a result of this work three sets of twins were saved from the barbarous death to which they are condemned by native custom. Mrs. Fry made one or two preaching tours, accompanied by volunteers of the women's preaching band. At the close of each tour the women were called together for a missionary meeting, at which reports were given of what had been done and prayer was offered for a blessing upon it.

Ado Ewi

Ado Ewi is the head-quarters of work in the Ekiti Country, which covers an area of 2500 square miles. In the three years 1914–17, 2000 adults have been baptized and twenty new churches opened. There are now about sixty-eight congregations, and their contributions for the support of agents—apart from those for church repairs and buildings, for the C.M.S., etc.—amounted in 1918 to £1000 as compared with £80 in 1910. Unhappily only four of the forty agents in the district are qualified catechists. As an example of the rapid advance which has been made, the Church at Igbara Odo is quoted. It had a young teacher until 1913 when a scripture reader was appointed, the Christians paying £12 for his salary. Very soon fifty people were accepted for baptism in a single year, and a more experienced man was then placed in charge. The work continued to grow and the congregation, numbering between 500 and 600 people, has now raised £90 to pay the salaries of a pastor and schoolmaster. At this town the Bale (head-man) asked the Christians to help in cleaning his idol groves for a very special idol festival. When remonstrated with by the Rev. F. Hedger he said: "What am I to do! There only remain the old men and women; you have taken all the young men and made them Christians."

Owo

There are about 110 congregations in the district worked from Owo, and it is said that there is hardly a village without a church, but many of the agents are described as lacking in depth and character. It is fashionable to be a Christian and the Christianity of the converts is often only nominal.

Benin City

The Rev. R. Kidd has under his superintendence three districts, each inhabited by a different tribe, speaking a different language. In the district around Benin City work has for some time been carried on among the Ados by an African agent, and in ten years the congregation has grown from a hundred persons to about 1000.

Sapelle

At Sapelle, thirty miles away, where an African clergyman works among the Shekiri people, there was in 1918 a large secession to the African Baptists owing to a dispute among the congregation.

Warri

Another African clergyman works at Warri among the Sobos, more than eighty of whom were baptized in the year under review. In the three districts combined there are some 200 out-stations. Constant requests for teachers were received but none were available, and even those who were at work were quite untrained.

NIGER MISSION.—The Niger Mission suffered from several disabilities in 1918, one arising from a serious shortage of staff, and another from a widespread epidemic of influenza which caused an appalling number of deaths.

The work of the native Church in the four Ibo districts and the Ijaw district is now practically self-supporting, and little difficulty is experienced in the Igabo district in obtaining the requisite funds for the support of teachers. One instance may be given to show how great is the liberality of the people. The Ibo church councils agreed to erect a grammar school at Onitsha in memory of the late Archdeacon T. J. Dennis, and within a very short space of time rather more than £2000 was guaranteed for the purpose, £472 being promised at one meeting of chiefs. Large gifts

A marked awakening of interest in the Gospel among the old men of the town was witnessed at Onitsha, and it was quite a common thing to see from six to a dozen chiefs in Emmanuel Church in the morning, while the number of women in the congregation rose from twenty to fifty or sixty. Some of the Christians, chiefly women from Christ Church, under the leadership of their pastor made expeditions for the purpose of evangelistic work to a town some twenty miles from Onitsha. From time to time visits were paid to the prison, which usually had more than a hundred inmates, and the Gospel was preached to the prisoners. The Bookshop felt the effects of the war in the difficulty of obtaining certain books and material. Onitsha

At Obusi the Rev. J. Spencer carried on a Class for Evangelists which had twenty-one members; many more would have been under training had it been possible to provide greater accommodation and give Mr. Spencer some help in the teaching. Obusi

The hospital at Iyi Enu was without a resident European doctor, but Miss Elms was wonderfully successful in carrying on the work, and also in giving some training to four boys and as many girls. Fewer patients than usual attended the dispensary, partly owing to epidemics of influenza, whooping cough, and smallpox, which attacked whole families and so weakened them that they were unable to apply for the medicine which they required. Two baptisms took place in the hospital. Iyi Enu

A new building was opened for the big girls at the Girls' School at Umudioka, where there were between sixty and seventy pupils. The school still trains its own teachers and nine of the girls were presented for the annual pupil teachers' examination. Several girls were baptized in 1918 and others admitted to the catechumenate. Umudioka

In December, 1917, eighteen students passed out from the Training College at Awka to posts in the Mission as evangelists or schoolmasters. Their places were filled by two men reading for priest's orders, one for the grade of senior catechist, and sixteen normal students. Ten new out-stations were opened in the district Awka in the first six months of 1918; nearly all of them lie to the south of Awka, for in the region to the north little desire for Christianity is shown. The number of inquirers, catechumens, and baptized Christians increased steadily and women and girls came forward for teaching in larger numbers. The women's work has lately advanced so much that now only baptized women are summoned to the women's district council, but young men and boys are still greatly in the majority in the congregations. A new centre was occupied in the Udi district.

Ebu

The younger people in the Ebu district were insistent in their demands for teachers. "They want something which will raise them in the scale of civilization, though they hardly know what; they see other young men in European clothes talking a little English and reading books, and they want to be like them. Teachers they will have, and if they cannot get efficient ones, they obtain any who can boast of a little learning and are willing to receive the payment offered." Few of the teachers have been trained, but very good work was done by untrained men of slight educational attainments. An out-station was opened at Oguta, where twelve months before the "Christ's Army" branch of the "African Church" had baptized more than seventy persons without any previous teaching and without regard to their manner of living, those who were baptized paying so much a head. The more earnest among the "converts," dissatisfied, appealed to the C.M.S. and an evangelist was sent to them. Some trouble was met with at the hands of the Roman Catholics, who threatened the chief of a town, where there were already two C.M.S out-stations, with trouble if he would not allow a Roman Catholic mission to settle there. Two women's district conferences were held in the Emii district, where three African women evangelists are carrying on an excellent work. In the Young Women's Home at Emii itself more than eighty young women were being prepared for baptism or were receiving domestic training; the home is self-supporting, the intending husbands or relatives of the inmates paying for their maintenance.

Ani Ofu

Two women missionaries resided at Ani Ofu, in the Ogwashi district, where they held station classes and organized work among the women of the district. The stories of some of the girls who went to the missionaries to escape non-Christian marriages were very sad, and it is said that the Government in the district are allowing the old evil native customs to continue, by which the women are forced back to their old bondage. The missionaries were obliged to give up one girl who had been in the home for nine months. She had never lived with the man who was called her husband, but had always refused him. She was handed over to him, her Bible was taken away from her, and she was beaten when she knelt in prayer.

At the beginning of 1918 the whole of the Society's sphere in the Ijaw Country, of which Patani is the centre, had only three teachers and two pupil teachers. One of these resigned during the year and the other seemed likely to follow his example. Patani

The lack of teachers was sorely felt also around Igbide, in the Igabo Country, where the language spoken is Isoko, a sister dialect to Isobo which is used at Warri and Sapelle. There was "a real soul hunger" among the people. As many as 12,500 attended the Sunday services, nearly 300 were in the classes for inquirers and more than 2500 in baptismal classes, and 328 had been baptized by the end of November, 1918. These wonderful results have been attained in spite of the district being left for more than a year without a resident missionary, during which period the Christians suffered much persecution. In his endeavour to cope with the large movement towards Christianity, the Rev. J. D. Aitken was greatly aided by ten baptized lads who visited towns in the district and passed on what they remembered of addresses which they had heard, also assisting in the examination of candidates for baptism. Igabo Country

NORTHERN PROVINCES MISSION.—The Northern Provinces experienced in 1918 an outbreak of influenza so severe that it was thought that no previous visitation of sickness had ever made such ravages. Smallpox is a great scourge in the land but its attacks are local, whereas influenza was widely prevalent, and dislocated trade, school work, and missionary activities in general in a remarkable degree.

Services at Lokoja were held in four languages, Nupé, Yoruba, Ibo, and English, and were sometimes so well attended that the church was hardly large enough to contain all the people. Bishop Tugwell held a confirmation in August when twenty-two candidates were presented from Lokoja itself, and twenty-five from the district. Some training in evangelistic work was given to a few men, and there are an industrial mission and a bookshop in the town, both on a small scale. The native Church is self-supporting, and also pays the stipends of seven missionary evangelists. In the Basa Country there was advance at Gbebe, which in the previous year had been a rather disappointing station, and at Kpata, Akabe, and Ecewu there was also encouragement. The people at Kabba, which lies to the north-west of Lokoja, continued somewhat unresponsive, but in the surrounding district an evangelistic spirit was shown by many of the Christians, especially at Otunade and Ojo. Nineteen adults were baptized during the year. Lokoja

The Training Class for Evangelists at Bida had a larger number of members than ever before, and the year was one of intensive work at many of the out-stations; at Dako in particular, a place of some Bida antiquity, and therefore held in esteem by the Nupé people, which in the past has had a very chequered history, there was a real quickening of life and work, and also at Kutigi. Several new villages asked that regular services might be held in them.

Zaria

The medical work at Zaria was small, but the school prospered and some of the boys connected with the Mission were baptized, three being Hausas of good social position and one a Berber of Bornu. Dr. W. R. S. Miller says that there was a real movement among the senior boys; some came from Kano to inquire, and one young man who first heard the Gospel from a recent convert, after spending four months in the mission house at Zaria returned to his home, and when Dr. Miller wrote in December was shortly expected back with his father and elder brother whom he had led to renounce Islam. Archdeacon Melville Jones, who paid a visit to Zaria, writes as follows:—

The trials of Moslem inquirers

It seems that once a lad actually identifies himself with the Mission and comes to live in the compound, his Moslem friends cast him off and look upon him as lost, so there is then comparatively little persecution or opposition. It is in the early stages when a Moslem begins to visit the compound, that trouble arises. Such an one is watched and if it appears that the Mission is getting an influence over him, some false charge of disloyalty or failure to pay the taxes or the like is trumped up against him and he is thrown into prison or sent off to public labour in some distant part.

In 1917 the manufacture of sugar from the cane was begun by the converts at Gimi, the Christian village, under the direction of the Rev. W. A. Thompson. The people in the country were delighted, for at the time it was almost impossible to get sugar, and trade was stimulated and work provided for many. No extension of the work, however, took place during the year under review, for the Government demanded a written guarantee that the missionaries would not use the sugar manufacture anywhere as an aid to missionary propaganda. Official antagonism prevented many itinerations from being made, but Dr. Miller was able to undertake an extensive one among the pagan tribes on the line of trade to the south.

Panyam

Two leaders among the Christians of the Sura tribe at Panyam passed away in 1918; one of them, Dakwa by name, was formerly chief of the town and a leader among the Christians, although as a polygamist he had not been admitted to the catechumenate. In the spring of 1918 Bishop Oluwole visited the station and confirmed twenty candidates. It is thought that he must have received somewhat of a shock at the innocence of the majority with regard to clothing, but the Rev. E. Hayward points out that it has been an age-long custom of the people to dispense with clothes, and also that they are very poor and find it impossible to provide themselves with these commodities while prices are so prohibitive. The school had an average attendance of about fifty persons. Some of the evangelists showed much zeal, and although at Panyam itself the people were characterized by "a stolid indifference, but thinly veiled with a plausible agreement with all that was said," the efforts of the workers were rewarded elsewhere. At Kerang, an out-station opened in 1917, there was a large movement towards Christianity on the part of the section of the population led by the paramount chief. This old man was at one time a great light of heathenism and would not leave his auguries even that a European might preach to him, and though from time to time he would attend a service which was held in his compound, he generally seemed to be asleep during the preaching. Now, however, Pulus Gunen, whose baptism was recorded in last year's REPORT (p. 29), and who is stationed at Kerang, has been cheered by the destruction of all the juju pots in the chief's house and the discarding of all the pebbles used in augury. Two new out-stations were opened, one at Jwak, an outlying part of Panyam, and the other at Kopal, three miles to the south.

Kabwir

Twenty-four persons were confirmed at Kabwir where the work is among the Angass tribe. The people of Tuwan, the Christian village, gave a fortnight of their time to itinerating, visiting most of the towns and villages of the district, staying several days at the larger places and going from house to house preaching the Gospel. Six men completed their year's course in the Training Class. The agents are now allowed to farm on their own account since during the farming season it is impossible for them to carry on their ordinary work, every one being occupied the whole of the day, and in the evening being too tired to attend the school. There was a marked revival at Kurtat, and prospects were good at Kurum, a new out-station two miles south-east of Per. Towards the close of 1917 a deputation of nineteen men visited Kabwir from Kurum asking for a resident teacher, and one was sent in November of that year; within twelve months the attendance at the Sunday services reached a hundred and there were a men inquirers' class of thirty-six members and a well-attended women's class, and at daily morning prayers about forty persons were usually present. The Government refused permission to open other out-stations, although at one place named Ampam, an important town, the chief and elders went to the assistant district officer to ask that the Mission might be allowed to send a teacher. This attitude of the Government has been prejudicial to the spread of Christianity, since it has created an impression in the minds of the people that the Government are opposed to such a development. Nevertheless, the Rev. C. H. Wedgwood expresses his opinion that before very long there will be a mass movement towards Christianity in the district.

EAST AFRICA MISSIONS

PAST HISTORY

In 1844 Dr. Krapf, having lately been expelled from Abyssinia, established himself at Mombasa, where two years later he was joined by the Rev. John Rebmann, who opened the station at Kisulutini (Rabai) in 1846, and laboured on the coast for twenty-nine years. Their remarkable journeys into the interior led to all the subsequent geographical and missionary enterprise in East Africa. It was chiefly through the efforts of the C.M.S. that the Parliamentary Committee of 1871 was obtained, which led to Sir Bartle Frere's mission to Zanzibar in the following year. In 1874 the Rev. W. S. Price, formerly in charge of a C.M.S. asylum for rescued slaves at Nasik, Western India, was sent out; some 200 African Christians from among the freed slaves who had been under his care were collected as the nucleus of an industrial colony; land was purchased for a settlement, which was named Frere Town, in honour of Sir Bartle Frere; and 500 rescued slaves were, in 1875, received from H.M. cruisers, and housed, fed, instructed, and led to work for their living. In the Taita Country stations were opened at Sagalla in 1883, Mbale in 1900, and Wusi in 1905; at Vitengeni, in the Giriama Country, in 1912; at Kabete and Nairobi, in the Ukamba Province, in 1900 and 1906 respectively; and at Weithaga (1903), Kahuhia (1906), Kabare and Embu (1910), Muitira (1912), and Kathukeni (1913), in the Kenia Province.

When in 1876 a mission party was sent up-country to establish a Mission in Uganda, the route adopted was from Bagamoyo, on the coast opposite Zanzibar, through Ukaguru, Ugogo, and Unyamwezi; and intermediate stations between the east coast and the southern shore of the Victoria Lake were established, at Mpapua and Mamboya, in what is now German territory, in 1876 and 1880. The German East Africa Mission was extended by the occupation of Berega, Nyangala, and Mvumi in 1900; Buigiri in 1901; and Kongwa in 1904. The work in this Mission was almost entirely suspended during the war, though the African teachers at many places faithfully maintained it as far as was possible.

For these Missions a new bishopric was established in 1884, with "Eastern Equatorial Africa" as the title of the see, and the Rev. J. Hannington was consecrated the first bishop in that year. In 1897 the diocese was divided into the dioceses of Uganda and Mombasa; the latter diocese embraces the whole of the British East Africa Protectorate, with the exception of the native reserves in the western portion of the Nyanza Province, and in German East Africa extends to long. 38° E. and lat. 8° S. The Right Rev. R. S. Heywood, formerly a C.M.S. missionary in Western India, is the present Bishop of Mombasa.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The Society's work in East Africa has developed considerably since the formation of the diocese of Mombasa, and is now carried on in two distinct Missions.

I. (a) In British East Africa the stations by the coast—Mombasa, Frere Town, and Rabai—are of long standing. There are a divinity class, a boys' hostel, and a medical mission at Frere Town; and a normal class and the Buxton High School for boys at Mombasa. Much care and thought are expended on the pastoral care of the converts, many of whom are liberated slaves or the children of such.

(b) Proceeding inland about a hundred miles there are found stations at Sagalla, Mbale, and Wusi in the Taita Country. Other stations have been opened farther from the coast at Nairobi, the capital of British East Africa, and elsewhere in the Ukamba Province, and at Weithaga, Kahuhia, and other places around Mount Kenia. At all these the work is mainly evangelistic.

In the British East Africa Mission there are 18 European and 5 African clergymen, 4 European and 148 African Christian laymen, 18 wives of missionaries, and 14 European women workers. Two of the above are doctors.

II. In the "German" East Africa Mission elementary schools were prominent before the war at Berega, Kongwa, Mvumi, Buigiri, and their out-stations. There was a training college for catechists at Kongwa. The Society's staff consists of 6 European clergymen, 5 missionaries' wives, 9 European women, and a number of African Christian workers.

A CONFERENCE of representatives of missionary societies working in East Africa was held at Kikuyu from 23 to 26 July, under the presidency of Bishop Willis, who had been chairman at the conference of 1913, and secretary of earlier conferences in Kavirondo in January, 1908 and 1909, and at Nairobi in June, 1909. Rather more than a hundred persons were present in 1918, the company including not only the Bishops of Zanzibar and Mombasa and many missionaries, but also several leading government officials and settlers. The Bishop of Zanzibar brought forward certain proposals for a united Church, as distinct from an alliance of missionary societies, but the representatives of the non-episcopal societies were unable to accept them. Eventually an Alliance was formed, subject to approval of the home authorities of the participating societies, between the Church of Scotland Mission, the Africa Inland Mission, the United Methodist Church, the British and Foreign Bible Society, and the C.M.S., the basis of which was defined in the following terms:—

The Kikuyu Conference

An Alliance formed

(a) The loyal acceptance of Holy Scripture as the supreme rule of faith and practice, of the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds as a general expression of Christian belief, of the absolute authority of Holy Scripture as the Word of God, of the deity of Jesus Christ, and of the atoning death of the Lord Jesus Christ as the ground of our forgiveness.

(b) The regular administration of the two sacraments, Baptism and the Lord's Supper, by the outward signs as commanded by Christ.

Provision was made for a representative council of the Alliance; the methods to be adopted by each society within its sphere as to membership, the sacraments, and the ministry were laid down; and the relationship of the Alliance to non-allied societies was defined. Moreover, the following declaration of purpose was made by the signatories:—

A united Church the goal

We, being profoundly convinced, for the sake of our common Lord and of those African Christians to whom our controversies are as yet unknown, of the need for a united Church in British East Africa, earnestly entreat the home authorities to take such steps as may be necessary, in consultation with the Churches concerned, to remove the difficulties which at present make this ideal impossible. In the meantime we adopt the basis of Alliance, not as the ideal, but as the utmost possible in view of our present unhappy division, and the members of the Alliance pledge themselves not to rest until they can all share one ministry.

The conference made an important change in the draft of a constitution of Alliance which had been prepared, by deleting the word "native" from the description of the longed-for united Church. Among the other matters discussed were church organization, public worship, education, marriage, and sundry social questions. The non-missionary visitors took an important part in the conference, and expressed their pleasure at the recognition which their admission to it afforded of the fact that the co-operation of all—missionaries, officials, and settlers—is needed to secure the highest good of the natives of the country. They also desired to thank God that the policy of separate Churches for Europeans and Africans had been abandoned.[1]

The Committee have accepted the resignation of Miss M. A. Ackerman after twenty-five years' service, and have recorded the acceptance by the Missionary Society of the Church of Canada of that of the Rev. Dr. T. B. R. Westgate.

Literary work

In Swahili, Archdeacon J. Hamshere was engaged in the preparation of a book on doctrine and a short commentary on the Epistle to the Romans, and the Rev. H. K. Binns began a revision of Dr. Krapf's Swahili-English dictionary, and also edited a magazine entitled "Lenga Juu," which means "aim high." In Kikuyu, Canon H. Leakey revised St. Luke's Gospel, translated the epistles of St. James and St. Peter, the epistle to the Hebrews, and catechisms on the Old and New Testaments, and began the translation of the book of Genesis.

Famine

BRITISH EAST AFRICA MISSION.—British East Africa was greatly afflicted by famine between March and October, 1918, and some of the villages lost all their inhabitants. Among the children the boys suffered more than the girls, for the people look well after the latter since a girl's future husband pays her parents a large number of goats or cattle. The people scattered far and wide in search of food; schools had to be closed; and mission work in general was affected. But there was a bright side of the visitation, in that owing to the efforts of the missionaries to afford relief, the people became more favourably disposed to Christianity.

Mombasa

The number of Indians attending the Buxton High School, Mombasa, was maintained notwithstanding the opening of a new government high school and of a Khojah (Mohammedan) school recognized by H.H. Agha Khan. Many parents appeared to prefer a Christian Indian school. There was an increase in the number of African pupils, and among them a keen desire to be baptized was shown. Four trained teachers left the normal class for posts as mission schoolmasters. The Bookshop had a very busy year. A consignment of Swahili Prayer Books was almost disposed of in two months, while New Testaments met with an unprecedented sale. Through the efforts of the senior catechist, Paul Jibran by name, evangelistic work was well maintained, and open-air meetings were encouraging both as concerned numbers, interest, and attention. Forty-four persons, nearly all of them men, were baptized, and there were about forty men in baptismal classes. Two men from the Digo Country, which lies to the south of Mombasa, went to Frere Town for training as mission agents, the first members of the Digo tribe to do so.

Frere Town

The Divinity Class at Frere Town had two men reading for ordination and seven students seeking the junior reader's grade.

[1] "C.M. Rev.," March, 1919, pp. 6, ff.

The Hospital, transferred from Mzizima in 1917 because the Government required the buildings, was housed in temporary premises; 900 in-patients were received, including more women than for several years past. The Congregation was small, and owing to the lack of hardship in connexion with the profession of their religion a weak type of Christianity prevailed. The friendship between the Christians and the Mohammedan Swahilis carries with it certain dangers, and several of the Christian girls were induced to marry Moslems; at the same time there was some improvement in the Church, and a new out-station was opened at Bawamba. Archdeacon Hamshere paid a visit in February to the German Mission in the Pare Country, which lies to the south of Kilimanjaro. He found that the mission staff had been greatly reduced and that Islam had made serious progress, especially among the head-men, while at the more distant stations three of the church leaders had reverted to paganism.

Rabai

The schools at Rabai suffered through the famine, and there was a more serious set-back to the work through the unworthy life of the African pastor, who had to be suspended.

Kaloleni

At Kaloleni the attendance at the classes dwindled for a time almost to nothing, but matters improved later. The earnest work of some Christians at a village called Mkondzo in carrying on a school, at which the attendance rose to thirty-eight, was most cheering.

Sagalla

The people in the Sagalla district showed little interest in the Gospel, but there were a few men and women under definite instruction.

Wusi

Wusi was left in charge of an African worker, and received only occasional visits from a European missionary. A good spiritual tone is said to prevail among the Christians. A few young men were ready for baptism at Taveta, where the people were much occupied in rebuilding on the old site the settlement which had been destroyed by the Germans.

Mbale

Although many of the men who belonged to Mbale were with the forces, and extra work consequently devolved upon those who remained at home, the classes were well attended, the Sunday school grew, and dispensary patients were rather more in number than in 1917. Thirty-five adults were admitted as inquirers, thirty inquirers became catechumens, and twelve adults received baptism. The so-called European dancing which was mentioned in last year's REPORT (p. 33) as being a snare to the Christians, died out. A new out-station was opened at Weruga.

Nairobi

The number of women at the school at Nairobi, and in classes increased, and four of them were baptized. In 1918 a girls' school was opened which gained an attendance of twenty; one of the pupils asked to be admitted as an inquirer. When visiting the villages in the neighbourhood Miss E. Howard always had a friendly reception, and numbers of people crowded to the meetings, which she held as a rule in the houses of the women who were learning to read. At one village, when the people were jostling each other so as better to see the pictures which she was showing, she was invited to go to the veranda of the house of the head-man, a Mohammedan, and he afterwards gave her permission to use the place at any time for a similar purpose.

Kabete

After many years of up-hill work the tide has turned at Kabete, and Canon H. Leakey says that soon the problem will be how to deal with the multitudes asking to be taught. The opposition of the chiefs, though still pronounced, was rather less than in the past, and some of them allowed their daughters to attend school. The lately enlarged church was crowded, and the Christians on the whole were true to their promises. There were a hundred communicants, thirty persons were to be confirmed in October, and four hundred were under definite instruction with a view to baptism. At the out-stations also the outlook was bright.

Kahuhia

The Rev. H. D. Hooper, of Kahuhia, speaks favourably of the effect that employment in the Missions Carrier Corps had on its members. It conduced to humility as they realized that the whole carrier corps was only a tiny fraction of the forces employed, while as strangers in a foreign country among those who had no sympathy with their religion, the mission adherents were thankful for the Christian brotherhood which they found in the mission corps. More than 800 boys joined the corps from C.M.S. stations in the Cis-Tana district of the Kenia Province—418 from Weithaga, 325 from Kahuhia, and 100 from Kathukeni, besides others from Kabare, Muitira, and Embu, in the Trans-Tana district. Kahuhia suffered in common with many other stations through the famine, and the people were so listless that it was difficult to induce them to attend school. After the harvest and the return to their homes of those who had scattered in search of food, matters improved. There was a considerable increase during the year in the number of women attending school; and the dispensary, though there was no qualified medical man at the station, attracted many people.

Weithaga

After an absence of two years on war service, the Rev. A. W. McGregor returned to Weithaga to find that there had been some backsliding among the men Christians, possibly due to the station having been left without any man missionary. The famine made it necessary to close all schools during the summer, but by October work was in full swing again. The church services were well attended, 450 persons were being taught in the school, and 250 were under instruction for baptism. Fifty persons were baptized in the district. At the out-stations—Njumbi, eight miles north of Weithaga, Kiruri fifteen miles west of it, Mariaini thirteen miles to the south-west, and Fort Hall—there were a goodly number of inquirers and catechumens, making a total of 700 adherents in the district, besides baptized Christians. Mr. McGregor says that there is a decided desire among many young men and women to get a "new name," i.e. to be baptized, but adds that this is largely due to a wish for emancipation from Kikuyu restraints and to imitation of European ways and customs, and that there is "nothing like a mass movement towards Christianity." Some anxiety was felt concerning the work among women. With the increased freedom of the girls, a lower tone prevailed among those who put themselves under instruction, and the fact that many had not come forward of their own free will, but were sent by their husbands and guardians to be taught, tended to unreality.

Not a mass movement

There is a congregation numbering about 150 at Kathukeni, which was without a European missionary during the latter half of 1918.

Kathukeni

At Muitira the work is still in its initial stages and much difficulty is met with, both through there being no words in the language for obedience, love, truth, sympathy, and the like, and also through the number of dialects spoken in the district. But the work is telling by degrees, and the relief afforded to the people during the famine brought the Rev. G. W. Wright into intimate contact with a number of them. Many young men and women are said to be ready to join classes and attend them regularly and will go on to baptism and confirmation, breaking away from some of their old superstitions. But there is no real desire to pass on the truth to others or to help in spiritual work, excepting for reward.

Muitira

At Kabare, which Mr. Wright visited from time to time, he was boycotted because he refused to lend the people money to pay their small tax to the Government, and they declined to help him to get necessary drinking water. There was, however, a continued readiness on the part of many to receive instruction.

Kabare

Fort Embu is the centre of a district covering 877 square miles and containing a population of 123,000. At this place a good deal of resentment was shown at so many of the men being sent to serve as carriers in "German" East Africa. With the exception of those who had made a stand for Christ, all the boys from the district who had been carriers returned to heathenism. The resentment which was felt led to a falling off in many branches of the work and in the attendance at the school, and the famine also made matters difficult. Five men and a woman—the first converts of the work at Fort Embu—were baptized at Easter, 1918, and when the year closed six persons were shortly to be admitted to the catechumenate.

Fort Embu

"GERMAN" EAST AFRICA.—The German force under General von Lettow-Vorbeck surrendered on November 14 in Northern Rhodesia.

Reconstruction in "German" East Africa

The Rev. E. W. Doulton, the secretary of the Mission, who reached Dar-es-Salaam in March, 1918, was warmly welcomed by the Christians and inquirers wherever he went. He found that though the war and the persecution which many of the teachers had undergone had undoubtedly been prejudicial, yet the work had been maintained, and at some places converts, won by the teachers, were presented for baptism. In Ukaguru there had been a great set-back at Mamboya, and Berega too had suffered much, but the teachers in the latter district had worked faithfully. Fifty-nine adults were baptized in Ugogo, thirty-six of them in the Buigiri district. Others were baptized at Mvumi and at Handali, an out-station in that district. Towards the end of the year Ugogo suffered much from famine and influenza, and Andereya Lungwa, the head teacher at Mvumi, "one of the very best men in the Mission," as Mr. Doulton calls him, was carried off by the disease.

UGANDA MISSION

PAST HISTORY

The original impetus to the exploration of Africa from the east coast was given by the C.M.S. missionaries, Krapf, Rebmann, and Erhardt. They communicated to Europe the first report of the lake system of the interior, which led to the journeys of Burton, Speke, and Grant, and, incidentally, to those of Stanley. In November, 1875, in consequence of information sent home by the last named of the readiness of Mtesa, king of Uganda, to receive Christian teachers, and of the offer of two anonymous donations of £5000 each in order that a missionary expedition might be sent to his dominions, the Society resolved, in dependence upon God, to organize a Mission in Uganda, and a well-equipped party accordingly proceeded to East Africa in the spring of 1876. The first leader, Lieut. G. Shergold Smith, R.N., and Mr. T. O'Neill were killed, and Dr. J. Smith died before reaching the country. The Mission, however, maintained its position in Uganda from June, 1877, and that notwithstanding tremendous difficulties. A French Roman Catholic Mission arrived in 1879. King Mtesa, who died in 1884, was succeeded by Mwanga, and the new king was led to regard the missionaries with suspicion. He caused Bishop Hannington, while in Busoga, en route for Uganda from the coast, to be murdered on 31 October, 1885. The storm reached its climax in the arrest of many African Christians, several of whom were tortured and burnt to death. In August, 1888, King Mwanga was driven from the throne. In October, through the hostility of the Mohammedan Arabs, the English and French missionaries were expelled from the country, and a period of revolution and bloodshed ensued. In October, 1889, exactly a year after the missionaries' expulsion, Mwanga re-entered Uganda and regained his throne through the help of his Christian subjects, and two of the missionaries returned with him. Alexander Mackay, however, one of the pioneer missionaries, died in 1890 while at the south end of the Lake. In the same year Mwanga accepted a British flag from the representatives of the Imperial British East Africa Company. Sir Gerald Portal reached Uganda, as Queen's Commissioner, in March, 1893, and in April, 1894, the British Government declared the country a British protectorate. In the summer of 1897 Mwanga fled from the capital, and his infant son Chwa, baptized by the name of David, was proclaimed king. In September of the same year a serious mutiny of the Sudanese troops broke out; several European officers were seized and murdered; and one of the missionaries, Mr. G. L. Pilkington, who in response to the appeal of the authorities was accompanying the government forces as interpreter, lost his life. The country of Busoga first had a resident missionary in 1891, and in the five following years there was rapid expansion in the kingdom of Buganda; Toro was occupied in 1896; Bunyoro in 1899; Kavirondo in 1900; Ankole in 1901; the Acholi Country in 1904; and Bukedi in 1908.

In 1897 the diocese of Eastern Equatorial Africa was subdivided, the Uganda Protectorate, according to the boundaries then obtaining (which have since been altered), being formed into the diocese of Uganda, which Bishop Tucker elected to retain, relinquishing the remainder to form the diocese of Mombasa. He resigned in 1911, and Bishop Willis, a missionary of the Society, was consecrated as his successor in 1912.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

I. The whole kingdom of Buganda, which is co-terminous with the province of that name, is occupied by British missionaries or Baganda clergymen.

Candidates are prepared for ordination in the Bishop Tucker Memorial College at Mukono; training classes for men are held at various stations; and men school teachers are trained in a normal school at Budo. For women there are evangelists' training classes at Kampala, the capital, and elsewhere, and a normal school for girls at Gayaza. The schools include an intermediate school (known as the King's School), and lower grade schools at Kampala, Mukono (Bishop's School), Kasangate, Ndeje, Mityana, Kikoma, and Kako, all of them for the sons of chiefs and for others who can pay the fees; a girls' boarding school at Gayaza; and a considerable number of elementary schools. All the schools are supported by the Uganda Church, the C.M.S. providing only the salaries of the European missionaries engaged in them. At Kampala there is also the Mengo hospital, with a training school for men students, a maternity school for women, and several affiliated dispensaries.

II. In the Western Province, which comprises the kingdoms of Ankole and Toro, and in the kingdom of Bunyoro, in the Northern Province, the training of evangelists is prosecuted at Mbarara, Kabarole, and Hoima, and at each station and at Masindi there is also a lower grade school. There is a hospital at Kabarole. Work is also carried on at Gulu, in the Acholi Country.

III. In Busoga work is of long standing; but in Bukedi, which, like Busoga is in the Eastern Province, and in Kavirondo, which is in the East Africa Protectorate, it is more recent. There are training classes for men evangelists at Kamuli, Ng'ora, and Maseno, and for women evangelists at Iganga, and lower grade boys' schools at Kamuli, Ng'ora, Mbale, and Maseno.

IV. Work has been taken over from the Lutheran Mission in Buwaya, south of Uganda in "German" East Africa.

The pastoral care of the 123,820 Christians connected with the Society in the Mission is shared by European missionaries and Baganda, Batoro, Banyoro, and Basoga clergymen. All the African clergymen and lay teachers, who now number 60 and 3775 respectively, have always been entirely maintained by the contributions of the people, save that since 1910 a number of evangelists have been sent to Bukedi who are supported from money voted to the diocese by the committee entrusted with the distribution of the unallotted portion of the Pan-Anglican Thankoffering.

Throughout the Mission evangelistic work is largely in the hands of African evangelists superintended by European missionaries.

The staff of the Mission consists, besides Bishop Willis, of 36 European clergymen, 5 doctors, 6 other laymen, 39 missionaries' wives, and 29 other women missionaries; 7 of the women are trained nurses, working in connexion with the medical missions.

Diocesan boundaries

In 1897, when the diocese of Uganda was formed, its area was the same as that of the protectorate. Some years later what is now known as the Nyanza Province was transferred to the British East Africa Protectorate but it was not thought expedient to make any change in the diocesan boundaries. Now, however, the conditions under which work is carried on in Kavirondo being so different from those in other parts of the Uganda Mission, it is proposed to transfer to the diocese of Mombasa that part of the diocese of Uganda which lies in British East Africa.

Prevalence of sickness

The annual letters from the Uganda Mission are full of references to the abnormal amount of sickness which prevailed in 1918. At the beginning of that year there still remained some cases of cerebro-spinal meningitis which was widespread in 1917; this was succeeded by smallpox at a time when shortage of food was being felt sorely; and lastly influenza made its appearance. Apparently this disease was not so severe as in many countries, for while cases were numerous, the mortality was small in comparison with that elsewhere. Other difficulties, besides sickness, were experienced in carrying on the work. The General Review of the Mission, after referring to the great reduction in the number of missionaries, says:—

> Building work has been continued, where it has been possible to continue it at all, at an immensely increased cost. Labour has been prohibitive, and often impossible. Printing has become more and more difficult and expensive, and essential school material has been for months unobtainable. Churches and schools in many parts of the country have fallen into disrepair and it has been impossible to renew them. The cost of cloth has steadily increased, and the small allowance given to catechists, inadequate in time of peace, has been totally unequal to the increased cost of living in time of war, with the inevitable result that many, temporarily at least, have left the work.

Deaths of Rev. H.R. Sugden and Miss E. M. Piffin

The Rev. H. R. Sugden who worked in Uganda from 1893–9 died on 4 June, 1918.

Miss E. M. Piffin passed away on July 26. She sailed for Uganda in 1904, and was stationed at Kampala throughout her missionary career. One of her colleagues writes: "Her quiet, full, and fruitful life will long be remembered. She was beloved by every one."

The Committee have accepted the resignations of Miss A. M. Brown and Miss M. I. Godfrey, and the period of Dr. A. C. S. Smith's agreement with the Society has expired.

Literary work

The literary work in the Mission was as follows: Canon H. T. C. Weatherhead was engaged in the revision of a Luganda Commentary on Acts, written by a master at King's School, and also edited the monthly Luganda magazine, "Ebifa mu Buganda," which has a circulation of about 1200; Miss E. C. Pike finished the compilation of a Lunyoro hymn-book with 210 hymns; Archdeacon A. L. Kitching made progress in translating Acts into Ateso; and the Rev. A. E. Pleydell rendered portions of the Prayer Book and some hymns into Dholuwo.

Kampala

BUGANDA PROVINCE.—Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Cook were warmly welcomed on their return to the Mengo Hospital at Kampala in September, 1918, and found that a waiting-room for Indian patients had been erected to commemorate the event. The last two years have witnessed some important developments in the medical work, first in the inauguration in 1917 of a medical school with six students, and second in the opening of a maternity training school which had thirteen students at the end of 1918. The Training Class for Women Evangelists had fourteen members, but unfortunately those offering for work were not up to the standard of former days. Three students from the Training School for Women School Teachers went to posts in the Mission, two going to Kavirondo where they engaged in definite missionary work in a new language. A new Central School for Girls has been started, in which higher education is given to the daughters of Baganda able to pay small fees, but too poor to afford the fees of a boarding school. The school soon had about forty pupils. There were various other forms of missionary activity—classes were held for chiefs and old Budo boys, visits were paid to the people in their homes, women's district and parochial councils were superintended. Work was also carried on among the European residents.

Work among women was resumed at Gayaza in 1918 after a lapse of some years. Gayaza

As many as forty boys were admitted to the King's School, Budo, a larger percentage than usual of the candidates gaining pass marks in the entrance examination. Excellent accounts were received of old boys at the front; several have become non-commissioned officers, one is a sergeant-major, and one has won the military medal. Even more gratifying than these successes was a letter sent to Canon H. T. C. Weatherhead from a soldier in England. It ran thus:— Budo A gratifying testimony

> May I trouble you to assist me to get into touch with one of your old pupils whom I had the pleasure of meeting at —— at Christmas last? I shall for all time have to be thankful to God that I was brought to know this youth; his name is ——. The real, deep-rooted religion of this boy, his real fortitude under very great trial, his love of right for right's sake, his devotion to his Church and to the Scriptures, made an impression on me the like of which I had never before experienced. You, dear Sir, cannot realize the great service the lad did me, nor indeed may I tell you. I had been two years from civilization in special service, and my life and my whole outlook had depreciated. I owe it to this boy that a realization of my duties as a Christian was forced upon me.

A conference was held of higher grade teachers who had passed through King's School and held a leaving certificate; there are now more than thirty such engaged in the Mission, and they came from as far afield as Bunyoro, Ankole, Toro, Busoga, Teso, and Kavirondo, as well as from Buganda.

At Entebbe many of the government officials are earnest Christian men. To give one instance of helpfulness: the mission bookshop having been broken into, the head of the medical department not only offered to have the goods removed to his own house, but also said that he himself would sell Bibles, Prayer Books, etc., for the Mission during two hours each day. Entebbe

Forty-eight of the students at the Bishop Tucker Memorial College at Mukono sat for their examination in March, 1918, and thirty-two passed, eight being accepted for ordination; one of them Mukono was a Musoga, the first of that nation to be ordained. Only three new candidates were admitted to the ordination class in April, one reason being that the contributions from the people are decreasing and consequently it is hard to provide for the support of the pastors.

Ndeje

The scarcity of food reduced the attendance at the classes at Ndeje, but patients were more numerous at the dispensary.

Mityana

At Mityana dispensary work was valuable as affording the missionaries opportunities for that personal contact with the people which the development of the Mission and consequent entrusting of the pastoral work to the Baganda clergy has diminished of late years. There was a great desire for education, but the Rev. S. R. Skeens says that many of the Christians have lost their first love and their aggressiveness in propagating their faith, and have settled down to a "comfortable Christianity."

Kako

New buildings were erected for the Central School at Kako, most of the cost being met by gifts from the scholars. Conventions were held at three centres for workers in the Budu district, of which Kako is the capital.

WESTERN PROVINCE.—Work was begun in the kingdom of Ankole in 1900 and the first baptism took place two years later. By 1907 the number of baptized Christians had increased to 456, and by 1917 to 5067, and more than 212 out-stations have been opened. More than 750 persons were baptized in 1918.

Mbarara

The Governor of the protectorate paid a visit to Mbarara in the summer of 1918, and thoroughly examined the mission schools and other branches of the work. Among the boys at the High School were five Banyalwanda, one of them a chief, from Ruanda, in "German" East Africa, whence many people have lately migrated to Ankole. Eight girls were in the Women Evangelists' Training Class. One of them, from a distant village, before entering the class was found after her confirmation to have gathered round her a few other girls, who together had put up a shanty which they called a church; forty women and girls are now under instruction in that village. Seven of the thirty-seven pupils in the Girls' Boarding School were under instruction for baptism; also eight of the girls at the day school. An outstanding event of the year was the marriage of the only daughter of the king to the eldest son of the prime minister; it was the first time that a royal bride's face had been allowed to be seen. At Itozo, where the Rev. A. Muyinda, an honorary deacon and chief, is stationed, many were under instruction by himself and his wife who is a princess. There was a great increase of lubare (spirit) worship in Nyabushozi. In Kigezi, which covers nearly 2000 square miles and has a population of 150,000, a European missionary is much needed.

A small government grant was received for the carpentry class at the High School at Kabarole, in the kingdom of Toro, where from thirty to forty boys were boarders. Four members of the Class for Women Evangelists received certificates. A new industry was set on foot at the Girls' Boarding School, which had seventy boarders. As it was desired to introduce lawn tennis, some of the girls were taught to make twine for the net, and the material was so much in demand by the planters that orders came in faster than they could be met. On the occasion of a visit from the Governor there was an exhibition of school work which was afterwards sold and made a profit of more than £20. Thirty-six of the girls received baptism. Two of the school prefects went to the Hospital to be trained as nurses, and acquitted themselves admirably; two students from the Mengo hospital were also very helpful in the medical work. A new brick dispensary and outpatients' department were provided, and an Indian hospital was begun and almost finished. The Rev. W. S. R. Russell who was in charge of the work in the district says that "the period of the first enthusiasm has passed; and we are passing through the reactionary stage. Drink, polygamy, and witchcraft are great obstacles." He made several itinerations and reports a beginning of work among the Bukonjo, a people previously almost untouched, and the baptism of two boys, the firstfruits of efforts to win the Bwamba tribe. Kabarole

NORTHERN PROVINCE.—Meningitis, smallpox, famine, and influenza not only prevented progress at Masindi, but made it very difficult even to maintain existing work. The Banyoro as a whole are lacking in force of character, but their Mukama (king), Andereya by name, is keen on the welfare of his country. Largely through his help a High School for boys was opened in 1917, which at the end of 1918 had fifty pupils; and two of his daughters were among the pupils at a similar school for girls, established in 1918 with an honorary teacher in the person of a daughter of Ham Mukasa, the chief of Kyagwe in Buganda. Moreover, finding that the people were slack in sending their children to the day schools, Andereya appointed a native chief as attendance officer. A small technical school, founded in 1917, had sixteen boys and many orders for work were received. Financially the Church was in a healthy condition, real help being derived from the missionary boxes which were given to the keenest Christians; as much as £26 was collected in one box. Masindi

Every branch of work in the Hoima district suffered through famine and sickness, and the churches and schools had to be closed for three or four months; at some centres, indeed, the congregations were practically wiped out by smallpox or entirely scattered by famine, and the churches fell into disuse. The High School prospered both numerically and scholastically. Nine lads were in training at the station as pupil teachers. Hoima

Gulu, At Gulu, where a people called the Gang are reached, disease and famine prevailed, and attendance at the High School was reduced in consequence of quarantine restrictions which prevented the return of many of the boys after the vacation. Most of the thirty-six lads were being trained as school teachers. One, thirteen years of age, was invited by the Government to take a chieftainship vacant through the death of his brother, and gave satisfaction in the post notwithstanding his youth. Four hundred baptisms were recorded in the district in 1918, a larger number than in any previous year.

Jinja EASTERN PROVINCE.—Services for the European community were conducted at Jinja.

Iganga An improvement was noticed in the tone of the Girls' Boarding School at Iganga, which had more names on the roll than in 1917 and received a government grant. Many of the schools in the district were closed because of famine, but despite their distress numbers of the people purchased scriptures. There was a large gathering to witness the ordination of Nasanaeri Wabuleta, the first Musoga to reach the ministry. The country chiefs of Busoga have declared themselves in favour of strengthening the laws about monogamy.

Kamuli At Kamuli, in North Busoga, men are trained for their first teacher's certificate, and there are a High School and a Central School, the latter established in 1918 with an ex-Budo boy in charge. Non-Christian marriages were a great hindrance to the Church, and in some parts of the district the number of different tribes (in one pastorate there are no fewer than five) constitutes a real difficulty.

Mbale The Mbale C.M.S. district contains more than 500,000 people, nearly half of whom are Bagisu, scattered over an area of 3500 square miles. Among these the Protestant European staff consists of only two clergymen, the wife of one of them, and a single woman. Several of the missionaries refer to the serious hindrance to the work in the district arising from the fact that it is carried on in Luganda, which few of the Bagisu understand. At the boys' day school, for example, the teaching is entirely in Luganda, though among the forty-five lads there are rarely more than two Baganda, the majority being Bagisu, and the others Badama, Basoga, Bateso, Banyuli, and Bakavirondo. The number of the boys in the High School in the autumn was smaller than earlier in the year because of the famine and of an increase which was made in the fees. There was rather serious trouble with one or two of the lads, but improvement could be traced in the character of the older boys, several of whom of their own accord expressed a desire to preach the Gospel, and nine were baptized. At the Harper memorial dispensary, which was re-opened in 1918, from forty to fifty patients attended daily. There is a marked movement towards Christianity in the district; the example of the Baganda who have entered the country in large numbers as administrators and teachers has great weight with the Bagisu, and a desire to "become as Baganda" was sometimes being given as the reason for asking for baptism. While there was this desire for Christian instruction, there was also a considerable growth of Mohammedanism, and in the last three years the number of mosques in the district has increased from five to forty.

Imitating the Baganda

Nearly 300 persons were confirmed at Ng'ora, in the Teso district, but Archdeacon Kitching when questioning candidates found a perceptibly lower standard of knowledge, due largely to the station having been for several months without a European clergyman, and to the inability of the solitary Muganda pastor to cope with the work. He was "overweighted by sheer numbers," having a continual stream of candidates to be examined for baptism, besides being responsible for the training of teachers for the first certificate. That work later in the year was taken over by Mr. W. S. Syson, who was in charge of the High School, or agricultural college, as government officials term it. Many lads after passing through the school have been given government posts as clerks or interpreters or sub-chiefs, while latterly several have been chosen to be chiefs by the lukiko, or council of chiefs, composed mostly of non-Christians, and Mr. Syson is able to say that by God's grace not one has failed. More than 1000 persons received baptism in 1918 in the district, which covers 10,000 square miles; eighty-six of these were received into the visible Church at one centre in a single afternoon, seventy-six at another, and so on. There are now a hundred village churches, each with its own teacher. The readers at a place plant trees round the church compound to be used for future rebuilding, and provide for their teachers' support by cultivating a certain amount of food for him each month and also a field of cotton, the produce of which is devoted to his pay and the support of a local school. In addition they contribute to the church collections, which in the district amounted in 1918 to nearly £100. The backwardness of work among the women and girls is a serious drawback to the welfare of the Church.

Methods of self-support

KAVIRONDO.—An important movement towards Christianity is in progress in Kavirondo, where in the five years 1912–17 the number of baptisms has increased from sixty-three to 2398. Yet the Rev. A. E. Pleydell says that there is no mass movement, as in India, seeing that it is almost entirely the young people who come forward. The magnitude of the movement has alarmed the heathen party, and a heathen catechumenate has been formed, the members of which renounce Christianity and make vows to be faithful heathen, in some instances baptizing themselves with mud into the religion of their ancestral spirit worship. Whole districts have thus been affected, and hundreds of people have discarded clothing for red ochre. One lapsed reader painted a large yellow cross on his chest as an imitation of the "Sign of the Cross." Happily, though several catechumens have fallen, only one baptized Christian has gone back.

A heathen catechumenate formed

Maseno

At Maseno the High School was closed for a time owing partly to sickness but still more to famine, which raised the price of food. The school had about seventy names on the roll; fifteen boys in the technical department, in which carpentry and bricklaying are taught, finished their training. The girls' school had rather more than forty pupils, fifteen of whom were Luo girls, taken as boarders, but these had to be sent away because of the famine. Much opposition to Christianity was displayed by the chiefs and elders, but the village people were keen to hear the Gospel, and at one place eight girls of the Luo tribe were found to be living in one house and supporting themselves, because their heathen relatives would not let them learn about God. There were 6000 catechumens at the end of the year.

Kisumu

The Rev. F. H. Wright says there are indications in the Kisumu district that the movement towards Christianity among the Nilotic Bakavirondo reached its flood towards the end of 1917, and that it is now on the ebb. He speaks of the independent character of the people and their keen evangelistic zeal, and mentions a young man who went in 1916 as a military transport porter, and while stationed at Tabora in "German" East Africa, gathered together a congregation of his fellow porters and King's African Rifles askaris, with such good results that one of the military chaplains on a visit to Tabora was able to baptize more than twenty men and women, presented by the young man. Nearly 250 baptisms took place in the Kisumu district, and 700 were admitted as catechumens.

Butere

In the Butere district in North Kavirondo ninety-seven persons received baptism in eleven months of 1918 as compared with thirty-nine in the whole of 1917; among the new converts was the wife of the chief. Scarcity of food affected the attendance at classes, for the people were too weak to walk the two or three miles from their scattered kraals to the mission station; attendance at the day school also fell off in consequence of sickness. When influenza broke out in the autumn the dispensary work was very heavy, but the sickness resulted in a footing being gained in kraals where missionaries had not previously been welcomed. Four new out-stations were opened in the northern part of the district at the foot of Mount Elgon, a region where Mohammedan influence is strong; and there was a growing demand for teachers, though the people were not willing to undertake to provide for their support. Periodical visits were paid to some of the village centres. At Musanda, whither Miss Chadwick went every week, she had about seventy young Luo women under instruction and thirty or forty Bahanga. The number of different tribes in the district is embarrassing; during one tour three villages visited in succession were found each to have a different language.

Work in a German district

BUWAYA.—Beyond the western boundary of the Uganda Diocese lies the country of Buwaya, or Kiziba, as it is sometimes called, in "German" East Africa, which is divided into nine sections under chiefs resembling the country chiefs of Buganda, save in that in Buwaya the office is hereditary. Many of these chiefs are now professing Christians. The chief of Kiziba, the district just south of the Kagera River and nearest to Uganda, is a catechumen; the chiefs of Misenyi, north of the Kagera, and of Kanangerako, were sent to the high school at Kampala and the former has been baptized, while the latter is being prepared for baptism; the chief of Karagwe has been baptized by the Roman Catholics while at their school in Buganda. Kalemara, the chief of Kiyanja, and the leading chief in the district, paid a visit to Kampala and, influenced by the kindness with which he was received by the Katikiro and other Protestant chiefs, openly joined the Protestants though at one time he attended the Roman Catholic school; and the chief of Jangiro is nominally reading for baptism but is still greatly under the sway of the witch doctors. Only one out of the nine is a professing heathen, three are connected with the Roman Catholics, and five with the Protestants. The Roman Catholics are strongly represented in the country, and have six stations, each with three or more European priests as well as a number of nuns. In 1918 the people showed a general anxiety to be taught, rather perhaps because they wished to be like the Baganda and to please the British, who are supposed to prefer a Christian, than from any deep appreciation of Christianity itself. This anxiety was somewhat tempered by uncertainty as to the return of the Germans, but nevertheless 6000 matekas (first readers), fifty Bibles, 250 New Testaments and 3000 gospels were sold. The British and Foreign Bible Society has been asked to print a translation of the Gospels and Acts into Luhaya, the local language, which the German missionaries had prepared. A number of adults were baptized by Canon R. H. Leakey, who took up his abode at Bukoba in the summer of 1917, and many were admitted into the catechumenate, as a result of the work of Baganda teachers supported by the Board of Missions of the native Anglican Church in Uganda. The Roman Church is well represented also in Ruanda, south-west of the kingdom of Ankole, which is inhabited by the Banyalwanda, comprised of two races—the Batusi-Bahima, the ruling race as yet untouched by Christianity, and the Bakutu-Bairu, who are, far more numerous.

A general anxiety to be taught

Mohammedan Lands

The Church Missionary Society is one of the few missionary societies which pay special attention to work among Mohammedans, the number of whom is estimated at 201,297,000. Work among them is attended everywhere, even in countries where Christian governments are supreme, with peculiar difficulties and often with vexatious restrictions; and these are intensified in lands under Mohammedan rule, where the law of Islam, which enacts death as the penalty for forsaking Mohammedanism for another faith, is still in some degree in force, notwithstanding proclamations of religious liberty. The British protectorate over Egypt renders the position of converts from Islam in that land less perilous than in Persia and in lands under Turkish government, where a Mohammedan can only become a Christian at the imminent risk of liberty and life.

The Society has considerable work among Mohammedans in West and East Africa, India, and Ceylon, as well as in those countries which are included under the title "Mohammedan Lands."

Pan-Islamism and Pan-Turanianism

THE Pan-Islamic movement, designed to unite all Moslem peoples, whether under the leadership of Turkey or otherwise, has of late years been somewhat superseded by a Pan-Turanian movement, which is primarily linguistic. The name Turan, which is Persian for steppe, has been given to a family of agglutinative languages spoken by the Turkish and Tatar tribes of the Central Asian steppes, but also by Finns, Hungarians, and Bulgars. The chief populations now speaking dialects of Turkish (including Tatar) are found in Eastern Russia and Siberia, Caucasus, Central Asia, Turkey proper, and in outlying provinces of Persia and Afghanistan. Practically all of these are Mohammedans. With the revolution of 1908 the idea of nationalism was imported into Turkey and a process of "Turkification" in language, education, and administration set in. The Balkan War of 1912–13, which straitened Turkey in Europe, encouraged this tendency and helped to direct attention to Turkish nationalities more than double in number outside the empire. Early in 1918 some apprehension was felt lest the Pan-Turanian movement should result in an attack on India from Central Asia, but the collapse of the Ottoman Empire removed the danger, and there have lately been some signs of a revival of Pan-Islamism.

EGYPT AND THE SUDAN MISSIONS

PAST HISTORY

The original object of the C.M.S. Missions formerly grouped under the heading of the "Mediterranean Mission," which were begun at Malta in 1815 at the close of the great war, and were afterwards extended to Egypt, Abyssinia, Greece, Turkey, Asia Minor, and Palestine, was twofold: first, to revive the eastern Churches; and, second, through them to evangelize the Mohammedans. Some very able and devoted missionaries were employed in this work—Jowett, Gobat, Krapf, Pfander, Koelle, etc. But the hopes of the founders of the Society were not fulfilled. Oriental Christendom manifested no readiness to be quickened into life by emissaries from the West; and Moslem fanaticism, which barely tolerated Greek and Armenian Christianity, utterly repudiated the Gospel when presented in a pure form.

The Society formerly had a Mission in Egypt, as part of its scheme for the revival of the eastern Churches. Many of the Coptic clergy and one bishop were trained in the C.M.S. seminary at Cairo; but the visible results were small and the work was discontinued in 1862. In 1882, in response to the appeals of the late Miss Whately and in consequence of the British occupation of Egypt, the Rev. F. A. Klein, formerly of Jerusalem, was sent to Cairo to begin a new Mission among the Mohammedans. A medical mission was opened in 1889, and women were added to the staff in the following year. Helôuan was occupied in 1903, and Menouf and Shubra Zanga in 1910. After Gordon's death at Khartoum in 1885 a Gordon Memorial Fund was opened, and soon after the defeat of the Khalifa's forces Omdurman (1899) and Khartoum (1900) were occupied, under some restrictions, however, as to evangelistic efforts. Atbara was occupied in 1908. In 1905 the Society was invited by Lord Cromer and the Sirdar to begin work in the southern part of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, and Malek was occupied in the following year; Lau in 1912; Yambio in 1913; and Yei in 1917.

Egypt is included in the jurisdiction of the Right Rev. R. MacInnes, the Anglican Bishop in Jerusalem. An assistant bishop, the Right Rev. Ll. H. Gwynne, was consecrated in 1908. Both of these bishops were C.M.S. missionaries previous to their consecration.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

I. The Society occupies five stations in Egypt proper. A boarding school and a day school for girls are maintained at Cairo; and a school for boys, with a hostel attached, at Old Cairo. There is also a book depôt at Cairo, and a monthly magazine, "Orient and Occident," is published. Evangelistic meetings are also held. Medical work is carried on at hospitals for men and for women and children at Old Cairo and Menouf. Work among the fellahin is maintained at Menouf, Ashmoun, and Shubra Zanga.

II. In the Sudan, the sphere of the operations of the Gordon Memorial Mission, the Society has girls' schools at Khartoum, Omdurman, and Atbara, and a medical mission at Omdurman. Work has also been begun among the Dinkas (Jieng) and Azandis, pagan tribes, 1000 miles farther up the Nile.

There are 12 clergymen, 8 laymen, 10 missionaries' wives, and 22 other women missionaries engaged in the Missions; 5 of these are doctors and 4 are nurses. There are also 61 native Christian lay agents.

Laymen's missionary convention

A CONVENTION was held at Assiout in April, 1918, in connexion with the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Eight hundred delegates from the Protestant community in the country, which is estimated as having 35,000 members, were present, and all but two of the speakers were laymen.

The period of Miss W. M. Dickson's agreement with the Society has expired.

Literary work

Canon Gairdner found it almost impossible to spare time for literary work, owing to the depletion of the staff of missionaries and the many consequent demands upon him. Indeed he was unable to utilize some monies paid into the mission literature fund by the Missionary Society for the Promotion of Christian Literature among Moslems. He continued however to edit the "Orient and Occident," and wrote a brochure on the life of Mohammed, entitled, "Ecce Homo Arabicus."

Cairo

EGYPT MISSION.—Weekly training classes were held at Cairo during six or seven months of 1918, and in November there was a quiet day for catechists and Bible women. The Girls' Boarding School, for the second time in the school year, had to seek new premises, and the removal was naturally detrimental to the work; the accommodation is now very adequate. All but five of the eighty pupils at the Girls' Day School were Moslems. Much difficulty was met with in finding suitable teachers.

Old Cairo

The Hospitals at Old Cairo were fortunate in having their full staff of three doctors, all of whom had passed their Arabic examination. They were kept busy, patients being more numerous than ever before; on the men's side there were no fewer than 1300 in the ordinary wards and 6650 in the ankylostomiasis wards, and operations, for the most part major, numbered 1070. The patients were drawn from a wide area. In 1917 more than 500 towns and villages in Lower Egypt were represented, and 450 in Upper Egypt, the majority of in-patients receiving over a fortnight's treatment in the hospital. Two of the boys employed at the men's hospital were baptized in January, 1919, and three lads were under instruction at the end of the year; one of the workers at the women's hospital also was baptized, and there are said to be dozens of women who, while patients, have been led to believe in Christ but cannot face the opposition and persecution which an open confession of Him would involve. The average daily attendance at the Boys' School of the twenty-two boarders and 159 day pupils on the roll was ninety-five per cent. A succession of difficulties about teachers involving many changes in the staff, had a bad effect on examination results. The Girls' School had ninety pupils, a larger number than in 1917, and the income from school fees increased considerably. The number of missionaries able to devote themselves to distinct Evangelistic Work was distressingly few—only two women, one still engaged in language study, as compared with five in 1912. With the help of four full time Bible women and two who devoted part of their time to the work, more than a hundred visits were paid every month in the city and villages, and help and sympathy were rendered to the Copts, among whom a strong reform movement is spreading under the leadership of the Student Movement.

Helouan

The Girls' Day School at Helouan for daughters of wealthy Moslems had to be closed permanently in July in consequence of the impossibility of providing a missionary to take charge of it.

Menouf

The Hospital at Menouf, a town with a population of 24,000, and the centre of a C.M.S. sphere of work containing half a million people, received 1400 in-patients in the first nine months of 1918 as compared with 1100 in the whole of 1917. A similar increase took place also in the work at the branch dispensaries at Ashmoun and Bey el Arab. Many testaments, scripture portions, and tracts were sold and scripture leaflets were distributed; the last named were often carefully preserved by the recipients and carried to distant villages. The high price of provisions and clothing caused many parents to remove their children from the mission schools, but the girls' school had fifty-seven names on its books, including those of two daughters of the Governor of Menouf. Every week an evangelistic meeting was held, which was attended by Moslems, effendis, sheikhs, and fellahin, the omdah, or leading inhabitant of the town, often being seen among them. Similar meetings were held at Sirs, and several villages. One inquirer is specially mentioned who first heard the Gospel from a member of the Menouf Church, and afterwards was instructed more fully by a catechist and a shopkeeper.

Shubra Zanga

Miss J. Lewis writes concerning Shubra Zanga : "All branches of the work have been full of encouragement, for the spirit of inquiry has been abroad; the whole attitude of the people towards Christianity has changed, and nearly all are willing to listen to the teaching." The dispensary was crowded, and, save at one place, the missionaries had no difficulty in gaining an entrance in the neighbouring villages. Daniel, whose baptism was recorded in last year's REPORT (p. 44), paid in the summer his first visit to the villages as a baptized Christian. No trouble was experienced, and Daniel showed himself as eager as ever for Christian teaching.

ANGLO-EGYPTIAN SUDAN (GORDON MEMORIAL) MISSION.—There are a couple of schools for girls at Omdurman, which between them have the names of from fifty to sixty children on their rolls.

Malek

At Malek progress was still slow, there being little apparent response from the Bor Dinkas (Jieng), but just before the close of 1918 Anyang Agul, a Bor Dinka, who had been in the Rev. A. Shaw's service from childhood, was baptized, together with his infant daughter. Valuable help was given by Paulo Baguma, a Muganda lay reader, in the spiritual, educational, and medical work. The school for Moslem boys at Mongalla (an out-station) suffered through Moslem chagrin at the institution by Government of Sunday as a day of rest in the Mongalla Province. The Bible class was boycotted for a time, but later in the year the Muganda schoolmaster reported that most of the senior boys were attending. The indebtedness of the Mission to the Uganda Church was increased by the arrival of a party of Acholi (Gang) teachers, who volunteered from the Gulu district to serve in the Sudan. Owing to sleeping sickness regulations they had to remain for six months in quarantine at Malek, but towards the end of the year two of them opened a school at Mongalla for the garrison company of Equatorial troops who are replacing the Moslem Sudanese troops, and are in this case recruited from the pagan Acholi living in the extreme south of the Sudan. Two other Acholi teachers, under a Munyoro head teacher, and at the warm invitation of the local British administrator, started a school and evangelistic work at Opari, in the centre of the Acholi district referred to.

Yei

The year at Yei opened rather badly with an outbreak of cerebro-spinal meningitis, which kept the schoolboys at home for a couple of months. In August, however, the sleeping sickness authorities allowed a native teacher from Uganda to proceed to the station and in September the medical authorities opened to itineration a district to the south, among the Keliko tribe. Two servants employed at the mission station, confessed Christ publicly, and were admitted as catechumens.

Lau

The dispensary at Lau was appreciated by the people, many even being ready to pay small sums for treatment and medicine. The school at times had as many as thirty pupils, the number increasing when two of the Rev. C. A. Lea-Wilson's house boys, who were admitted to the catechumenate during the year under review, began to teach. These house boys accompanied Mr. Lea-Wilson when he went to Malek for a few months early in the year—a rather courageous step on their part as the Cheech Dinkas (Jieng), to whom they belong, have but little dealing with the Bor Dinkas, another branch of the tribe, owing to the hundred miles of marsh and river which separate them. Two other youths and three men came forward as inquirers, but the motive with most seemed to be rather a desire to identify themselves with the foreigner than any feeling of need for a Saviour. One man proved to have his mind fixed on cattle rather than on Christianity. His attitude is described as follows: "The missionary says I ought to have only one wife; my second wife has been unsatisfactory; here is a good opportunity to rid myself of her and get back the cows and sheep which I paid for her. If I become a Christian perhaps the foreigner will help me to get those cattle and I shall be rid of a nuisance—two birds with one stone!" There was little evidence of any change on the part of the older people in their attitude towards Christianity.

Yambio

Several difficulties were experienced at Yambio, where a number of the catechumens proved disappointing though others were almost ready for baptism when 1918 ended. One arose from polygamy, with which the prestige of the chiefs is closely connected. A second obstacle to progress was the attitude of the Azandi chiefs, who only sent their sons to the mission school because they regarded the missionaries as government agents; were it not for this the chiefs would have held aloof, for they regarded Christian workers as robbing them of their power and drawing away their people. The third difficulty was the growth of Mohammedan influence. In 1913 Arabs were not allowed to live at Yambio; now there are ten Arab traders there. The local officials encourage or identify themselves with all Mohammedan fasts; Friday is observed instead of Sunday as a day of rest, and 200 Azandi soldiers, and their wives and children also, are under Mohammedan influence.

PALESTINE MISSION

PAST HISTORY

The C.M.S. work in Palestine began in 1851, in response to an invitation given by Bishop Gobat. The following places have been occupied by European labourers: Jerusalem, 1851; Nazareth, 1852; Jaffa and Nablous, 1853; Haifa, 1856; Shefamer, 1871; Salt, 1874; Ramallah, 1877; Gaza, 1878; Ramleh, 1879; El Husn, 1890; Kefr Yasif, 1892; and Bir Zeit, 1894. Medical missions have done much to diminish prejudice. The first (under a native doctor) was set on foot at Salt in 1883. The Society began to send unmarried women to the Mission in 1887. In 1899 the work of the late Female Education Society at Nazareth, Bethlehem, and Shefamer was taken over by the Society.

The bishopric in Jerusalem was founded in 1841 on the initiative of King Frederick William IV. of Prussia, the arrangement being that England and Prussia, who shared the expense of the see, should alternately nominate its occupant. The first three bishops were Dr. Alexander, Dr. Gobat (1846), previously a C.M.S. missionary, and Dr. Barclay (1879). On the death of the last named in 1881 the German Government failed to nominate a successor, and eventually declined to continue the arrangement. In 1887 the bishopric was revived by Archbishop Benson, the London Society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews and the Church Missionary Society having undertaken to make an annual subscription to the stipend of the see to supplement the endowment. Dr. MacInnes, formerly a C.M.S. missionary in Egypt, is the present bishop.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

Before the war the C.M.S. worked at six main stations west of the Jordan, namely, Jerusalem, Nazareth, Nablous (the Denis Crofton Mission), Jaffa, Gaza, and Haifa; and at Salt, on the east of the river.

At each of these stations and at their out-stations day schools were carried on, that at Gaza being attended by some 300 girls. The chief institutions for men and boys were the English College and the Bishop Gobat School at Jerusalem and for girls a training school at Bethlehem, an orphanage at Nazareth, and a boarding school at Ramleh. Jaffa, Nablous, Gaza, and Salt were centres of medical missionary work. Much was done to reach the women by means of visiting them in their homes, both in the towns and villages.

The pastoral work in the Mission was mainly in the hands of the Palestine Church Council, with which 9 native clergymen are connected. The European staff consists of 6 clergymen, 4 laymen, 8 missionaries' wives, and 24 other women missionaries; of these, 6 are doctors and 7 are trained nurses connected with the medical missions.

The conquest of Palestine

SOME time elapsed after the capture of Jerusalem in December, 1917, before General Allenby was in a position to resume operations, but Jericho was taken on 21 February, 1918, and the Jordan was crossed in the following month. Then there was another lull in the fighting until in September the British commander launched a great attack against the Turks on the maritime plain, and, breaking through their defences, conquered the whole of Syria with the aid of the forces of the King of the Hejaz. Nazareth fell to the British on September 20, Nablous on the following day, Salt was reached on the 24th, Haifa and Acca on the 25th. Damascus was captured on September 30, Beirut on October 6, Sidon on October 7; and the campaign was brought to a conclusion by the fall of Aleppo on October 26.

Thanksgiving service

On November 17, after the armistice with Germany had been signed, a service of thanksgiving for the cessation of hostilities was held in St. George's Cathedral at Jerusalem. Among the congregation were the administrator of occupied enemy territory, the military governor, the Archbishop of Sinai, representatives of the Armenian, Coptic, Syrian, and Abyssinian Churches, the mufti and the mayor of Jerusalem, and the chief rabbi, besides representatives of the British Army. The cathedral normally holds 400 people, but it was estimated that 1000 people found their way in, and hundreds of others failed to do so. The sermon was preached by the Rev. W. W. Cash, of the Society's Egypt Mission, senior chaplain to the forces, who has been awarded the D.S.O.

Before the conquest of the Holy Land was completed events had occurred which showed an expectation that a new era had dawned for the country. The Zionist organization appointed a commission with the object of repatriating Jewish inhabitants who had been compelled to leave the country, reopening Jewish institutions, etc. The commission chose Jaffa as its head-quarters, and in July twelve foundation stones of a Hebrew university, symbolizing the Twelve Tribes of Israel, were laid on a site at Mount Scopus, near Jerusalem. Dr. Weizmann, the leader of the commission, has disclaimed any intention on the part of the Jews to take the supreme political power in Palestine, and has stated that the wish of the Zionists is that such power should be vested in one of the civilized democratic Powers, to be selected for the purpose by the League of Nations.

A projected Hebrew university

Not unnaturally the military authorities, particularly in the early days of the British occupation, have been unwilling that anything should be done which would expose them to the charge of forcing any form of religion on the people of the land, or that the door should be opened too widely so as to admit all comers with every kind of motive. Thanks, however, to the unceasing efforts and tactful administration of Bishop MacInnes a good deal of Christian work has already been possible. The practical outcome of the spirit of Christianity has been set before the people through the agency of the Syria and Palestine Relief Fund, which was formed on his initiative, and which has distributed large quantities of food and clothing, provided for many orphans, and furnished medical assistance to great numbers of the people. The C.M.S. missionaries mentioned in last year's REPORT (p. 47) as having reached Palestine were followed by three others in June, 1918, and six more, including the Rev. H. Sykes, the secretary of the Mission, in November. They have worked for the most part in connexion with the Relief Fund, and the amount of religious teaching which they have been allowed to give has varied in different localities, but the position is gradually developing, and there is reason to hope and anticipate that when peace has been signed missionary work in the country will once more be fully recognized.

The position of missionaries

Native clergymen minister to British troops

Meanwhile there has been in some degree a reversal of the usual order, for while European missionaries have been unable to minister to any great extent to the people of the country, native clergymen have been ministering to the European troops. Not only have the Society's churches at Ramallah and Jaffa been used by the military chaplains for services, but before the conquest of the land, at Nazareth as well as Jerusalem, the C.M.S. pastors ministered to British soldiers who had been wounded and taken prisoners by the Turks, and buried those who died; and after fighting ceased, as no chaplain could be sent to Nazareth for some weeks, the Rev. As'ad Mansur acted in that capacity and the British soldiers said that they "loved the dear old man." In recognition of what the C.M.S. had done for the Army in Palestine special offertories for the Society were made throughout the forces on a selected Sunday and more than £150 was given.

The Committee have accepted the resignations of the Rev. A. E. Mitchell and Miss E. G. Williams.

Jaffa

On their return to Jaffa the missionaries found the Hospital building but little damaged, but much had to be done before the wards were again fit for use, one great difficulty being to procure glass for replacing the shattered windows. Prayers were held daily and Christian teaching was given to both out-patients and in-patients, but no preaching was allowed in the town outside the building or in the villages.

Gaza

Towards the end of March Dr. F. Johnson, of the Turkish Arabia Mission, and others arrived at Mejdel, near the ancient town of Ascalon, eighteen miles north of Gaza, where a medical unit had been established under canvas. Tent accommodation allowed of about fifty patients, but it was gradually increased until eighty could be received. In the summer the British authorities gave permission to the people of Gaza, who had been deported by the Turks and had found refuge in the villages of the Palestinian plain and elsewhere, to return to their city, and in the middle of September the medical unit was removed to the Society's compound. With the aid of a supply of old corrugated iron sheets, furnished by the Government, several rooms were roofed in, and by December some of them were occupied, but the out-patient department was still under canvas. Miss M. B. McConaghy, of Jaffa, while engaged in military work at Cairo, received testimony to the influence of the work of the Society's missionaries at Gaza in pre-war days. She wrote in May, 1918:—

> In every village near Gaza children spoke of Miss Smithies, and many soldiers asked me who she was, as they had heard so much about her teaching from the natives.
> An officer told me that once his unit was in a tight place and did not know which way to turn. A Bedouin came along, and the officer said: "Do you know Dr. Sterling?" The man's face brightened up at once and he said: "Do I know the doctor? Why he brought my brother back from the door of death!" "Well," said the officer, "I am his brother, and I want your help. Show us the way to——." "You his brother? Then you are my brother, for all Dr. Sterling's brothers are my brothers. I go with you and show you the way."

TURKISH ARABIA MISSION

Baghdad, which is in the Turkish Empire, is in the immediate neighbourhood of the sacred places of the Shiah Mohammedans. Thousands of pilgrims flock to it from all parts of Persia, and in order to reach them the city was occupied by a C.M.S. missionary in 1883. A hospital was opened in 1886. In 1898 the work, previously carried on in connexion with that in Persia, was constituted an independent Mission. Three years later Mosul, near the site of ancient Nineveh, was occupied.

Before the war medical and educational work were carried on at both the above stations. The staff consists of 1 European clergyman, 2 laymen, 2 missionaries' wives, and 5 women missionaries; of these, 4 are doctors and 3 are trained nurses.

Capture of Mosul

AFTER a couple of advances in Mesopotamia in the spring of 1918, fighting in Mesopotamia was resumed by the British in October, when columns began to move towards Mosul. By the evening of the 26th the Turkish communications had been cut; on the 30th the entire enemy force surrendered; and Mosul was entered by the British in November.

Improvements in the country

Since the occupation of Baghdad great improvements have been brought about in the country. In July, 1918, Lord Robert Cecil was able to state that a number of government primary schools, municipal state schools, a teachers' training class, and extension schools in agriculture had been established and that large tracts of land previously untilled had been brought under the plough. About half a million acres on the Euphrates have been brought under cultivation through the opening of the Hindieh barrage and the construction of subsidiary canals.

Baghdad

After consultation with the Foreign Office and the authorities in Mesopotamia the Secretary of State for India informed the Society in May, 1919, that it was at liberty to resume its missionary work at Baghdad.

Mosul

The Rev. W. R. Park, Chaplain to the Forces, and at one time an organizing secretary of the Society visited Mosul in November and December. He found that most of the mission school books had been destroyed because they contained references to King George, and the instruments, beds, and furniture of the hospital had been commandeered. The poorer adherents of the Mission had suffered from lack of food and clothing, but nevertheless they had given shelter and protection in the mission compound to a number of Armenian refugees. David M. Saaty, one of the leading Christians, had tried to keep the work together. In March, 1919, the political officer at Mosul having asked whether the C.M.S. could not send a man, as the Protestants needed help both educationally and spiritually, the Secretary of State for India sanctioned Dr. G. W. Stanley's proceeding to the station on the understanding that he would work as assistant to the civil surgeon until medical arrangements were in working order.

PERSIA MISSION

PAST HISTORY

Persia, though one of the younger of the C.M.S. Missions, was among the first countries thought of by the Committee, and was mentioned in each of the two earliest Annual Reports. Henry Martyn stayed ten months in the country in 1811. Since 1834 an American Mission has laboured with much blessing among the Nestorian Christians, and latterly among Mohammedans also, in northern and western Persia. In 1869 the Rev. R. Bruce, of the C.M.S., visited Persia on his way back to India, and, finding the Mohammedans of Isfahan and its neighbourhood not unwilling to discuss religious subjects, he took up his abode at Julfa, and gathered round him a few Moslems and a considerable number of Armenian Christians who were dissatisfied with their own form of worship. He also opened schools, etc. In 1875 the Society decided to carry on his work, and Persia became one of its Missions. A medical missionary was sent out in 1879, and women were added to the staff in 1891. Kerman was occupied in 1897; and Yezd in 1898.

Persia was under the episcopal jurisdiction of the Bishop of London (the late Bishop E. C. Stuart for several years taking confirmations in his behalf) until 1912, when a see was formed for the country, to which the Rev C. H. Stileman, formerly a C.M.S. missionary in Persia, was consecrated. Bishop Stileman resigned in 1915, and the see is now vacant.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The three stations in the Mission (for Isfahan and Julfa, its suburb, may be regarded as one) are widely separated from each other, Kerman being about 420 miles south-east of Isfahan, with Yezd almost midway between them. Travelling is both slow and dangerous, for the indifferent roads are frequently infested with robbers, and this increases the isolation of the stations.

Much of the work centres round the men's and women's hospitals at each station. There are schools for Persian boys at Isfahan (Stuart Memorial College), Yezd, and Kerman; for Persian girls at Isfahan (with a normal class); for Armenian boys and girls at Julfa; and for Parsi girls at Yezd. During the holidays a little evangelistic work is accomplished in the villages.

The staff of the Mission consists of 5 European clergymen, 6 laymen, 9 missionaries' wives, and 18 single women; 9 of the above are doctors and 5 are trained nurses. The native Christian lay agents number 75.

Political events

THE great war, which has exercised so vast an influence on the world at large, has not left Persia untouched. Though comparatively little fighting has taken place in the country the conditions under which missionary work is carried on have changed and are changing. In the early part of 1918 the pro-German feeling was strong at Isfahan, but the British successes in Mesopotamia and Palestine brought about a change of attitude, and after the signing of the armistice pro-British sentiments became dominant. A society called the Iran Society of Persia has been formed to further social democracy and to obtain British help for the country. The Society has a membership of 5000, and its influence was felt when one of the most powerful of the disaffected mullahs, Sheikh Norullah, was allowed by the British to return to Isfahan. Great preparations to welcome him had been made by his old supporters, and triumphal arches were put up in his honour, but the Iran Committee pulled down the arches, and eventually the great man entered the city without any demonstration.

Changed outlook of Armenians

Among the Armenians as well as the Persians there is a changed outlook, and the idea of an independent Armenian Republic now fills the horizon. It is said, moreover, that Armenian girls are becoming Europeanized both in custom and in costume, in conduct and in outlook.

Famine and sickness

The country suffered in 1918 from a variety of misfortunes. The famine which was referred to in last year's REPORT (p. 49) was caused not by natural conditions only, but in part also by the action of large landowners who held up their corn to produce a rise in price. The scarcity increased as time went on, and in April and May the price of bread became prohibitive. At Isfahan many of the poor died, and numbers of the middle class were reduced to beggary. Famine was followed, as so often happens, by typhus and relapsing fever; then came cholera; next an unusual amount of malaria; and the tale of woe was completed by an outbreak of influenza, though happily not of a very severe type.

Progress of Christianity

The General Review of the Mission, which dwells on these matters, refers also to the comparatively slow progress of Christianity. The Church has not yet learned to walk alone, and many of the converts, while appreciating the benefits of Christianity, fail to practise its precepts in their daily life. But it must be remembered that since Turkey joined in the war the staff of the Mission has been very small and much of the work in abeyance. Moreover, though there are many weaknesses in the Church, there are among the converts some whose witness in their homes has won opposing relatives for Christ, and from time to time inquirers approach the missionaries for further teaching who have first heard of Christ from their Christian neighbours.

The annual letters from the Mission do not speak of many baptisms in 1918. Two assistants in a mission hospital were however to be baptized at the end of the year; several inquirers are mentioned, and it is said that some of the pupils in the schools believe in the Lord Jesus but are afraid to confess Him openly.

Deaths of Rev. M. George and Dr. A. H. Griffith

The Rev. M. George, an Armenian who was ordained in 1883 by Bishop French and retired in 1913, died on 6 January, 1918. Dr. A. H. Griffith, who worked in the Persia Mission from 1900–3, in Palestine from 1903–4, and in Mesopotamia from 1905–9, died on 24 September, 1918.

The Committee have accepted the resignation of the Rev. W. H. Walker.

Literary work

The Rev. W. A. Rice and his colleagues on a committee appointed to revise the Persian Bible nearly completed their work on Dr. Bruce's version of the New Testament.

Isfahan

Patients were more numerous than ever before at the Hospitals at Isfahan, but operations were fewer. Many deaths occurred, for crowds of famine-stricken people were received and most of them when admitted were too ill for recovery to be possible. An increasing number of rich and influential people availed themselves of the private wards, including members of the late Zil-es-Sultan's family and of the families of the mullahs; these were usually accompanied by numerous relatives and servants and received constant daily visitors. Many asked for daily Bible reading, others bought and took away with them papers and scripture portions, and some not only attended church services while at the hospital, but continued to do so after leaving. Dr. C. M. Schaffter spent his annual leave in the Bakhtiari mountains at the request of the tribe, visiting camps and treating a number of patients. He found among the Khans a surprising readiness to regard Christianity as the best and truest of religions. The Persian Girls' School was reopened in the autumn with nearly seventy pupils, eighteen of them boarders. Industrial Work among women was hampered by small premises and lack of capital, but showed itself to be a valuable evangelistic agency. Much of the time of the missionaries early in the year was occupied with famine relief, which was largely financed by the European community. Two of the elder pupils of the Armenian Girls' School at Julfa became teachers in the school, and two others went to be trained as nurses; several of the Persian girls who attended it died from typhus, etc., and, sad to say, one, a girl of 13, was hanged by her father because of the difficulty of getting food.

Yezd

Four new private wards were added to the men's Hospital at Yezd. A strong Bahai propaganda affected the Parsi Girls' School and the mothers' meeting for Parsi women. Some of the converts of past years proved very disappointing.

Kerman

Missionaries on their return to Kerman early in 1918 were warmly welcomed, and the people seemed genuinely thankful for the reopening of the Hospital. That however was not accomplished without much trouble, owing to the native staff having been scattered and the equipment having suffered from white ants and neglect. It was not possible to institute regular school work, as teachers could not be procured, but the Rev. A. K. Boyland was able to begin educational classes in his own house for men and boys.

(For statistics of the Mission, see p. xxix.)

India, Ceylon, etc.

The population of India in 1911 was 316,000,000. All but one million of these were under British rule or suzerainty, the remainder being in French and Portuguese settlements. In British India the Hindus numbered 217½ millions; Mohammedans, 66½ millions; Buddhists (almost entirely in Burma) and Animists about 10 millions each; and Christians, 3,876,000. During the decade 1901-11 the increase in the general population was 7·1 per cent; among Hindus it was less than 5 per cent; Mohammedans less than 7 per cent; Animists, 20 per cent; and Christians, 32·6 per cent.

Lutheran missionaries under the S.P.C.K. worked in South India in the eighteenth century, and many thousands of converts were baptized; but their Missions, after the death of Schwartz and other leaders, languished, and at length only a few Christians remained. In 1793 William Carey, the famous Baptist missionary, went out to Bengal; but for some years prior to the renewal of the East India Company's charter in 1813 no missionaries were allowed to reside within the British dominions, and he and his companions had to take refuge in the Danish settlements. Henry Martyn, who landed at Calcutta in 1806, had been in communication with the C.M.S., but he went out eventually as a chaplain of the East India Company. He and other government chaplains, men like Brown, Buchanan, Corrie, and Thomason, did what they could to prepare the way for future workers. The C.M.S. had an important share in the establishment of the bishopric of Calcutta in 1814 by its publication of Claudius Buchanan's work on the subject. In the following year the first two clergymen of the Church of England who went to India as missionaries were sent to Madras by the C.M.S.

In 1912 Protestant missionary societies in India had a staff of 1443 ordained and 3758 (of whom 3124, including wives, were women) lay foreign missionaries; there were also 1665 ordained and 36,793 lay Indian workers. Indian communicants numbered 568,000, and the offerings of Indian Christians amounted to Rs 1,734,328.[1]

Constitutional reform

THE year 1918 saw the second step taken in a reform which is bound to exercise a profound influence upon the future of India. In August, 1917, the Right Hon. Austen Chamberlain, at that time Secretary of State for India, announced the intention of the Government to give to Indians a larger share in the government of their country; and in July, 1918, a scheme of constitutional reform, prepared by the Right Hon. E. S. Montagu, who had succeeded Mr. Chamberlain at the India Office, and Lord Chelmsford, the Viceroy of India, was published. It has met with support and with criticism, not always friendly; but on the whole it has been regarded with favour as at least an honest effort to solve a pressing question which is compassed with many difficulties.[2] One indirect result of the publication of the scheme, combined with the agitation for home rule, has been to alarm great masses of the people concerning the menace of Brahman dominance, and unite them to oppose it.

The depressed classes

Increasing attention is paid each year to the depressed classes who are thus realizing their position and striving to free themselves. In March, 1918, a conference was held in Bombay, under the presidency of the Maharajah of Baroda, entitled "The Second All-India Depressed Classes Mission Conference for the Abolition of

[1] "Year Book of Indian Missions," 1912.
[2] "C. M. Rev.," Sept., 1918, pp. 297, ff., 360, ff.; Dec., pp. 426, ff.

Untouchability." The conference, which was not under Christian auspices, agreed that "the condition of untouchability imposed upon the depressed classes in India ought forthwith to be abolished," and called upon Hindu leaders to work for that end. Moreover, the secretary of the All-India Hindu Sabha (assembly) has stated that orthodox Hinduism is prepared to remove the ban of untouchableness, and the Arya Samaj has received members of the outcaste community into its fold. It is not too much to claim that this action on the part of the Hindus has been caused chiefly, if not solely, by the progress of Christianity among the depressed classes. Numbering in all some 50,000,000, about 150,000 of these people have become members of the Anglican Communion in India—25,000 in the Lahore Diocese, 10,000 in the Lucknow Diocese, 4000 in the diocese of Bombay, 10,000 in that of Dornakal, 60,000 in the Madras Diocese, and 36,000 in the Travancore Diocese—and several hundreds of thousands have been baptized by other Christian bodies. But there are millions yet unreached and in some regions large numbers are waiting for teachers. At its session in 1918 the episcopal synod of India and Ceylon passed a resolution on the matter in which the following words occur:—

Mass movements

> That the synod . . . in view of the urgent need of making adequate provision without delay for pastoral ministrations to the large number of converts recently gathered into the Church and for the education of the children, and also of the serious danger that exists lest the present opportunity should pass away and be lost through neglect and indifference on the part of the Church, earnestly appeals to all members of the Anglican Communion to support all efforts that are being made to help the Church in India to respond worthily to this great call from God.

It is often urged that the character of Indian Christians, most of whom have been gathered from the lower castes or outcastes, is bad, but Mr. J. Hope Simpson, C.I.E., I.C.S., declares: "Compare the Indian Christian with the sources from which he has sprung, and the difference is, as the Indian says, 'of heaven and earth.' Compare him, in all that matters, with the average Hindu of higher caste, and the Indian Christian is more truthful, more honest, more self-respecting, and more loyal."

The character of Indian Christians

Among the educated classes, as stated on page 5, there is no great Christian ingathering, though each year the baptism of a number of Brahmans is recorded. But nevertheless a movement may be quietly in progress among them. It has been asserted that there are many Christian sadhus working secretly, whose converts, thousands in number, are scattered all over India, unattached to any Church, but linked together in a secret organization which includes among its members influential as well as obscure persons, all of whom pass as Hindus. These sadhus are working quietly, but are preparing for "The Day" when they and their converts will openly declare themselves as Christians, and then, they claim, India will be won for Christ. The "Travancore and Cochin Diocesan Record" speaks of a Christian who, having discovered that a soi-disant Hindu friend was a member of this "mission," learnt from him that he and his fellow-members meet at intervals in a certain place for worship, using a remarkable ritual, and that he was initiated into the "mission" by a Namburi Brahman in the small dark inner chamber of a Hindu temple, which, when illuminated, was seen to contain a picture of the crucified Christ. However this may be, there is ground for hope in the increasing work of indigenous missionary societies, including the National Missionary Society of India, whose missionaries are to be called by the Indian name of sevaks, meaning servants, and are to assume a garb like that of a sanyasi, but of some other colour. The name of Mukti Samaj ("Society of Salvation") has been proposed for the National Missionary Society by Sundar Singh, a Christian sadhu, to whom several references occur in the pages of this REPORT.

Indirect results of Christianity

Meanwhile the indirect effects of Christian government and Christian teaching appear in many forms. Efforts for the education of Moslem women, and for an improvement of their status in other ways; a manifesto signed by the members of an "All-India Moslem Ladies' Conference," binding the signatories not to give their daughters or female wards in marriage to any one who has a wife already; and the execution by the Maharaj Kumar of Tikari of a deed of trust devoting his entire personal estate, valued at about £1,400,000, to founding an institution for the education of Indian women—all these, as well as the solicitude shown for the depressed classes, which has already been noticed, are symptomatic, and encouraging to those who care for the progress of Christianity in India.

Death of Bishop Lefroy

The death of Dr. Lefroy, Bishop of Calcutta and Metropolitan of India, which occurred on 1 January, 1919, has deprived the Church of a leader of strong personality, deep spirituality, and fervent missionary zeal. Dr. Foss Westcott, Bishop of Chota Nagpur, has been appointed as his successor.

PUNJAB, NORTH-WEST FRONTIER, AND SINDH MISSION

PAST HISTORY

The Punjab Mission was begun in 1851, soon after the annexation of the province to British India. The first station occupied was Amritsar, the sacred city of the Sikhs; Peshawar was occupied in 1854; Multan, 1856; Narowal, 1859; Dera Ismail Khan, 1862; Srinagar, 1863; Bannu, 1865; Lahore, 1867; Clarkabad, 1873; Batala, 1878; Tarn Taran, 1885; Quetta, 1886; the Chenab Colony (formerly known as the Jhang Bar), 1899; Islamabad, 1902; Pattoki, 1917. Work was begun at Kotgur in 1844 and Simla in 1845, before the annexation of the Punjab. At Lahore a divinity school was founded in 1870 by the Rev. (afterwards Bishop) T. V. French. The Rev. G. M. Gordon (who was killed at Kandahar, 16 August, 1880) established, mainly at his own expense, stations at Pind Dadan Khan (since abandoned) and Dera Ghazi Khan, both near the frontier, the latter as a base for work among the Baluch tribes. Several stations fringe the British frontier, the most important of which is Peshawar, where work among the Afghans was established in 1854 under the auspices of Sir Herbert Edwardes, then Commissioner of the division. In the Valley of Kashmir a medical mission was started by Dr. Elmslie in 1865, which has been a great blessing to the people, especially at the time of the famine in 1880 and the earthquake in 1885. The work in the Punjab is deeply indebted to men like Lord Lawrence, Sir H. Edwardes, Sir R. Montgomery, Sir D. McLeod, Generals Lake, Taylor, and Maclagan, Colonel Martin, and others, who nobly exerted themselves to bring the Gospel to the people under their administration.

The Sindh Mission is slightly older in date, having been begun in 1850, but is far behind in progress, owing mainly to its having always been quite under-staffed. Yet important fruit has been granted to the patient labours of the Rev. J. Sheldon and others at Karachi (occupied 1850), Haidarabad (1856), and Sukkur (1859) on the Indus.

The diocese of Lahore was founded in 1877. The Right Rev. H. B. Durrant, formerly a C.M.S. missionary, is the present bishop.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

There are five sections of the Mission : the Punjab, Kashmir, the North-West Frontier Province, Baluchistan, and Sindh.

I. Of the sixteen stations in the Punjab, fourteen are in the plains, namely, in the Lahore mission district, Lahore, Multan, Clarkabad, Pattoki, Batemanabad, Gojra, Montgomerywala, and Toba Tek Singh, the last four of these being in the Chenab Colony ; and in the Amritsar mission district, Amritsar, Asrapur, Batala, Ajnala, Tarn Taran, and Narowal ; while two, Simla and Kotgur, are in the Himalayas.

Educational work is carried on by means of a divinity school at Lahore ; the Bishop Lefroy Training School for village workers at Clarkabad ; boys' high schools at Amritsar, Batala (Baring School for Christians and A.L.O.E. School for non-Christians), Narowal, and Multan ; Anglo-vernacular middle schools for boys at Bahawalpur, Fathgarh, Majitha, and Kotgur ; and a vernacular middle boarding school, with training classes for primary school teachers, at Clarkabad. For girls there are the Alexandra High School and a middle-class boarding school (with a normal class) at Amritsar, and a large boarding school for village girls at Clarkabad ; these are mainly for Christians. At Lahore there are a widows' home and a hostel for Christian women teachers.

Medical work is represented by a hospital at Amritsar, with affiliated dispensaries at Narowal, Jandiala, etc. ; a leper hospital at Tarn Taran, belonging to the Government, but superintended by C.M.S. missionaries ; and a women's hospital at Multan. Some medical work is also carried on at Montgomerywala, Kotgur, Dera Ghazi Khan, and Sakhi Sarwar.

Considerable bodies of Indian Christians are found in many villages in the neighbourhood of Amritsar, Narowal, Batala, Tarn Taran, Clarkabad, and Pattoki, and in the Chenab Colony. The pastoral care of these large and scattered communities is a serious problem.

II. The Society has two stations in Kashmir—Srinagar, the capital, and Islamabad, some thirty miles higher up the Jhelum River to the south-east.

At the former there are a high school for boys, with a branch school at Islamabad ; a general hospital ; and a leper asylum supported by the Kashmir Government, but managed by the Society's missionaries. There is also a women's hospital at Islamabad.

III. At each of the three strategic points occupied by the Society in the North-West Frontier Province, namely, Peshawar, Bannu, and Dera Ismail Khan, at the entrances to the several passes into Afghanistan, a hospital is maintained, by means of which many members of the wild frontier tribes are influenced. Branch hospitals and dispensaries are also carried on at outlying places.

There are the Edwardes College and High School at Peshawar, and high schools also at Bannu and Dera Ismail Khan.

IV. At Quetta, the Society's only station in Baluchistan, there is a hospital, with two branch dispensaries in Kalat State.

V. Karachi, Haidarabad, and Sukkur, three important centres, are the stations in Sindh. At the first named there are a high school and a bookshop. A temporary hospital, chiefly for ophthalmic work, is open at Shikarpur for a few weeks during the winter months.

The C.E.Z.M.S. carries on women's work at Amritsar, Ajnala, Asrapur, Batala, Tarn Taran, Narowal, Srinagar, Peshawar, Dera Ismail Khan, Quetta, Karachi, Haidarabad, Sukkur, etc. It is responsible for hospitals at most of these stations, and educational work at many of them, notably Amritsar and Karachi.

The staff of the Mission consists of 32 European and 22 Indian clergymen, 13 European laymen, 39 wives of missionaries, and 31 other women missionaries; 16 of the above are doctors and 10 are trained nurses. In addition there are 556 Indian Christian lay agents on the staff of the Mission.

The following are the members of the Punjab Corresponding Committee for 1919: The Bishop of Lahore, Mr. W. H. L. Church, Mr. W. S. Dorman, P.W.D., Mr. A. J. W. Kitchin, Mr. E. Tydeman, the Revs. Canon E. Guilford, H. G. Crabtree, P. Ireland Jones, J. A. Wood, and C. M. Gough (secretary). The corresponding committee, however, deals only with personal matters affecting the European missionaries. The local governing body of the Mission is the executive committee of the Central Mission Council, which consists of the members of the corresponding committee, the secretary of the medical conference, eight Europeans or Indians elected from the district mission councils, two missionaries of the Society, and two of the C.E.Z.M.S.

The Chuhras

THE reports from the mission-field indicate that the mass movements among the Chuhras continue undiminished. These people believe in God and Bala Shah (the patron saint of Punjab outcastes), and also in a life after death in which they will be punished or rewarded according to their good or evil deeds. If they live in a Mohammedan village, they use Mohammedan terms to describe God, etc.; if in a Sikh village, they wear the long hair and other distinctive marks of the Sikhs; and if in a Hindu village, they call God "Ram," and wear the Hindu topknot of hair.[1] The work among these people is compassed with many difficulties. Some arise from the varied motives which induce them to put themselves under instruction, some from the various standards of preliminary teaching adopted by the different missions at work among them, some again from the migratory habits of the people concerned, and some from the unworthy methods of certain self-constituted teachers. But the chief is the failure of the Church to provide enough missionaries to undertake the proper pastoral care and instruction of the multitudes who are pressing in. Nevertheless, real progress is being made, although in some respects it is very slow.[2]

Deaths of Revs. Qutb-ud-din, T. J. L. Mayer, and F. A. P. Shirreff, and of Mrs. E. F. E. Wigram

The Rev. Qutb-ud-din who had worked at Tarn Taran since 1882, and was ordained in 1899, passed away on October 23.

Three former missionaries have been called to their rest. The Rev. T. J. L. Mayer, who died on 25 July, 1918, joined the Mission in 1872 and retired in 1896, but continued active work in the country until his death. The Rev. F. A. P. Shirreff died on October 5; he sailed for Lahore in 1873, and became first a tutor at St. John's Divinity School, and afterwards principal; he retired in 1894 through ill-health. Mrs. E. F. E. Wigram, as Miss V. Dewey, sailed for the Punjab in 1903, and was married in the following year; she passed away on December 8.

The Committee have accepted the resignations of Dr. Lilias M. Blackett, the Rev. W. G. Branch, Miss I. F. Grant Duff, and Mrs. F. D. Walker.

The Kaisar-i-Hind gold medal has been awarded to Drs. Alice Pennell and Eleanor Dodson, and the silver medal to Mrs. R. J. H. Cox.

Literary work

The literary work in the Mission was as follows: The Rev. W. P. Hares completed a book in English on the church history of the first five centuries, which is being translated into Urdu; the Revs. A. E. Ball, D. S. Harper, J. Redman, and T. Mansukhani were members of a committee, which early in the year began to revise the Sindhi New Testament and completed their task by the beginning of September; and Mr. Harper also prepared a hymn book and an Introduction to the Gospels in Sindhi.

Lahore

THE PUNJAB.—One deacon and three senior catechists studied at St. John's Divinity College, Lahore, in the year 1917–18, and thirty-seven men were accommodated for longer or shorter periods in the Hostel. The knitting machine industry at the Widows' Home prospered, and the Christian Girls' Hostel was very full. The congregation of Holy Trinity Church now defrays more than half its expenses, and a spirit of service is said to prevail.

Multan

Multan suffered from a severe epidemic of plague in the spring of 1918, and from influenza in the autumn. While the plague was at its height the town was deserted, but the Work among Women was continued without intermission in some form or other. From sixty to seventy houses were visited regularly; some pupils who were carried off by the plague, although not baptized gave every evidence of having a real faith in Christ. Testimony to the work done at the Women's Hospital was borne by the commissioner of the town, who wrote that he considered the hospital of political value apart from the good work there accomplished. Several of the patients appeared to be deeply interested in the teaching which was given although they did not openly confess Christ. Many families in the city have been reached by the doctors, and it is quite clear not only that hearts have been touched, but also that lives have been changed. Eighteen Indians were under training as nurses, and one who went in for her final examination headed the list; this student won the medal given for mission nurses in the Punjab, which is only awarded to girls who gain a first class in all subjects and are of good character and good nurses. Three of the girls were being trained as dispensers, and two did well in their examinations. There was some development of the work at Dera Ghazi Khan, which, when the year opened, was being carried on in a small hired room. In March a new dispensary was ready for occupation, and patients came in good numbers as soon as the presence of the missionary was known. Another branch hospital is at Sakhi Sarwar. One day Dr. Lilias Blackett and Miss D. M. Orton visited the shrine for which the place is famous, and, addressing the crowd which followed them, urged them to pray for Dr. Khair-ud-Din, the Indian doctor at the hospital, who was very ill. With one accord ragged little boys and uncouth men, and even the old mullah rose to their feet and prayed, lifting up their hands. "It was wonderful and moving," Dr. Blackett says, "spontaneous and heartfelt, real prayer to the real God Whom we all worship." A number of itinerations were made in the district by the Rev. A. C. Clarke.

Hearts touched and lives changed

Clarkabad

The Training Class for Primary Teachers at Clarkabad gained good results in the examinations. The work of the Boys' Boarding School was hindered by the plague and high prices. The Girls' Boarding School, with its training class for teachers, had about 150 pupils, the daughters of village Christians.

Pattoki

There are about a thousand Christians in the Chunian Tahsil district, scattered in a hundred or so villages. Many people have lately been baptized at Pattoki, the head-quarters of the district.

Batemanabad

The Christians at Batemanabad itself are said increasingly to realize their calling, and in the district, with Christian congregations in thirty-five villages, there appeared to be an advance in spiritual life. Evangelistic work was carried on in 200 villages, and the non-Christians were generally friendly, while many moulvis were reading the Gospel. A new out-station was opened at Siraj.

Gojra

The Rev. W. P. Hares was the only ordained man at Gojra, a district covering more than 2000 square miles, with over 4000 Christians scattered in 100 different villages. As illustrating the burden which pastoral work involves, he mentions that in July and August between twenty and twenty-four banns of marriage were published every Sunday ; some of the weddings involved journeys of between thirty-six and forty miles, and riding and driving about in the Punjab in July is no light thing. Miss R. M. King accompanied him and Mrs. Hares on some of their itinerations, and taught the women who were reading for baptism. The conclusion left on her mind at the end of the winter, after visiting some hundreds of Christian women, was that the religion which is taught them is little associated in their minds with daily conduct. From many places requests for teachers were received, but few of them could be met. Mr. Hares says : "I have in my study a big pile of written requests ; one of them had over thirty thumb-marks on it." A summer school was held for catechists and evangelists in the district and their wives.

Montgomerywala

There was a good deal of trouble among the Christians at Montgomerywala. Dispensary work was much appreciated, and the figures for 1917 showed that more than 14,000 attendances had been made by human beings, and 327 by animals.

Toba Tek Singh

The Toba Tek Singh district suffered greatly from influenza, and only forty-seven among a hundred candidates—ten per cent of the total Christian population of the district—who were seeking confirmation could be presented. Night schools were held at several centres.

Amritsar

Examination results were not good in the high department of the Alexandra School at Amritsar, but one of the girls won the first prize for seniors in the Lake Memorial scripture examination, while in the middle department eight out of ten were successful in the government examination. The Middle and Normal School did well in examinations and received a good report; applications for admission had to be refused owing to lack of dormitory accommodation. The introduction of the girl messengers' movement (corresponding with the girl guides' movement at home) had good results. Itinerations in the district revealed a great readiness on the part of Hindus, Mohammedans, and Sikhs to listen to the Gospel, and many scripture portions were sold.

Asrapur

Services at Asrapur were sometimes attended by Sikhs, Hindus, and Mohammedans, and more than thirty adults were under instruction for baptism.

Batala

The numerous deaths from plague and influenza which occurred in the Batala district are said to have solemnized the Christians and made them more ready to attend to the things which concern their peace. A large number of the village converts joined the Christian regiment. Evangelistic work was carried on in more than 150 villages in the Fathgarh district. Village panchayats (committees) were formed at seven places to settle quarrels among the Christians, etc.

Tarn Taran

The Rev. Canon Guilford speaks of a decided advance in the spiritual life of the Christians in the Tarn Taran district, and says that the non-Christians showed a greater readiness to hear and a deeper appreciation of the Gospel than he had ever before experienced. He quotes an inspector of schools, an Indian, who in proposing a vote of thanks after a lantern lecture in the middle school on the Life of Our Lord, stated that "All the blessings which India enjoys are due to the life and teaching of Jesus Christ," and urged the boys to pay earnest heed to what they had heard. Two adult lepers at the asylum were baptized.

Narowal

For the first time boys from the High School, Narowal, sat for the Punjab University matriculation examination; ten out of the thirteen who entered not only passed, but passed well. A Mohammedan lad in the school asked for baptism and was removed by his father, himself once a Christian but now an apostate. All the boys over 16 years of age in the Christian hostel volunteered for enlistment, and five of them were accepted. In the district there are nineteen primary mission schools with an aggregate of 800 boys, of whom 90 are Christians. The village converts are described as very ignorant; not more than ten per cent of them can read, and when once they have been baptized they show little desire to learn more about Christianity. It is impossible to shepherd very adequately the 7000 Christians scattered in 170 different villages. Discipline among them is enforced by village panchayats, who, however, have many difficulties to encounter. A summer school for workers, lasting four or five weeks, was held.

Srinagar

KASHMIR.—Both the schools and hospital at Srinagar were honoured by a visit from the Viceroy, who afterwards told a friend that they had interested him more than anything else in the country. The Hospital receives an annual grant of Rs 3000 from the Kashmir State, and in 1918 this was increased by Rs 1000 to meet the increased cost of drugs. Nearly 2000 patients were admitted to the wards and there was a daily attendance of about 100 patients, among whom many scripture portions were sold; during the last three years more than 10,000 copies have been disposed of in this way. The attitude of the people, of the women at all events, resembles that of the people in Old Testament times—"they are thousands of years B.C." For example, the Kashmiri woman patient thinks that her prayers are much more likely to be heard if in the operating room she can walk to the north window, or if she can pray with her hands towards the shrine on the hill opposite, and her religion is completely devoid of justice, mercy, and similar qualities. The High School had many visitors, and the regattas are said now to be quite station picnics. For many years a swim of seven miles across the lake has been undertaken without mishap, but in 1918 one boy sank, and although several of his companions at once dived after him, the body could not be recovered for several hours. Twenty-three out of thirty-two boys who went in for the matriculation examination succeeded in passing. The chief feature in the social work of the school was a campaign undertaken against food profiteering. Although there had been an exceptionally good rice harvest, yet there was no rice to be purchased in the city, except secretly and after dark and at exorbitant prices. The Rev. C. E. Tyndale-Biscoe closed the school and set the staff free to sell rice to the city folk, feeling that food was more necessary than lessons. One or two inquirers came forward, but it was difficult to make sure about their motives. The services of the Rev. F. E. Lucey were for a time lent to the Government as assistant recruiting officer in Poonch; he was impressed by the opening for preaching the Gospel there.

Islamabad

The Punjabi Mohammedan woman, Fazl Bibi, who was mentioned in last year's REPORT (p. 59), was baptized in 1918 at Islamabad. Few of the patients at the John Bishop Memorial Hospital showed any intelligent interest in the gospel message. The pupils of the boys' school, a branch of the Srinagar school, engaged in social work, saving life, making winter roads passable, cleaning up streets, rescuing animals from cruel owners, etc. At the girls' school there was encouragement in that the fathers and mothers of three small pupils were led to ask for instruction in the Bible and Christianity through hearing from their children what they had learnt in school.

NORTH-WEST FRONTIER PROVINCE.—The buildings of Edwardes College at Peshawar were offered to the Government to be used for a proposed college for Indian candidates for the King's commission, but the offer was declined, the Government expressing their most grateful thanks for it. The college had sixty-five students, more than half of whom were Mohammedans. At the first arts examination thirteen out of eighteen students passed, and in the B.A. sixteen out of nineteen. At the Edwardes High School, as well as at the college, examination results were excellent. Dr. R. J. H. Cox was transferred to Peshawar to take the place of the late Dr. V. H. Starr at the Hospital. Writing about the circumstances of his predecessor's tragic death, which was recorded in last year's REPORT (p. 53), Dr. Cox says :— Peshawar

> Nothing is known for certain of the criminal, but the murder is thought to be connected with the baptism of a Pathan convert. The latter is known to have been cruelly stoned to death for his faith far across the frontier, and it is thought this further martyrdom is connected with that one. Out here on the frontier, to confess Christ may mean the violent death not only of the convert but of any connected with his confession.

The Territorial troops showed much interest in the medical work, and many of them paid frequent visits to the hospital and helped in various ways. At the branch hospital at Charsadda, twenty miles from Peshawar, a young Hindu was baptized. His mother came in touch with the wife of the Indian doctor, and when abused by her Hindu relatives threw in her lot with the Christians. Her soldier son, the young Hindu referred to, returning on leave from Mesopotamia, was at first very angry with his mother, but was soon won over. The Congregation includes a number of Armenians. Until about thirty-five years ago there was a small community of Armenian Christians in Cabul; when they were expelled the larger part of them passed on to Calcutta, but a few families settled at Peshawar, where the son of one of them, Dr. Paul Joseph, is house surgeon at the hospital. He speaks fluently Urdu, Pushto, English, and Persian and shows great evangelistic zeal. Two Indian converts were baptized at Nowshera.

At Bannu the Pennell High School maintained its athletic reputation by winning the football cup in the district tournament and the sports and gymnastic cups in the frontier provincial tournament. Excellent results were gained in the school final examination. Bannu

The Pennell Memorial Hospital worked under the disadvantage of a depleted staff. The out-stations at Karak and Thal were maintained. At the former Dr. Jahan Khan has won a position of some influence by his consistent life and ready service for all, and he materially assisted the Government in recruiting and raising the war loan.

Dera Ismail Khan

The boys of the High School at Dera Ismail Khan paid close and rapt attention to the scripture teaching.

Quetta

BALUCHISTAN.—The Hospital at Quetta had a smaller number of patients than in 1917, partly owing to war conditions and partly to a rising of the Marri Baluchis; the latter made the people disinclined to attend for surgical treatment which might detain them for some weeks. Twelve adults received baptism, and there were several inquirers.

Sukkur

SINDH.—A new reading room was opened at Sukkur, which affords good opportunities for quiet personal work among those who visit it.

Haidarabad

Pastoral work has greatly increased in the Haidarabad district in the last four years. Besides the congregation at the station, there are about 150 people, chiefly Punjabis, scattered far and wide, who are working on the land. The advent of the Christian regiments brought 1500 Christians into the town, besides about sixty among the camp followers, who are sweepers. A primary and middle school were carried on, and classes were held for the untouchables. During the numerous itinerations made by Mr. Harper, Christian books were freely bought, and he says that there are inquirers on every hand, while forty adults were baptized in 1918, three times as many as in the previous year.

Karachi

Work at Karachi was made difficult by the prevalence of plague and smallpox, but the number of pupils at the High School rose to 550 as compared with 200 in 1912. The patrols of boy scouts had to be disbanded in consequence of an order of the Commander-in-Chief prohibiting officers from helping in the management.

WESTERN INDIA MISSION

PAST HISTORY

For fifty years after Bombay became a British possession the English had neither church nor chaplain in the city, and it was not till a century later still that any effort was made for the evangelization of its inhabitants. The first Protestant missionaries, agents of the American Board of Foreign Missions, arrived in 1813. It was in 1820 that C.M.S. work was inaugurated in Bombay by the Rev. Richard Kenney. The operations of the Society there have been very limited, but in 1832 the work was extended to Nasik; Malegam was occupied in 1848; Aurangabad, 1860; Poona, 1882; and Manmad, 1901. For work among the Bhils, an aboriginal tribe, Kherwara was occupied in 1880, and Biladia and Lusadia in 1901.

The diocese of Bombay was formed in 1835. The present bishop is Dr. Palmer, who was consecrated in 1908.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

Nine stations are occupied in the Western India Mission by European missionaries, of whom there are 11 clergymen, 10 wives and 15 other women (one of them a doctor), on the list.

I. In connexion with work among Hindus and Mohammedans the institutions consist of the Robert Money School for boys and Emmanuel School, a high school for Christian girls, in Bombay; at Poona, to the south-east, a divinity school, a union high school in which the C.M.S. combines with other societies, and St. Helena's School, a high school for Parsi girls; at Nasik, which lies to the north-east of Bombay, St. George's School, an Anglo-vernacular school for boys; and at Sinnar, south-east of Nasik, a middle school for boys. At Sharanpur, a Christian village outside Nasik, there are orphanages and a middle school, as also at Aurangabad, about one hundred miles east of Nasik. There are hostels in Bombay and Poona. Special efforts are made to reach Mohammedans in Bombay and elsewhere; and itinerating work is carried on from Bombay and some of the other stations. Decided movements towards Christianity are in progress in some parts of the Mission, notably in the Aurangabad district. The Z.B.M.M. which has stations at Bombay, Manmad, Nasik, Panchgani, and Sholapur, does most of the work among the women, but the C.M.S., besides the girls' schools mentioned, has some zenana work at Aurangabad. The Indian clergymen, 12 in number, are responsible for the oversight of most of the 6252 Indian Christians. There are also 188 Indian Christian lay agents.

II. Efforts to reach the Bhīls are still on a comparatively small scale. There are the Thompson Memorial School and an orphanage for boys at Kherwara, and an orphanage for girls at Lusadia, at which station catechists are trained and medical work is carried on. There are no Indian ordained pastors in this section of the Mission, but 37 Indian Christian lay agents are employed.

The following are the members of the Bombay Corresponding Committee for 1919: the Bishop of Bombay, Mr. A. H. S. Aston, Mr. H. D. Gill, Col. L. T. R. Hutchinson, M.D., Sir H. E. E. Procter, Mr. W. L. Weldon, and the Revs. Canon D. L. Joshi and C. W. Thorne (secretary).

Scarcity of food

In common with other parts of the country Western India suffered sorely from famine. Only a fourth part of the usual rainfall was received; the crops very largely failed; the people, having no fodder for their cattle, sold them at absurdly low prices —a bullock, for example, was parted with for 2*s.* 8*d.* and a cow for 2*s.*; and the price of rice rose to three times and of certain vegetables to five times that which prevailed before the war. The distress would have been even greater but for the demand for recruits for the army, and for the need of building new barracks for Indian soldiers, which provided work for many. Some of the mission agents suffered greatly from the scarcity combined with high prices, and when it was proposed to one of them to give his wife a tonic so as to strengthen her and enable her to feed her child, he replied: "Why, Mem Sahib, we absolutely cannot afford it; we have only one meal a day and we dare not eat too much even then." When the people were enfeebled through lack of nutritious food, plague broke out and carried off large numbers. One effect of these trials was to cause the hearts of many to turn to God, and Mohammedans and Hindus were seen craving His mercy in public.

Literary work

The Rev. Canon D. L. Joshi completed the revision of the Psalms in Marathi and translated the greater part of the Pentateuch. The Rev. B. L. Salve made good progress in composing a narrative of the miracles of our Lord in Marathi metre. The Rev. L. Hari wrote a tract on "Caste" in Gujerati and translated two tracts from Urdu into that language.

Bombay

BOMBAY, ETC.—Six of the eighteen teachers at the Robert Money School, Bombay, were Christians, and, with the Christian boys, constituted a real evangelistic force. A Christian association was formed for the boys in the upper school, and the boy scouts' movement also had a good influence. Ten of the twelve boys who went in for the matriculation examination were successful, six of those who passed being scouts; this fact is of some importance as showing that physical training, which is not popular in the schools in Bombay, tends to have a good effect upon examination results. Four of the students at the Emmanuel Girls' High School sat for the Bombay matriculation examination; two of them were successful, and, together with another who passed the examination in 1917, went on to college, the first girls from the school to do so. A company of girl guides was formed, and had fifty-five members at the end of 1918. The District Church Council had an income of Rs 3500 from purely Indian sources, of which amount much more than half was given for evangelistic work. The people are beginning to realize the value and dignity of Christian service. The war served to draw the Marathi Christians together and helped to reveal to them the "manliness of self-help, the strength of unity, the blessing of giving, and the joy of self-sacrifice." Twenty-eight adults were baptized, many of them in some degree the fruit of work at the Converts' Home; among these were Mahars, Mohammedans, Brahmans, a Bengali, a Jain, and a Parsi. It often happens that one convert wins another. Canon Joshi mentions an old man who brought another convert, the latter in his turn won another, and the last named brought in a fourth. The Jain who was baptized was formerly secretary of the Brahmo Samaj. Four adults were baptized in Bombay in connexion with the Gujerati work and five at Atgaum, in the Bulsar district. A new scheme has been adopted for the Mohammedan Work in the city and diocese of Bombay; it will be carried on under diocesan auspices and aided by both the S.P.G. and the C.M.S., but the European staff is to be supplied by the latter society alone. The Rev. H. J. Smith who is in charge of this work visited Malegam, where there are 15,000 Mohammedans, Yeola with 4000 Mohammedans, Aurangabad with 25,000, Poona with 20,000, and Nasik with 4000. In Bombay itself there are about 180,000 of these people.

New scheme for Mohammedan work

Nasik

In 1918, for the first time, some of the boys at St. George's High School, Nasik, were entered for the matriculation examination of the Bombay University, and one of the three passed. The school, which had 240 names on its roll, had to be closed for a time owing to the plague. The Boys' Orphanage and Boarding School had about a hundred pupils and the Girls' Boarding School rather fewer; a Brahman girl, sent by Pandita Ramabai, and one other child were under preparation for baptism. The three pastorates connected with the District Church Council raised their quota for the central board fund besides subscribing to the diocesan fund. Evangelistic work was carried on in the city among pilgrims, and meetings were held on three evenings in the week at the preaching hall. At Deolali the congregation grew, and a new out-station was opened at Ozar Tambat, a strategic point on the Bombay-Agra road. At another place, Sonegiri, the whole of the Mang community were found to be willing to accept Christianity.

Poona

In 1917–18 the class for junior catechists at the Divinity School, Poona, had nine members, all but one of whom passed their final examination. There are two congregations connected with the District Church Council. The Marathi congregation sustained all its financial burdens in spite of hard times, while the Tamil congregation took a step towards increasing its contributions. There are about 5000 Tamils in Poona, 1000 of whom are Roman Catholics. Visits were paid to a number of their zenanas and a school was opened for their daughters. Evangelistic work in the city and district was on a small scale although opportunities were many and great, indeed the Rev. W. C. Whiteside says that there has never been a time within his twenty-two years' experience when there was more inquiry. Some baptisms took place, one of the new converts being a young Jain, a people of whom it was said thirty years ago that not one of them had ever yet been obedient to the Gospel, and whose family system forms a strong obstacle in the way of their confessing Christ.

Manmad

At Manmad some improvement was witnessed in the church attendance and contributions. There are out-stations at Malegam, twenty-four miles from Manmad; Yeola, fourteen miles from Manmad, where the village boarding school for boys, opened in 1917, had twelve pupils; and Bhusawal, where there are sixty independent Christians, nearly all of whom are employees on the railway. In the year under review a catechist was placed at a village named Chandgaon, where the whole Mahar community expressed their desire to become Christians, and twelve adults were under regular instruction in the autumn.

Aurangabad

The Girls' Boarding School at Aurangabad had fifty-three boarders; there was sufficient accommodation for nearly double that number, but financial considerations prevented more from being admitted, and about forty children had to be refused within a few months. In the last two years nearly 800 persons have been baptized in the district, and a feature of the work has been that women and children as well as men have sought admission to the Church. There are still many inquirers, and in addition several groups of Mangs, each numbering from 200 to 300 persons, are anxious for Christian instruction. One method which is adopted is to teach what are termed mass movement stories, hymns, and golden texts, which the people learn by heart, and it is not an uncommon thing to find non-Christians correcting the Christians, as they try to repeat texts like St. John iii. 16. The Bishop of Bombay confirmed 110 persons at six different centres in the district. One place which he visited was Saigaon, where several Hindus attended the service, desirous of making thankofferings for answers to prayer offered when they made vows in Christ's name. Around Badnapur, where the Rev. S. S. Patole resides, twenty-five adults were baptized; a good many non-Christians have been influenced by the Christians and some have abandoned idolatry. At a village named Dhoskal, where new work was begun, the Kunbis sent their children to the school, and they studied side by side with the Christian boys without any fear of pollution. Mr. Patole writes: "Through my twenty-six years' experience I can loudly and heartily say that the Kingdom of God is nigh at hand, and the day will come of a sudden that thousands of men will enter in it, in an hour or in a day."

Heathen remedies for plague

BHĪL MISSION.—In 1918, for the first time, the Bhīl Country suffered from plague and its advent caused a good deal of panic. Many superstitious remedies were resorted to in order to avert the evil. For example, a certain "holy man" made a loaf of bread and sent it to a neighbouring village with instructions that the loaf should be given to a goat and a cow, and the village should send two loaves of bread to the next village; that in turn was to forward to the village next to it double the number of loaves which it had received, and so on; and in each case the cows and goats were to be fed with the loaves. As many as fifteen men were seen carrying loaves from one village to another. Happily the Bhīls were willing to be inoculated and the mortality among them was comparatively small.

Kherwara

The plague indirectly aided the work at Kherwara, for the houses in a Bhīl village are widely separated, and in ordinary circumstances it is difficult to gather an audience, but owing to the large number of deaths several funeral feasts were held near the mission station, at which numbers of people met from the surrounding villages. The Rev. C. L. Shaw in this way was able to reach audiences numbering between 200 and 300. At one place, Shodi, fifteen people promised to put themselves under instruction, and one man was afterwards baptized. Efforts were made, with but limited success, to revive the Catechists' Class. The Boys' Boarding School had nine boarders, four of them Christians, the first sons of Christian parents to enter the boarding school. Mr. Shaw sums up his report with the words: "The work is full of promise if only we could get an adequate staff to cope with it."

Biladia

Dispensary work was carried on at Biladia by a Bengali Christian hospital assistant whose calmness and courage during the plague averted any panic. Miss R. Carter and Miss A. J. Lees spent four months touring in the district around Kotra and found the people decidedly receptive. A small school was opened in Jura, the district referred to in last year's REPORT (p. 65), where the chief was willing for schools to be established.

Lusadia

Spiritual work was greatly hindered at Lusadia by conditions arising from the action of the senior catechist, who resigned and afterwards used his influence to foment bad feeling between two sections of the Church. The divisions happily were healed in a great measure after some special meetings which were conducted by Mr. R. T. Archibald. Difficulties sometimes arise from the Bhīl system of divorce. If a man and woman cannot agree and wish to separate, the money paid by the man for his wife is returned to him; then in the presence of the village council the husband tears a small piece off the end of his turban and tells the woman she is at liberty to go and marry whomsoever she pleases. If it becomes known among the non-Christians that any woman is dissatisfied with her married life, or that she has a temporary disagreement with her husband, it is not an uncommon thing for overtures to be made to her by non-Christian men with the view to providing her with a more acceptable husband. At Mori several Christian families lapsed and attendance at Sunday services was irregular. The same report is given about Jeysingpur, ten miles from Lusadia, and Khetadara. Most of the people who lapsed were heavily in debt to the co-operative societies which were established among the Bhīls by the late Rev. A. I. Birkett, or had borrowed large sums of money to make wells. Happily some of the people at Khetadara have since shown signs of penitence, pleading to be restored to church fellowship.

UNITED PROVINCES MISSION

PAST HISTORY

The Society's first agent in India was stationed in the United Provinces. He was an Indian, Abdul Masih, Henry Martyn's solitary convert from Mohammedanism, and he was placed at Agra, under Corrie's auspices, in 1813. Abdul Masih was ordained in 1826 by Bishop Heber, and was the first Indian clergyman of the Church of England. Meerut was occupied in 1815; Benares, 1817; Gorakhpur, 1823; Lucknow, 1858; Allahabad and Annfield, 1859; Faizabad, 1862; Aligarh, 1863; Muttra, 1878; and Hathras, 1915. A remarkable work was done by W. Smith and C. B. Leupolt at Benares, which began in 1832. In 1853, St. John's College at Agra was opened as a high school by T. V. French (subsequently Bishop of Lahore) and E. C. Stuart (subsequently Bishop of Waiapu, and afterwards in Persia). The Sepoy Mutiny of 1857 destroyed much of the Society's property, but the deep interest aroused caused a great extension of the work. Lucknow was occupied immediately on its reconquest, on the invitation of the Chief Commissioner, Sir R. Montgomery. Allahabad was also occupied, and Christian villages were established there and at Gorakhpur. In 1892 a new diocese (Lucknow) was formed for Oudh, the Bishop (Dr. A. Clifford, previously a C.M.S. missionary at Calcutta) having also, by consensual jurisdiction, episcopal supervision over the United Provinces. Dr. Clifford retired in 1909, and was succeeded by Canon G. H. Westcott. In 1903 another new diocese (Nagpur), with Dr. Eyre Chatterton as bishop, was formed, including the Central Provinces and Rajputana, and certain "assigned districts" of Haidarabad.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

I. The C.M.S. has ten chief stations in the province of Agra. They may be regarded as forming three groups, namely, Allahabad, Benares, and Gorakhpur, in the south-east of the province; Agra, Muttra, Aligarh, Bulandshahr, and Meerut, in the west; and Mussourie and Annfield, in the hills to the north-west.

The educational institutions include a divinity school and the Oxford and Cambridge Hostel for students at Allahabad; St. John's College and Collegiate School, with a number of hostels, at Agra; St. Andrew's College and High School at Gorakhpur; high schools for boys at Benares (Jay Narayan's School), Jaunpur, and Meerut; girls' middle and normal schools at Benares and Meerut; the Queen Victoria High School for Christian girls and St. John's Girls' School at Agra; and industrial schools at Benares and Sikandra; besides a number of middle and elementary schools. There are also district training schools in the Agra, Aligarh, Bulandshahr, and Meerut districts, where mass movements are in progress, to prepare outcaste converts and their wives to act as preacher-teachers. Itinerating is carried on among the numerous villages, notably those in the plains around Agra, Aligarh, Bulandshahr, and Meerut.

II. In the province of Oudh there are two stations, viz., Lucknow and Faizabad (which is under the Indian Church Council). A boys' high school is carried on at Lucknow, and also a school for pardah girls. Tours are made in the villages of the two districts.

Medical work in the Mission is almost entirely in the hands of the Z.B.M.M., which has hospitals at Benares, Jaunpur, Lucknow, and Patna, and also engages in women's work at Bulandshahr, Gorakhpur, etc., in close co-operation with the C.M.S. The latter society has women missionaries working in the zenanas at many of the stations.

The staff of the Mission consists of 27 European and 13 Indian clergymen, 6 laymen, 17 wives of missionaries, 38 single women, and 750 Indian Christian lay agents.

The following are the members of the Allahabad Corresponding Committee for 1919: The Bishop of Lucknow, Archdeacon P. H. Chapman, Hon. Justice Sir G. E. Knox, Hon. Mr. Justice Piggott, Dr. Weir, and the Revs. Canon A. W. Davies, W. L. W. Kitching, Canon H. Menzies, A. J. Harvey, and J. N. Carpenter (secretary).

Mission comity

EFFORTS to foster a spirit of comity among the various missions at work in the United Provinces have not always been successful, but in the anxious days of the spring of 1918 such a wave of patriotism swept over the Provincial Representative Council of Missions, when in session at Allahabad, that a remarkable resolution was unanimously passed with acclamation, namely, that men and buildings should be placed at the disposal of the Government for the prosecution of the war, and existing mission work should be carried on by pooling resources. In this assembly S.P.G., C.M.S., Congregationalists, Baptists, and Wesleyans—British and American societies—were represented.

Government appreciation of mission colleges and schools

The high appreciation in which mission colleges and schools are held was emphasized by the action of Sir Harcourt Butler, the Lieut.-Governor of the United Provinces. When some twenty-two missionaries of the Society's Mission offered themselves for war service he deprecated reducing the cadre of colleges and schools and so impairing their present efficiency. Even the claims of the war must not cripple the educational work.

Need of more Indian clergymen

The staff of the United Provinces Mission stands in great need of reinforcement. Although in the last twenty years the number of Christian adherents has increased from 6000 to 10,000, the number of men missionaries has actually decreased from forty to thirty-five. It is true that there is one more Indian clergyman than twenty years ago, but many more are needed, especially in districts in which a mass movement is in progress. It is said that ten are required for a hundred villages in the Meerut, Bulandshahr, and Aligarh districts where small bodies of Christians are found. To meet the need a new grade of Indian clergy has been established, and two Indians have been ordained and set apart for this work. They are of lower educational standing than their colleagues.

Deaths of Revs. S. Attlee,

Four former workers in the Mission have been called to their rest. The Rev. S. Attlee died on 1 June, 1918. He worked at Lucknow from 1859–60, when ill-health caused his retirement. He was the father of the late Miss H. Attlee of the Palestine Mission.

J. M. Paterson,

The Rev. J. M. Paterson passed away on October 20. He spent from 1891–1900 as a C.M.S. missionary in the United Provinces; two years later he opened a station at Bharatpur, in Rajputana, where he remained until 1905. Then for some years he was detained in England by family circumstances, but in 1914 he returned to India and worked for a time at Karachi.

A. F. R. Hoernle,

The Rev. A. F. R. Hoernle died on November 12. From 1865–74 he was stationed at Meerut and Benares, and then until 1880 was acting principal of the Cathedral Mission College at Calcutta. His father, a brother, and a sister were also missionaries of the Society.

and W. T. Storrs

The death of the Rev. W. T. Storrs occurred on 18 March, 1919. He sailed for India in 1856, and after seven years at Benares and Lucknow was transferred to the Santal Mission, where he worked for another seven years. His father, two brothers, and a son were on the staff of the Society.

The Committee have accepted the resignations of the Rev. C. G. Mylrea, after twenty-four years' service, Miss D. M. Barker, the Rev. E. F. Bonhote, Miss J. W. Drury, Mr. J. N. Graham, and the Rev. R. T. Howard. The period of Mr. W. E. Burrows's agreement with the Society has expired.

Canon W. Hooper was engaged on a book in English entitled "Notes on the Bible." The Rev. R. T. Howard wrote in Hindustani: "The Way of Salvation through Jesus Christ"; "The Moral Teaching of Jesus Christ and His Disciples"; the first part of "The History of the Spread of Christianity in the World"; and "The Canon and Textual Criticism of the New Testament"; and began to prepare a commentary on the Books of Haggai and Zechariah.

Allahabad

PROVINCE OF AGRA.—Ill-health having obliged the Rev. S. J. Edwin, the Indian principal of St. Paul's Divinity School, Allahabad, to resign his post, the Rev. A. J. Harvey was appointed principal and the Rev. Dina Nath vice principal. There were thirteen students in 1918, four of them preparing for ordination and the remainder (one of them sent by the S.P.G.) as catechists. Among the latter were a Gurkha, formerly a soldier, and a Brahman pundit from Benares, once a zealous and leading worker of the Arya Samaj and an active opponent of Christianity. The pundit apparently is Sadanand, whose baptism was recorded in the REPORT for 1916–17 (p. 72); unhappily, he was publicly received back into the Samaj early in 1919, after a nervous breakdown. The congregation at Holy Trinity Church, which is composed of Anglo-Indians, raised £125 for missionary purposes.

Benares

Jay Narayan's School, Benares, which was handed over to the Society by a wealthy Hindu of Calcutta, completed a hundred years as a C.M.S. institution in July, 1918. During the century only five or six lads at the school have openly confessed Christ, but the work has been a "powerful solvent of prejudice and superstition." The head master, Mr. P. Russell, is a Christian Indian graduate, and five of the other masters are Christians. In examinations the school gained the second place in 1918 among about a hundred schools in the Provinces. The boys in the hostel conducted a night school for poor boys in the neighbourhood. At the Girls' Orphanage, which was much troubled by sickness, a modification of the girl guides' movement "toned the school up." Many of the orphan children attend the Anglo-vernacular Girls' School, which had ninety boarders. The girls keenly support the Bible Society and the National Missionary Society of India, and are described as "a constant source of joy and thankfulness." Many inquirers came forward as a result of bazaar preaching, and a young Brahman, the sixth in the last two years, was baptized. Educated at the schools of other missions, he happened to read in a vernacular paper an account of the conversion to Christianity of Sadanand, who has been mentioned above. He recognized in him an old schoolfellow and opened a correspondence with him, which eventually resulted in the youth going to Benares for instruction. A former convert, won in 1916 through hearing of Sadanand's preaching, was sent to Faizabad for a year's practical training before going to the divinity school.

Gorakhpur

The Rev. Dr. F. G. H. Williams, principal of St. Andrew's College, Gorakhpur, at the urgent request of the United Provinces Government was set free to edit the "War Journal," of which some 120,000 copies were circulated weekly. The journal was brought out with the object of putting the real facts of the great conflict before the people of the United Provinces. In recognition of this work Mr. Williams has been appointed a C.B.E. The staff of the college was reduced by other causes besides the absence of the principal, but three Indian Christian professors were secured, and it then consisted of two Englishmen, a Spaniard, a Parsi, a Bengali, and two men from Travancore. The experiment of a common mess for the staff was tried, but proved a failure. Although the college was closed for a month because of the plague, examination results were decidedly good. The response of the 110 students to the recruiting appeal which was made to them was poor; only twenty were induced to volunteer, after a two days' holiday twelve of these withdrew, and the number was still further reduced by two failing to pass the medical examination. The cause of the withdrawals is said to have been the action of the women relatives of the students, who imagined that any one who went to the war was bound to get killed. In the district, which covers 4514 square miles and has a population of about 3,000,000, there are twelve towns with more than 5000 people, seventy-seven with between 2000 and 5000, and 7500 villages. The number of Chamars has greatly increased of late.

A cosmopolitan staff

There are three hostels at St. John's College, Agra. Until 1911 the men were divided according to their religion, Hindus occupying one hostel, Mohammedans another, and Christians a third. In that year the Mohammedan and Christian students gave up the privilege of occupying separate hostels, and merged themselves in the common life of the college; but one hostel still contained Hindus only. In 1918 a forward move was made by giving a number of Mohammedan students rooms in this, and the change was accepted loyally. About ninety men were receiving training either in the commercial departments or in the commercial institute; seven of the twelve who sat for examination were successful. Many of the non-Christian members of the college staff are on the committee of the Agra Graduates' Association, composed of Hindu and Mohammedan graduates of the Allahabad University, one purpose of which is to encourage the study of social and political topics of the day. St. John's High School had the names of 500 boys on its roll; seven of the sixty boys in the Christian hostel were confirmed. Four girls at the Queen Victoria High School passed the matriculation examination, two of them returning to be trained in the English normal class attached to the school. In the future the girls will not sit for the matriculation examination but for the school leaving certificate examination, the chief feature of which is domestic science. St. John's Girls' School had about forty pupils. The outbreak of plague interfered with the primary schools, and they had also to cope with the rivalry of schools opened by the Arya Samajis, who tried to bribe the children to leave the Society's schools. The upper-class zenanas are described as a "ripening harvest field," many of the women being very keen on learning English. In the district inquirers were numerous, and more teachers were needed to instruct them. To help in supplying the need a District Training School was opened at Semra, in which promising young men from among the low-caste converts, with their wives, are trained to be preacher-teachers among their own people. One man and his wife were sent out to work during the year, and at its close three families were in training. The liberality of the village Christians grew, the introduction of earthenware vessels to receive the daily offerings of grain proving helpful.

Agra

A "ripening harvest field"

Sikandra

At Sikandra there were more than a hundred Christian boys in the Middle School. Handicapped by their upbringing, few were thoroughly honest, yet their lives afforded grounds for believing that the work among them was not in vain. Three boys who had been taught carpentry went on to a government school of carpentry, and one of these was sent to Egypt to help in making aeroplanes at a salary of Rs 60 a month.

Muttra

Regular work at Muttra was disorganized first by fever, then by plague, and then by influenza, but suffering seemed to soften the hearts of the people, and make them ready to listen to the preaching of the Gospel. Special attention was given to training the primary school teachers in methods of teaching and Bible reading.

Aligarh

At Aligarh the District Training School began the year with fifteen men and ten women, but the numbers were afterwards reduced by sickness; some of the women in particular made remarkable progress. While several of the boys at the High School were keen on hearing about Christianity, many were hostile, and evidently were members of the Arya Samaj. The Girls' Boarding School, opened at the end of 1917, was still small. Much progress has been made in the district during the last ten years, the number of Christians rising from 370, including those in the Bulandshahr district which is now worked independently, to more than 2000 in the Aligarh district alone, while in addition there were from 1000 to 2000 inquirers in 1918, and congregations existed in 200 different villages. As is almost always the case where there is a large movement towards Christianity, the religion of many of the converts is only nominal, and as the workers themselves are often but imperfectly taught, the converts are naturally very ignorant. But there were a number of happy exceptions. Many of the village workers showed great devotion and the steadfastness of some under sore trial through sickness was beyond praise. A number of the Christians were carried off by plague and fever, and suffered from poverty and the lack of clothes, food, and even water. One good result of the sickness is said to have been that the custom of holding a heathen feast after a death—a custom which was a snare to some of the converts—began to die out. There was no lack of openings in the city zenanas; notwithstanding the opposition of the zemindars (landlords), inquirers continued to present themselves; and about 200 persons were baptized, fifty-five in a single day in one group of villages. Work at Hathras was aided by the dispensing of medicines during an epidemic of fever, which made the people more friendly. The opposition of the Arya Samaj was acute, but the zenana work developed and the school for Hindu caste girls grew until it had more than sixty names on its roll. Hathras

A District Training School was opened at Bulandshahr with three married and two single students. The Middle School, which had 178 names on its roll, gained warm commendation from the Deputy Inspector, a non-Christian, who said: "There is not a shadow of doubt that it is the best institution in the district, and serves a very useful purpose. It is only in this school that there is no corruption between the teachers and the pupils. The school looks after the pupils' education in the broad sense of the word. It has man-making theories. Intellectual, moral, and physical education go side by side." The middle school is fed by twelve primary schools, and it is through the influence of these that most of the three congregations in the city and five in the villages have been formed. The village Christians though poor in this world's goods showed themselves rich in giving. Fifty-one persons were baptized during the year. Bulandshahr

It was in 1910 that a movement towards Christianity on the part of the Chamars in the Meerut district began to show itself, and in July of that year nine members of the community were baptized amidst considerable uproar. Since then the work has gone from strength to strength, and between 1912 and 1918 as many as 1173 persons were baptized. The baptisms in 1918 numbered 291. In two Chamar villages and in one with sweepers the whole of the community was presented for baptism. The number of inquirers, too, increased steadily, and the Rev. L. C. Perfumi says that the difficulty is "not how to find out inquirers, but how to keep abreast of the ever increasing numbers of poor people who are groping through the darkness of Hinduism and Mohammedanism into the Christian Church." The Arya Samaj and the landlords were active in their opposition, the latter often refusing to let the Christians have any land, but nevertheless the Gospel spread from one village to another, as those who heard the good news moved about telling it to others. In the city as well as in the villages it was a year of abundant opportunity. The missionaries had many a call to new zenanas, and among the women there were a number who seemed to be secret believers in Christ. The District Training School had five students, three of whom had been pupils in the central school for village converts. St. Thomas's High School retained its premier position in the university examinations, obtaining better results than Meerut any of the four other high schools in that city; in commerce the school stood first in order of merit in the United Provinces. There were 550 names on the roll, and a staff of twenty-six masters, of whom seven were Indian Christians. The Girls' Middle School had sixty boarders and twenty day pupils; fifty applications for admission had to be refused. The Boarding School for Village Girls flourished at Jeyi village, nine miles from Meerut, whither it was removed early in 1918. At Ghaziabad, a large grain centre and important railway junction, a couple of Bible women worked in the zenanas and two schools were carried on, one for high-caste Hindu girls and the other for children of poor railway employees. Itineration in the district was reduced in 1918 owing to the lack of any European to take charge and of funds to support Indian agents.

Ghaziabad

Mussourie and Dehra Dun

The number of adult baptisms in the Mussourie and Dehra Dun districts has steadily increased during the past twenty years, rising from thirty-five in the eleven years 1898–1908, to fifty-two in the five years 1914–18. It is a happy feature of the baptisms in the last two years that many of the converts have been brought, taught, and helped by Christians not in the employ of the Mission. Much of the work is among domestic servants. Latterly there has been a good deal of development in the villages.

Lucknow

PROVINCE OF OUDH.—The High School at Lucknow has 450 boys. It was very successful in the school leaving certificate examination, and though its results were poor in the matriculation examination, they were better than the average from the Provinces. One of the boys unfortunately was involved in a political murder trial. He had been sent to the school six months earlier as a secret agent of a revolutionary gang, possibly with the object of persuading others to join it; the conspirators, however, fell out and murdered one of their number, thus leading to the exposure of the whole plot. The boy was called as a witness and was afterwards imprisoned for being a member of the gang. The number of pupils at the Pardah School, which is of middle school standard and represents the only evangelistic work done by the Society among the women and girls of Lucknow, has grown steadily, though slowly, and in 1918 reached thirty-four. Difficulty is experienced in getting parents to send their children because of their fear of Christianity, and moreover since the mission school was opened both Hindus and Mohammedans have established middle schools in which their religions are taught. Of the two pupils of the mission school who went in for the middle examination, one was placed eighteenth among 207 candidates and the other succeeded in passing, although both of them were two years below the average age of those who entered.

Faizabad

Work was carried on at melas in the Faizabad district, at which many books were sold and tracts distributed, and among pilgrims, pundits, ascetic monks, and students at Ajodhya, the reputed birthplace of Ram. The monks are said for the most part to be young, idle, illiterate, grossly immoral, and indifferent to religion, but the Sanskrit students, of whom there are about 500, are more hopeful. The Rev. J. Qalandar was invited to the hall of the chief abbot of the place who exercises a great influence over all the leaders of the town, for a weekly discussion on Christianity and Hinduism. The Arya Samaj displayed strong opposition to mission work, and though opposed to the orthodox Hindus, combined with them in antagonism to Christianity. Mr. Qalandar gives an example. The orthodox Hindus were challenged to a public discussion by the Arya Samaj. It lasted for four days. The subject under discussion was idolatry and "shraddha" (ceremonies), the orthodox defending, and the Samaj opposing them. On the third day as soon as the Hindus saw the Christians entering the hall where the discussion was held, the chairman of the meeting rose up and said: "Here comes a padri; let us bury our differences. The Samaj was formed not to refute Hinduism, but to save our country from the encroachments of Christianity. You can go on doing idolatry and shraddha."

Differences ignored in opposing Christianity

PAST HISTORY

The Central Provinces of India, together with Rajputana and the other native States known as Central India, were formed into the diocese of Nagpur in 1903, the first bishop, Dr. Eyre Chatterton, being consecrated on March 25 of that year. The Society's work, which is carried on in the Central Provinces and Rajputana, was severed from that in the United Provinces and placed under a separate committee in the same year. Jabalpur, the oldest of the C.M.S. stations in the diocese, was occupied in 1855; Katni Murwara in 1899; and Bharatpur (in Rajputana) in 1902. Among the Gonds, Mandla (1879), Marpha (1892), Patpara (1897), Sukulpura (1901), and Deori (1909) are the stations.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The Mission is carried on in three sections: among Hindus and Mohammedans in the Central Provinces (I) and also in Rajputana (II); and among the Gonds (III), an animistic people.

I and II. At Jabalpur and Katni Murwara, in the Central Provinces, and at Bharatpur, 300 miles from the former and within some thirty miles of Agra, but situated in Rajputana, the work is mainly among Hindus, and is carried on by means of a high school, a middle school, and two hostels at Jabalpur, and by vernacular schools and evangelistic efforts at all three stations. The women's work at Jabalpur and Katni Murwara is, for the most part, in the hands of missionaries of the C.E.Z.M.S.

III. The Gonds, an aboriginal tribe, are reached from Mandla (where there is also some work among Hindus), Patpara, Deori, Sukulpura, and Marpha, which are in the Central Provinces and within about a hundred miles of Jabalpur. A training class for evangelists is held at Mandla, and there are a boys' middle school and hostels for boys and girls at Patpara.

The Society's staff comprises 8 European and 6 Indian clergymen, 1 layman, 9 missionaries' wives and 7 single women. The Indian Christian lay agents engaged in the Mission number 165

The following are the members of the Jabalpur Corresponding Committee for 1919: The Bishop of Nagpur, Archdeacon F. W. Martin, Capt. J. W. Hele, Capt. Rodgers, Capt. G. J. Stokes, and the Revs. Ll. Bridges, W. Hodgkinson, and W. G. Proctor (acting secretary).

An under-manned Mission

THE Society's missionaries in the Central Provinces were sorely handicapped by a great lack of workers. Ten years ago the Mission had twelve European men missionaries on its roll; in 1918 there were only six, and three of the little band had to give some time to war work, one as chaplain to British troops and two as recruiting officers. The staff of Indian workers too was very small and two stations in the Gond Mission had to be left without a catechist.

Jabalpur

JABALPUR AND KATNI MURWARA.—The schools of Jabalpur—the High School with more than 420 boys, and the Sadar Middle School with 175—had to be closed for five months because of plague. A new church, St. Paul's, was consecrated in March, the font being given by a territorial officer and his wife. In evangelistic work the use of kirtans (services of song) was found helpful as a means of presenting the Gospel.

The General Review of the Mission states that on one occasion a deputation of fifty men approached the Rev. J. Fleming at

Katni Murwara

Katni Murwara with a request that he would open a school for their children.

Bharat-pur

BHARATPUR.—Bharatpur was without a resident clergyman, and the work was superintended by two women missionaries. More zenanas were open to them than they could find time to visit, and the official classes were increasingly accessible. The Christians realize their responsibility to shine as lights in the world and about a dozen sincere inquirers came forward. The workers received much encouragement when itinerating.

GOND MISSION.—The Gond Country was attacked early in 1918 by measles, whooping cough, and smallpox, and later by influenza; the last named was so deadly that in the Mandla district nearly fifty per cent of the population were carried off and at Patpara twenty of the 250 members of the C.M.S. congregation died. Grain too was very scarce; owing to the sickness and death of farmers, fields ripe for the sickle remained unreaped, and when sowing time came many were too ill to sow.

Mandla

Superstitious observances connected with funerals were indulged in by some of the converts at Mandla, and several of them thought that sickness was due to evil spirits and tried to drive them out.

Patpara

A Divinity School for training Gond evangelists was opened in Patpara in Maywith six students. After a lapse of four years a Christian mela was again held, 500 persons assembling from different parts of the Mission, and spending six days together. The organization of the mela was no light thing. One hundred and ninety-two people in order to be present had to make a four days' journey through the jungle from Marpha, and some of them lived six days' journey from that station. Supplies and transport had to be arranged, grain depôts to be established and maintained along the route, and watchmen provided to keep guard over crops during the absence of the people from home. Through the kindness of the district traffic superintendent permission has been received to sell scripture portions on the station platform at Nainpur, an important junction.

Marpha

In the Marpha district educational work was attended with much difficulty. A few years ago it was thought that the Gonds were becoming keener on education, but the deputy commissioner in the district, who had diligently fostered it, having died, the people have relapsed into their old indifference in the matter. More than 5000 visits were recorded at the dispensary. Many of the patients were suffering from influenza, but comparatively few of those attacked by that disease resorted to the missionaries, often preferring to beat the thatched roofs of their houses so as to conquer the dread demon supposed to be the cause of their disease. The death rate was appalling. At some places corpses were not buried but merely exposed in the fields or thrown into the long grass, and in a number of homes all the inmates were struck down at the same time, and no one was left to minister to the sick or bury the dead. In the emergency, eighteen of the Christians, most of them masters in the mission school, were enrolled as a corps to give medical relief.

Deori

At Deori there was no catechist, no adult baptisms took place, and no desire for education was shown. Four lads, all from Patpara, and one young man were in training at the agricultural school.

Sukul-pura

It is now some years since Sukulpura has had a resident missionary for more than a few months at a time, and it is therefore hardly a matter for surprise that nearly all the Christians in the district have lapsed, polygamy and inter-marriage with non-Christians having caused many to fall. Two adults who asked for baptism in 1918 were taken to Marpha for instruction and were admitted as catechumens.

BENGAL AND BIHAR MISSION

PAST HISTORY

Before India was opened to missionaries, a corresponding committee of the C.M.S. was formed at Calcutta, of which several government chaplains and influential laymen were members. Two English missionaries were sent to Calcutta in 1816; Burdwan was occupied in 1819; Krishnagar (Nadiya) in 1831; Bhagalpur in 1850; Deoghar in 1912; and Kanchrapara in 1918. Purulia, in the diocese of Chota Nagpur, became a C.M.S. station in 1918. Work among the Santals, an aboriginal tribe in Bihar, was begun at Hiranpur in 1860; Taljhari was occupied in 1862; Godda in 1872; Bhagaya and Barharwa in 1878.

The see of Calcutta was formed in 1814, Dr. Middleton being the first occupant. Dr. Foss Westcott is the present bishop and Metropolitan of India

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The Mission is divided into four sections, two in Bengal and two in Bihar.

I. In Calcutta and its suburbs there are a number of educational institutions, including the Henry Martyn Divinity College, a first grade arts college (St. Paul's), two high schools for boys (St. Paul's and Garden Reach), and a boarding school for Christian girls. Hostels are maintained in connexion with all of these, except Garden Reach School. Evangelistic work is carried on in several languages both in the city and district, and there are some half-dozen pastorates under a church council. There is also a mission station at Burdwan, seventy miles from Calcutta, in and around which town evangelistic work is maintained.

II. In the Nadiya district, with its large village population, Krishnagar, Chupra, Doyabari (Ranaghat), Bollobhpur, Kanchrapara, and Santirajpur are occupied by British missionaries. The last named is a centre from which itinerating work is maintained. Nine parishes are connected with the Nadiya Church Council.

A teachers' training school and boys' high school are found at Krishnagar, and a Christian boys' boarding school and an industrial school at Chupra, besides a number of vernacular schools at various places, while at Bollobhpur there is an orphanage for Christian girls. There are also a couple of hostels. A medical mission is carried on at Doyabari, with separate hospitals for men and women.

III. At Bhagalpur the institutions include a high school and Christian hostel for boys, a middle vernacular school for boys, a boys' orphanage, a dispensary and a leper asylum; while at Jamalpur there is the Fraser Hostel for Indian Christian apprentices. There are a divinity class and a girls' boarding school with a normal class at Deoghar. A band of evangelists itinerates in the extensive district.

IV. Work is carried on also among the Santals, an aboriginal tribe, in Santalia, which lies among the Rajmahal hills in Bihar, south of the Ganges, and also in a colony in British Bhutan north of the river. The pastoral care of the Christians is entrusted almost entirely to clergymen of their own race. The Society has boarding schools for boys at Taljhari and Godda, and one for girls at Barharwa. It is also responsible for the management of a training class for men at Taljhari, which is financed by the Government. At Godda there are hostels for Santals and for Paharis.

V. At Purulia, in Orissa, the Society has undertaken charge of a large leper asylum on behalf of the Mission to Lepers.

The women's evangelistic work, save in Santalia, is mainly in the hands of missionaries of the C.E.Z.M.S., which has stations at Calcutta, Burdwan, Baranagore, Barrackpur, Jamalpur, Krishnagar, etc.

There are 22 European clergymen engaged in the Mission, 3 laymen, 18 wives of missionaries, and 7 single women; 1 of the above is a doctor, and 1 is a nurse. The Indian workers consist of 29 clergymen and 284 Christian lay agents.

The following are the members of the Calcutta Mission Administrative Committee for 1919: The Bishop of Calcutta, Hon. Justice Walmsley, Mr. T. Ashton, Dr. P. D. Bose, Mr. J. C. Dutt, Mr. F. G. Hawkins, Mr. W. E. Pincombe, Mr. S. E. Roy, Mr. W. A. A. Wood, and the Revs. E. T. Butler, J. Godber, T. Lenman, R. F. Pearce, H. Perfect, N. H. Tubbs, and Canon E. T. Sandys (secretary).

THE Kaisar-i-Hind silver medal has been awarded to the Rev. S. K. Tarafdar, the Indian principal of the C.M.S. high school at Bhagalpur, in recognition of his excellent school work and general influence for good in the district.

Calcutta

CALCUTTA.—All the missions at work in Calcutta combined in November to hold meetings for non-Christians at three centres for a fortnight. No record was kept of the inquirers who came forward as a result of the effort, but it is said that some who had been great opponents became real friends. St. Paul's Cathedral College met with great success in the university examinations, two of the first three names in the English honours list being those of students at the college. In the B.A. examinations the college percentage of passes was sixty-seven, as compared with fifty-one for the whole of the university, and in the intermediate arts examination it was eighty-four as compared with an average of forty-six. More than thirty students volunteered for the Bengali Regiment or the University Corps, and an old student, a doctor, obtained his commission as captain. Some of the men undertook relief work when floods occurred in northern Bengal, and the St. Paul's Brotherhood, the students' Christian association at the college, engaged in open-air work and various forms of social service. One student asked for baptism but was summoned home by a lying telegram, and little news of him could be obtained. There were more than a hundred boarders and about fifty day boys at St. Paul's School. Christ Church High School for Girls had more non-Christian boarders than usual. All the four girls sent up for the matriculation examination were successful. Evangelistic Work was carried on among the Hindi-speaking people of the city, who number 410,000, and form nearly half of the population. No other society besides the C.M.S. is touching these people. Mr. P. A. N. Sen and his colleagues maintained open-air preaching, visited the men in their homes, sought to influence domestic servants, and during an epidemic of influenza dispensed medicines and diet free of charge to hundreds of patients each week. The last named form of work was of great use in winning the confidence of people, and at two centres non-Christian parents, who previously would not send their children to mission schools, lest they should be converted to Christianity, themselves brought the children to the schools for admission, saying that the Christians shared their sorrows in times of difficulty and sickness. Mr. Sen also mentions that the head of a Hindu goldsmith's family, uncertain, when leaving the city on business, in whose care to place the female members of the zenana, bethought him of the Christians and brought two of his children to the mission school and left the family in the care of a Christian teacher. Visits were paid to the lepers in the Gobra Asylum, and, as a result of the personal work of an old blind inmate, a Mohammedan woman received baptism.

Confidence of non-Christians being won

NADIYA DISTRICT.—There is a community of some 6000 Christians connected with the Society scattered in from thirty to forty villages in the centre of the Nadiya district, which lies in the Ganges delta and stretches from thirty to a hundred miles north of Calcutta. Most of the converts are small farmers and field labourers, the great majority of them being illiterate, not because there are no facilities for education, but because there is no employment for educated Christians in the villages, save as mission agents, and consequently almost every Christian boy on leaving school seeks work outside the district.[1] The reorganization of the church council, which was described in last year's REPORT (p. 74), led to larger gifts, a greater sense of responsibility, and an increased interest in school work, which was managed by a special committee. This committee were encouraged by several Mohammedan boys in their schools becoming Christians. Their guardians were willing to hand over the boys to missionaries that they may be baptized, and a widow Brahman woman also consented to the baptism of her two sons. Two new Christian settlements were formed in the south of the district in 1918.

Doyabari

The strength of the workers at the Doyabari (Ranaghat) hospital was sorely taxed during the influenza epidemic in the latter half of 1918, and many deaths occurred of patients who had been admitted when in the last stage of the disease. There was not much spiritual fruit of the medical work, "nor," Dr. H. E. Flint says, "is there likely to be, since ninety-five per cent of the patients are illiterate and profess to understand but little of the preaching which they hear every day." Great disappointment was met with at Bongong, where the pir (priest or spiritual guide) and his followers, whose baptism was recorded in last year's REPORT (p. 75), showed themselves utterly unworthy; it became clear that the pir never had any intention of remaining a Christian, and was baptized merely to escape from the hands of justice. The place has now been closed as an out-station.

Kanchrapara

At Kanchrapara great pains were devoted to developing the spiritual life of the Christians, who had long been left without proper care. Some quarrels were made up, and house to house weekly prayer meetings, which were well attended, were of great value, not only for the prayers which were offered, but also because the sweeper Christians were shown that educated Indian clerks and draughtsmen were willing to enter their houses. Some baptisms took place at Khejura.

Santirajpur

Efforts were made at Santirajpur to liberate the converts from their fear of the black magic, supposed to be possessed and used by some local people, and of touching a corpse, and to cause the loud wailing at a death and the custom of giving a compulsory feast at a wedding to fall into disuse. A Bible Women's Training Class was set on foot, and dispensary work was carried on, 25,000 visits of out-patients being recorded in eleven months. Two groups of men and two of Bible women regularly engaged in evangelistic work.

Bhagalpur

BHAGALPUR.—The High School at Bhagalpur comprises four departments: a high school, a commercial institution, and Christian and Hindu hostels. There were nearly 500 boys, the majority of them being Hindus, and about eighty being Mohammedans. Fifty per cent of the boys sent from the school were successful in the matriculation examination of the Patna University as compared with an average of thirty-seven per cent. The scouts form an important part of the school organization, and in 1918 engaged in various forms of social work, distributing alms to the indigent when the city celebrated the surrender of Bulgaria, saving a drowning woman from the Ganges at considerable risk to themselves, and so on. Twenty-four of the students and teachers enlisted for active service and one enlisted in the French army. Evangelistic Work was carried on in the town and villages, open-air meetings being held twice a week in Bhagalpur itself, and one or two public discussions being held with Mohammedans.

Deoghar

The Divinity Class at Deoghar had four C.M.S. students and one sent by another mission; the class is held from March to September only. Seven students in the training class for junior teachers at the Girls' Boarding School, Deoghar, entered for the certificate examination, and four passed in the first division and three in the second.

Taljhari

SANTALIA.—Five Santal candidates were being prepared at Taljhari to act as Bible women. All were successful in an examination on the Bible course for teachers, but failed in another on lesson preparation.

Barharwa

At Barharwa some of the Christians who had been heavily in debt were enabled to extricate themselves with the pay which they received as coolies in France, and several of the men who returned made thankofferings for having been kept in safety.

Godda

Two boys at the Boys' Middle English School at Pathra, three miles from Godda, one a Santal and the other a Pahari, were baptized in the summer, and two others were to have been baptized, but their parents objected at the last moment. Five boys were being prepared for baptism at the end of the year.

Purulia

ORISSA.—The Society has undertaken the charge of the Leper Asylum at Purulia, in the Manbhum district, on behalf of the Mission to Lepers. There are about 700 inmates, most of them Christians, and much Bengali work in the neighbourhood awaits development. Thirty-seven adults and several boys and girls from the asylum were baptized in July, 1918.

SOUTH INDIA MISSION

PAST HISTORY

The Tamil country south of Madras was the scene of the S.P.C.K.'s missions in the eighteenth century. But the first two clergymen of the Church of England who went to India as missionaries were sent to Madras by the Church Missionary Society in 1815, having been preceded in 1814 by two men in Lutheran orders. The East India Act of 1833 made provision for a new bishopric of Madras, and Daniel Corrie was consecrated in 1835. Dr Whitehead (consecrated 1899) is the present bishop. Work was commenced at Ootacamund, on the Nilgiri Hills, in 1870.

The Telugu Mission was begun in 1841 by two of the most devoted men on the roll of C.M.S. missionaries, Robert T. Noble and Henry Watson Fox (an old Rugbeian). Noble started in 1843 the famous English school at Masulipatam now known by his name worked it for twenty-two years, and died at his post in 1865.

Many Brahmans trained in it have embraced the Gospel, and it has sent forth several Indian clergymen to work among their countrymen. Fox was a preaching missionary, and set the example of those itinerating and rural missionary efforts which have resulted in the foundation of an increasing Indian Church, hitherto chiefly drawn from the Malas and other outcaste or low-caste people. Ellore was occupied in 1854; Bezwada, 1858; Raghavapuram, 1872; Khammamett, 1888. Haidarabad was occupied in 1901. A mission among the Kois, a non-Aryan tribe on the Upper Godavari, was founded at Dummagudem by General Haig in 1860. An Indian clergyman, the Rev. V. S. Azariah, was consecrated as Bishop of Dornakal (a part of the Telugu Country) in 1912.

In 1820 the Rev. J. Hough, chaplain at Palamcotta, drew the attention of the Society to the claims of Tinnevelly, where there was already a community of 3000 professed Indian Christians, an offshoot from the S.P.C.K.'s Lutheran Mission in Tanjore. Two missionaries were at once set apart for this work, and from that time to this, through the labours of Rhenius, Pettitt, Thomas, J. T. Tucker, Hobbs, Sargent, and others (not to mention workers of the S.P.G., which has a fruitful mission contiguous to that of the C.M.S.), the Gospel has continued to spread among the Tamil population, chiefly among the Shanars, or cultivators of the palmyra tree. In North Tinnevelly a vigorous itinerant mission was established by Ragland, D. Fenn, and Meadows. Assistant bishops to the Bishop of Madras for the Indian congregations in Madura and Tinnevelly were consecrated in 1877; and in 1896 the bishopric in Tinnevelly and Madura was founded. The Right Rev. E. H. M. Waller, a former missionary and secretary of the C.M.S., is the present bishop.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The South India Mission, in which 19 European and Colonial clergymen, 97 Indian clergymen, 2 layman, 13 wives of missionaries, 12 single women, and 1990 Indian Christian lay agents are engaged, falls into three divisions.

I. The first division comprises the work in Madras, the Nilgiris, and the Wynaad, though these are widely separated, Ootacamund being 300 miles south-west of Madras.

Pastoral and evangelistic work among Hindus in Madras is exclusively in the hands of a district church council, which is staffed and, as regards pastoral work, entirely financed by Indians; but the Society has the Harris High School, and is responsible for special efforts to influence Mohammedans. It also co-operates in the new Christian College for women, and to some extent in the Christian College for men, in Madras. In the Nilgiris and the Wynaad the C.M.S. has several schools for boys, and a number of hill tribes are reached by the evangelistic work.

II. The Telugu Country stretches 500 miles northward from the city of Madras along the eastern coast of India, in some parts extending inland for 300 miles. About half-way up, near the coast, lies Masulipatam, the oldest station of the Telugu Mission: the other chief stations are Bezwada, on the Kistna, some fifty miles from its mouth; Ellore, north of Masulipatam; Dummagudem, in the diocese of Dornakal, 100 miles up the Godavari; and Khammamett and Haidarabad, both in the Nizam's dominions, the latter being the capital.

The chief educational agencies are a training institution, the Noble College (first grade) with an attached high school, and the Sharkey Memorial Girls' School, at Masulipatam; and high schools for boys at Bezwada and Ellore. There are 45 Indian clergymen engaged in ministering to the numerous but scattered bodies of converts, who number 32,737 in all.

At Haidarabad, where there are two high schools for boys, the work is chiefly among Mohammedans; and at Dummagudem a few Kois are reached.

III. In Tinnevelly, at the extreme south of the Indian Peninsula, a district church council with an English chairman, under which 45 Indian clergymen are working, is responsible for pastoral ministrations among the 70,007 Christians, and also, with the help of an itinerating band of evangelists, for most of the evangelistic work, the majority of the Society's missionaries being engaged in education.

There are a theological school and preparandi class at Palamcotta, and a college (second grade) and high school in Tinnevelly Town, now managed by a council, composed of Indians and Europeans, which is responsible for the finances, the Society making an annually decreasing grant. There are also high schools for boys at Palamcotta, Srivilliputhur, and Mengnanapuram, and boys' boarding schools at Surandei, Sachiapuram, and Dohnavur; while female education is provided for by the Sarah Tucker College (second grade) and a boarding school at Palamcotta, the Elliott Tuxford School at Mengnanapuram, and boarding schools at Nallur, Sachiapuram, and Suviseshapuram. There are schools for blind boys and girls at Palamcotta.

The C.E.Z.M.S. carries on women's work at Madras and Ootacamund; at Masulipatam, Ellore, Bezwada, Khammamett, and Dummagudem, in the Telugu Country; and at Palamcotta (with schools for deaf and dumb boys and girls) and other places in Tinnevelly.

The following are the members of the Madras Corresponding Committee for 1919: The Bishops of Madras, Dornakal, and Tinnevelly, the Archdeacon of Madras, Major F. F. Elwes, I.M.S., Mr. A. Davies, Mr. E. S. Hensman, Dr. A. Lankester, Mr. W. H. Sell, and the Revs. R. W. Peachey and Canon E. Sell (secretary).

CANON E. SELL, who has spent fifty-four years in the South India Mission, during thirty-eight of which he has been secretary, compares its present state with what it was when he joined. Including the figures for Travancore, which fifty years ago was an integral part of the Mission, in 1865 there were 47,000 baptized Christians and adherents, now there are 182,000; then the Indian clergy numbered 30, now they number 122; while scholars in the mission schools have increased from 13,000 to 63,000.

Deaths of Miss B. M. Davis,

Miss B. M. Davis, of the Blind School, Palamcotta, died from cholera on November 1. She joined the staff of the Sarah Tucker College in 1914, and in 1917 went to the relief of Miss Askwith at the Blind School.

and the Revs. S. Pendurti

The Rev. S. Pendurti, who was ordained in 1904 for work in the Telugu Country, died in June, 1918.

and W. Clayton

A former worker in the Mission, the Rev. W. Clayton, who sailed for India in 1869 and retired in 1883 on account of failure of health, died on 21 February, 1919. From 1883 until 1913 he was one of the Society's organizing secretaries at home.

The Committee have accepted the resignations of the Rev. C. T. Boreham and Miss G. M. Walford.

The Kaisar-i-Hind silver medal has been awarded to Canon M. G. Goldsmith.

Literary work

Canon Dhanavada Anantam edited a Telugu magazine entitled "Hitavadi," and the Rev. Ganugapati Kantayya translated Bishop Azariah's books on confirmation and baptism from Tamil into Telugu.

Madras

MADRAS, THE NILGIRIS AND THE WYNAAD.—The celebration of the jubilee of Zion Church, Madras, one of the churches in the Southern Pastorate under the Indian Church Council, took place at the beginning of 1918. It began with a convention, lasting a week, and a feature of the celebration was the opening of a jubilee memorial hall, nearly forty persons from surrounding villages being baptized at the inaugural ceremony. The preachers' association connected with the church grew in importance and usefulness; in June about fifty voluntary workers from eight different places spent three days at Pammal, and thence visited twenty-five villages, in which they carried on evangelistic work. The Rev. W. D. Clarke, who is the chairman of the Indian church council, states that four educated Indian Christian young men are offering themselves for the ministry. One, the editor of the "Christian Patriot," is a lawyer and has already become an Indian missionary in connexion with the Danish mission in Madras; another is the second son of a former Tinnevelly pastor; and a third is Mr. Clarke's own son. The Harris High School had the names of 370 boys, almost all of them Mohammedans, on its roll.

Bangalore

The Rev. L. S. D. Singh left Bangalore in March, 1918, on war service, and in his absence Canon Goldsmith visited the city and its out-stations. Open-air preaching in the city is forbidden by the police and the greater part of the evangelistic work is done in the mission hall.

Ootacamund and the Wynaad.

At Ootacamund and its four out-stations there are 1500 Christians, most of them drawn from the backward classes, but the majority of them are literate; while in the Wynaad, where the 700 converts belong to the hill tribes or the backward classes, most of the Christians are illiterate. In both districts there was a general advance. Growth in spiritual life and spiritual work was discernible, contributions increased, and in spite of many drawbacks the schools were overcrowded and earned excellent government grants and reports. During a severe outbreak of influenza the converts rose to the occasion and took advantage of the opportunity of showing their practical Christianity. The schools were closed as schools and opened as dispensaries, and the pastor and teachers visited the sick and dying in their homes, etc., carrying both medicine and food. The Rev. H. A. D. Moorhouse reports a pathetic incident. He writes: "In one station in the Wynaad the catechist reported that influenza was very bad. I sent him a supply of medicines at once. They had to be sent nearly a hundred miles. A little later I received a message to say that he had passed away. The story was this. His own family, all the mission teachers, and most of the people were sick. He struggled manfully, almost alone, with the epidemic, ministering to the needs of Christians and non-Christians alike. Then he himself fell ill. Pneumonia developed. At this crisis a message came that there was a Christian dying a few miles away, who urgently desired to see the catechist. The catechist got up. Somehow he managed to get to the sick man. He did what he could, but the poor Christian died. The catechist buried him. Then he returned home in a terribly weak condition, and died the next day. It is a simple story of duty done unflinchingly right up to the last."

Diocesan organization

TELUGU COUNTRY.—At the episcopal synod of the province of India and Ceylon, held at Calcutta in February, 1918, a proposal, made by the Bishop of Madras, that the Dummagudem district of the Society should be included permanently in the diocese of Dornakal was approved, as also was another proposal that the Bishop of Madras should give the Bishop of Dornakal general authority to perform such episcopal functions as the former might wish to hand over to him throughout the whole of the C.M.S. Telugu area included in the diocese of Madras. Of the five districts in which the Society is at work, two, Khammamett and Dummagudem, with an area of 4900 square miles, now form part of the Dornakal Diocese, and Bishop Azariah has episcopal oversight of the remaining districts of Masulipatam, Bezwada, and Ellore, which have an area of 4995 square miles. Thus the entire Mission, with a church membership of more than 31,000 baptized Christians, is united by the superintendence of the Bishop of Dornakal over all the districts which hitherto have been under the jurisdiction of two different bishops.

Telugu Missionary Association

An important event of the year under review has been the decision of the Telugu Missionary Association, the indigenous missionary society of the Telugu Christians connected with the Society, to send forth evangelists to the regions beyond. The association has for some years supported evangelists in the several districts of the Mission; now unoccupied and unevangelized villages in the Warrangal Taluq of the Nizam's Dominions have been selected, and two men have made a tour of investigation. They and two others have volunteered for this fresh effort.

Masulipatam.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the institution which has since grown into the Noble College, Masulipatam, was celebrated in November, 1918. Among the meetings held was one of old boys; it was largely attended, and many of the speakers, though not Christians, testified to the deep and lasting good they had received during their student days. A young Brahman was baptized at the college early in 1918, and a missionary association was set on foot for affording pecuniary and personal assistance in the evangelization of the villages in the neighbourhood. A troop of boy scouts was formed at the Noble High School. The Theological School has beeen transferred to Dornakal, where Bishop Azariah is in immediate superintendence of it and will model it on Indian lines. At Masulipatam there are also a Normal Iraining School for men teachers, a Boys' Boarding School, and the Sharkey Memorial School for Girls; in the training class at the last mentioned institution there were more than forty students, some of them sent by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. Certain of the men teachers at the Sharkey School went out voluntarily at the week-ends and worked in the villages; at one place they prepared some seventy people for baptism and provided the salary for a catechist. During the year a conference of Christian teachers in the Telugu area was held at the college. It was attended by forty-four representatives of colleges and high schools at Guntur, Gooty, Peddapur, Cocanda, and Bhimavaram, as well as from the schools in the Society's Mission. Notwithstanding much sickness and want, which affected the pastors, teachers, and evangelists, as well as others, the existing work in the district was maintained, and a new out-station was opened at the village mentioned in last year's REPORT (p 79), where more than a hundred Sudras united in giving a site for a teacher's house. The number of inquirers was much larger than in 1917. In a single month the Rev. A. Woodhouse visited five large villages where teachers were wanted; in one of them the people offered the front room of the shrine of their village god as a school.

Ellore

During the twenty years 1899—1918 the number of village congregations in the Ellore district has increased from seventy-six to 210, of schools from fifty-four to 144, and of Christian adherents from 3745 to 13,500; and the contributions of the Christians have risen from Rs 1000 to Rs 6000. In 1918 the movement which has led to such great results was "if anything stronger than ever." During the first nine months 2166 new inquirers were enrolled, hailing from thirty villages which before had no congregations and from sixty-two villages which had. Of the new inquirers 1029 were Malas and 1137 Madigas, the number of Madigas for the first time exceeding that of Malas. Some of the new inquirers were the result of a special week of evangelization, held at the end of April, in which 3500 of the Christians took part. They reached more than 250 villages and preached to some 37,500 non-Christians, including a number of caste people and Mohammedans. The immediate result of this effort was that congregations were formed in ten new villages and recruits were added to twenty-two existing congregations. During the twelve months to the end of September 1269 baptisms were recorded—a larger number than ever before, but even greater things might be seen were more teachers and funds for their support available. The main hindrance to all the outcastes coming out on the side of Christ is said to be their semi-serfdom, due to debts, and the prospect, should they embrace Christianity, of being evicted from their homes by their caste masters. If, however, the majority of the Malas and Madigas were to become Christians, the farmer would be obliged to retain his labourers, even should they accept Christianity, since he would not be able to find any others. With so large a movement in progress it is not surprising that ignorance and superstition were still prevalent among the converts, some of whom mixed freely with their non-Christian relatives and kept to their ways. "Like the Israelites of old they seem to have their high places as well as the worship of Jehovah." There were just over a hundred pupils in the

A week of evangelization

Boys' Boarding School, and seventy-five in the Girls' Boarding School. The Society has been invited to open a women's hospital at Ellore, one Indian gentleman promising to pay half the cost up to Rs 25,000, and the municipality intimating that they will contribute about Rs 2500 annually towards recurring expenditure.

Bezwada

There was a continual demand for teachers in the Bezwada district. Besides two new pastors who were ordained, twenty-one new workers were engaged; work was set on foot in seven new villages as well as in four different hamlets of Bezwada itself; nineteen new schools were opened; 450 persons were baptized; and more than 800 were added to the number of inquirers. The poor Christians suffered greatly from sickness, scarcity of food, and high prices, but the situation was a little relieved through 300 men from the district joining the Labour Corps and allotting a certain portion of their wages for the support of the families which they left behind. The Boarding Schools for boys and girls were fuller than ever before. At the invitation of the Government, a Training School for Panchama Teachers in elementary schools is being opened, the Government finding most of the money for the requisite buildings and promising a substantial sum towards the expenses of maintenance.

Khammamett

The story of the year at Khammamett was in many respects similar to that at Bezwada, for there was some increase in the Indian staff, and resident workers were stationed at several fresh villages on the outskirts of the district. The number of baptisms was 414, and would have been larger but for an epidemic of cholera and for famine which caused a general scattering of the population in search of work. Since the right of giving a pass from one village to another has been withdrawn, several from among the criminal tribes, who had enrolled themselves as inquirers in the hope of thereby gaining more liberty, have gone back.

Dummagudem

The district worked from Dummagudem covers about 1500 square miles. It suffered greatly from famine, and when scarcity was beginning to be felt, the headman of Nallapalle—the leading Christian village—incited twelve men, ten of whom were Christians, to daring dacoity (robbery in which five or more are engaged), and they were arrested. More than eighty persons were baptized, most of them at Ammagaripalli, where the late Rev. J. Cain received sixty-two persons into the visible Church in 1917. Many villages were anxious for teachers, but both the men and the money for their support were lacking. Two schools, however, were opened by Mrs. Cain, with untrained men in charge, so that the promises made by her husband might be fulfilled.

Haidarabad

At Haidarabad there are two congregations, one composed of English, Anglo-Indians, and Indians, and the other Hindustani. A new High School for Indian boys of good family was opened at the end of 1917, and now has about sixty names on the roll.

Unifying the work

TINNEVELLY.—In the last two years very important steps have been taken to unify the work in Tinnevelly and emphasize the idea of the corporate life of the Church. A new constitution has been formed for the church council; Indian members have been added to the missionary conference, thus forging a link between the conference and the council; the theological school at Palamcotta and Tinnevelly College have been placed under the administrative control of bodies of Indians and Europeans; and a special committee, composed of both Indians and Europeans, is being formed, whose function it will be to advise the Madras Corresponding Committee on all educational matters other than those under the administration of the Indian church council.

Itinerating band

An Itinerating Band, to which were attached four young men selected by the Indian church council for ordination, visited 176 villages and towns during the year and sold more than 5000 gospel portions and 10,000 other Christian books. Now and again they met with opposition, but on the other hand they came across many friendly Hindus—one, a man who had written and published a poetical life of Christ, and another the author of a book to prove that much of Hinduism is false.

Palamcotta

Eighteen trained students of different grades left the Theological School at Palamcotta during the year under review for work in mission schools in the district. Students and boys delighted in going to adjacent villages on Sunday afternoons to preach the Gospel and returned with the usual song of "Victory, Victory, Alleluia." Most of the boys of the High School are Christians and become in after-life government officials, clerks, lawyers, doctors, teachers, etc. Two troops of scouts were formed in the school. The Sarah Tucker College was very full though the fees were raised. All the students reading for matriculation and all the training students passed their examinations and more than half of the candidates in the school leaving examination were successful. The training class had some sixty students. Every day all in the mission compound engaged for two minutes in prayer concerning the war and the needs caused by it. Twenty-five boys and fourteen girls received industrial training at the Blind Schools, and fifty-two boys and forty-four girls were given an ordinary education. Four of the boys passed a cotton weaving examination. Miss G. Blenkarn, who herself is blind, spent much of her time in writing Tamil books in Braille for use in the school.

Tinnevelly Town

The change in the management of the College and High School at Tinnevelly Town, which, as already has been mentioned, has been placed under a committee composed of Indians and Europeans, worked excellently in 1918. The admission of a couple of Brahman converts from Madura as masters called forth some opposition, but on the other hand the rebellion of the great masses of the people against Brahman dominance, which has followed the home rule agitation, caused dissension at the Hindu college in the town, and this led a number of Brahmans to seek admission to the Christian institution.

Mengnanapuram

Two girls were baptized at the Elliott Tuxford School at Mengnanapuram, where the number of pupils rose higher than ever before. The younger women teachers accompany the missionaries on their visits to heathen women in the immediate neighbourhood.

TRAVANCORE AND COCHIN MISSION

PAST HISTORY

The Mission in the protected Hindu States of Travancore and Cochin, which occupy a narrow strip of country on the Malabar Coast in the extreme south-west of India, between the Ghats and the Indian Ocean, was established in 1816 at the invitation of Colonel Munro, the British Resident. The metran (or bishop) of the ancient Syrian Church of Malabar, which claims to have been founded by the Apostle St. Thomas, had in 1806 requested help from the English Church. For twenty years the Mission was worked by Benjamin Bailey, Joseph Fenn, Henry Baker, sen., and others, with the object of benefiting the Syrian Church by encouraging and aiding it to reform itself. Since 1837, however, the missionaries have aimed directly at the evangelization of the heathen, thousands of whom have been baptized, while, as an indirect result of the work, a love of the Gospel has sprung up among the ancient Christians, whom the missionaries have urged to remain in and reform their own Church. Mar Athanasius, an old C.M.S. schoolboy, who was metran from 1843 to 1877, was an active reformer. Since his death a large section of the Syrians has become an autonomous episcopal Church (known as the Reformed Church of St. Thomas), which maintains reformed worship in the vernacular, holds annually a convention for the deepening of the spiritual life, and carries on evangelistic work; it has also sent missionaries to other parts of India to work in connexion with the Indian National Missionary Society, to the funds of which it contributes liberally. Allepie was occupied in 1816; Kottayam, 1817; Trichur, 1842; Pallam, 1845; Tiruwella, 1849; Kunnankulam, 1854; the Arrian Mission was begun in 1855; and the Alwaye Itinerancy in 1881.

The see of Travancore and Cochin was constituted in 1879. The present bishop is Dr. Charles Hope Gill, a C.M.S. missionary.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

Of the stations at present occupied by the Society's missionaries, four, namely, Kottayam, Pallam, Tiruwella, and Allepie, are in the State of Travancore, where also is the Alwaye Itinerancy; while two, Trichur and Kunnankulam, are in the Cochin State.

The staff of the Mission consists, besides Bishop Gill, of 7 European clergymen, 4 missionaries' wives, and 8 single women. The Indian clergymen number 32, and the Indian Christian lay agents 841.

Some of the missionaries are in charge of districts and carry on evangelistic work at Trichur, Kunnankulam, Alwaye, Allepie, and Tiruwella. Others are engaged in educational work at the Cambridge Nicholson Institution (a theological college and normal school), the College, and the Baker Memorial School for girls, all at Kottayam; and the Buchanan Institution (a middle boarding school and normal school for women) at Pallam. The C.E.Z.M.S. has stations at Kottayam, Ernakulam, Trevandrum, and Trichur.

The majority of the 61,700 converts in the Mission are linked with one or other of 35 pastorates connected with 4 church councils, and the care of them appertains to Indian clergymen, who occasionally join in evangelistic work with some of the European missionaries.

The missionary conference, of which Bishop Gill is chairman, is the local governing body of the Mission.

On the invitation of the head of the Mar Thoma Reformed (Syrian) Church, the Bishop of Travancore and Cochin preached the sermon at the consecration on 27 December, 1917, of the Right Rev. Abraham Mar Thoma as suffragan bishop of that Church. The new bishop received part of his education at the Society's College at Kottayam.

Mass Movement continues

The mass movement among the Pulayas and Pariahs continues. There are now 213 congregations of outcaste converts, comprising about 37,000 souls, and 205 elementary schools for their children with 6021 pupils. The training and building up of these converts as intelligent and sincere Christians may be said to be the chief work of the Mission on its pastoral side. They are ministered to by Indian clergymen who are immediately under the charge of the Bishop.

Heretical sects

The Mission is troubled by several heretical sects, the most widespread perhaps being that of which a man named Poyikayil Johanan, a Pariah, is leader. He makes a strong appeal both to the emotions and racial pride of the outcastes and also to their dislike of discipline, which, he teaches, is not needed by the saved. His adherents are computed as numbering between 5000 and 15,000. In these heresies the attraction appears to be racial rather than religious.

Mothers' Union

The work of fostering the Mothers' Union in the diocese of Travancore and Cochin was continued in 1918, and a branch has now been formed in nearly every pastorate. Miss L. A. Davis, who visited fifty-four stations on behalf of the union during the year, says that the educated Christian women are taking a more recognized place in church life.

Literary work

The literary work in the Mission was as follows: The Rev. W. S. Hunt, besides editing the "Travancore and Cochin Diocesan Record," wrote a book entitled "The Communicant's Companion," which was afterwards translated into Malayalam; Miss K. M. Richards finished the translation of Paterson Smyth's "Moses and the Exodus" into Malayalam and began that of the "Story of St. Paul's Life and Letters"; and, in conjunction with Miss E. J. Neve and Miss G. E. Meager, she brought out a book of Bible Studies for schoolgirls.

Kottayam

The Cambridge Nicholson Institution at Kottayam had fifteen students in the senior divinity class and twenty-nine in the junior class; one student was ordained deacon by the Bishop of Colombo in May, 1918. Examination results at the College were good but those in the school department were less satisfactory. Some new science rooms were completed during the year. The Baker Memorial School, established sixty years ago for the education of Syrian Christian girls and others, had nearly 300 names on its roll; only thirty-two of the girls were non-Christians. Nine Bible circles were carried on among the pupils, each led by one of the elder girls, and there was also a missionary union, the gifts of which (Rs 75) were divided between the National Missionary Society of India and the Travancore and Cochin Missionary Society. The usual girls' camp was held in August at Pallam. The homes of the girls were visited systematically by Miss B. K. R. Wilkinson, and she was well received by Hindus as well as Christians.

Pallam

Seventeen students were in the training department of the Buchanan Institute at Pallam, where good work was done by the Indian staff. A Hindu student who entered in 1916 declared a wish to become a Christian. Until she reached the age of 18, when she could be regarded by law as being of age, she could do nothing, but when that day arrived she determined not to go home after her morning examination paper. When the Hindus of her family knew of her resolve they obtained a search warrant and the girl was handed over by the Hindu magistrate to her uncle, although she declared that she would sooner go to prison than return home. Some special meetings for married women and Christian teachers were held on five successive days, and were attended by more than a hundred persons.

Tiruwella

In the Tiruwella district nearly two-thirds of the Christians are drawn from the outcastes and the greater number of the boarders in the boys' and girls' schools are of that origin. The Boys' School prepares its students for the government elementary school leaving certificate which qualifies for appointment as a teacher. Unfortunately when the age of 15 or 16 is reached many of the boys show themselves unable to learn any more, and the number who qualify to become teachers is comparatively small. Those who fail to obtain employment are a source of disaffection, for they regard it as being beneath their dignity to work with their hands and are apt to roam about fomenting discontent. A weaving class was opened at the school in the autumn, in order to break down the existing contempt for manual labour and provide a means of livelihood for those unable to undertake educational work. A series of retreats for catechists and teachers was held in the autumn to enable them to help the people.

Allepie

The reading room at Allepie was increasingly useful as an evangelistic agency, and one young man was baptized during the year whose conversion was humanly speaking due to his visits to the room. He is the head of a community of 300 persons whom he is anxious to win for Christ.

Alwaye Itinerancy

The Rev. J. H. Osmaston spent about three weeks out of four in camp in the Alwaye Itinerancy. Special revival meetings were held at three different centres in the district with much benefit. He says that the Reformed Syrian Church is doing good work in gathering in the backward classes, and that at some centres the ancient Jacobite Church is beginning to awaken to its responsibility towards those people. The student class, Mr. Osmaston found, was more open than ever before to Christian influence, and several high-caste Hindus were baptized. A new church was dedicated at Wellur, built by the sons of the late Rev. K. K. Koratha as a memorial to their father's life and work, and other liberal gifts by Indian Christians are reported. The Hindu festivals were utilized for evangelistic work, preaching being maintained all through the night on the occasion of the great feast of Shiva Ratri. Mr. Osmaston paid a visit in the spring to a jungle tribe, the Mudavans of the Western Ghats, and obtained permission from the Travancore conservator of forests, a Brahman, to send teachers to the tribe and to work among them in the reserve forests.

Trichur

A Christian sadhu (ascetic), named Sundar Singh, visited Trichur in March, 1918, and addressed an influential audience in the high school compound, comprising a number of Brahmans and Nayars, with a sprinkling of Hindu government officials, and one Sunday evening preached in the church compound to an audience of 10,000 people. The High School had 150 students, a number which would have been largely increased had more accommodation been available. The British Resident opened a new hostel for boarders built in memory of the late Rev. J. H. Bishop. Sunday schools were established at three places in the district for the benefit of Hindus and Mohammedans, and one of them by the end of the year was attended by nearly a hundred boys, most of them middle-class Mohammedans. The veteran missionary, the Rev. F. Bower, reports several inquirers, and says that the war has induced many Hindus and Moslems to seek the Gospel.

CEYLON MISSION

PAST HISTORY

Ceylon, which became a British possession in 1796, was one of the first fields to which the fathers of the C.M.S. turned their eyes. It was not, however, until 1818 that the Mission was begun among the Singhalese and Tamils, the two races (with distinct languages) which mainly form the population of the island. For the Singhalese, work was begun at Kandy in 1818; at Baddegama, 1819; at Cotta, 1822; and at Kurunegala and Kegalle, 1880. For work among the Tamils, Jaffna was occupied in 1818; Colomba, 1850 (subsequently for Singhalese work also); while the Tamil Coolie Mission was begun in 1855.

The see of Colombo was formed in 1845. Dr. E. A. Copleston is the present bishop.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The greater part of the pastoral work in the Mission is in the hands of Ceylonese clergymen, 27 in number, who are supported by native church funds; only two of the many district councils are now subsidized by the Society. Both the pastoral and the evangelistic work may be regarded as carried on in four sections, viz., in southern and western Ceylon; in Kandy and the Kandian Singhalese Itinerancies for the Singhalese of the hill country; in the itinerant Tamil Coolie Mission among the labourers from South India on the tea and rubber estates; and in Jaffna, the peninsula at the north of the island.

I. The chief stations in southern and western Ceylon are Colombo, the head quarters of the Mission, where pastoral, evangelistic, and educational work is maintained in both Singhalese and Tamil; Cotta, within a few miles of Colombo, and Baddegama, near the southern end of the island, where Singhalese is spoken; and Negombo, north of Colombo, where the work is in Tamil.

II. The work of the Kandian Singhalese Itinerancies is carried on in three districts, viz., the central, with Kandy as its head-quarters; the northern, worked from Anuradhapura; and the western, worked from Kurunegala.

III. The Tamil Coolie Mission has three divisions, namely, the northern, the central, and the southern, with their head-quarters at Kandy, Hatton (south of Kandy), and Haputale (farther south-east) respectively.

IV. In northern Ceylon the chief station is Jaffna, near which are Nellore and Copay. All the work is in Tamil.

The educational work is on a large scale, nearly 26,000 children being under instruction in the schools. Besides a number of middle schools, the chief institutions are, for male students, Trinity College, Kandy, St. John's College, Jaffna, and English schools at Cotta and Copay; and for girls, the Ladies' College, Colombo, and English schools at Cotta, Baddegama, and Jaffna. Provision for the supply of Singhalese agents is made by means of a training colony at Peradeniya, near Kandy, and there are a training institution for Tamil men at Copay, and a class for Tamil women at Nellore.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has work at Kandy and Gampola, and a school for the deaf and blind at Mount Lavinia, near Colombo.

The work is carried on by a staff of 17 European clergymen, 1 layman, 14 missionaries' wives, and 15 other women, with whom are associated, besides the Ceylonese clergymen mentioned above, 928 Ceylonese catechists, school teachers and Bible women.

Centenary of the Ceylon Mission

THE centenary of the Society's Mission in Ceylon was celebrated with great enthusiasm in October, 1918. On the 20th special services were held in most of the churches and on the next day there were meetings in the Public Hall, Colombo, at which addresses were given by the Bishops of Colombo and Tinnevelly and the Chief Justice (Sir Anton Bertram), The Bishop of Dornakal also had hoped to be present in October but owing to sickness his visit had to be postponed until January. Many interesting and liberal gifts were made to the centenary fund. Here one only can be mentioned, that of the head master of an important government school, who said to the pastor: "When my father was dying he said to me: 'All the blessings we enjoy now were vouchsafed, under God's blessing, to us through the C.M.S.; therefore be ever grateful to Him.' When I heard the sermon the other day on the centenary I felt convinced that I should give Rs 50 to God."[1]

Deaths of Miss S. C. Lloyd,

The Mission has sustained a great loss by the death of Miss S. C. Lloyd which took place on 13 May, 1918. She sailed for the Mission in 1901, resigned for family reasons in 1907, and rejoined in 1914. A colleague says of her: "I never knew her but as the same serene, calm spirit, hard-working, friendly with every one, and beloved by all. We thank God for her lovely life and perfect end."

southern division of the Tamil Coolie Mission, who was ordained in 1912, passed away on September 27.

and Rev. G. Daniel

The Rev. G. Daniel died on 27 June, 1918. After working for thirty-five years as a catechist he was ordained in 1893 and stationed at Copay. He retired in 1911.

Literary work

The Rev. A. M. Walmsley wrote a Singhalese handbook for use in preparing candidates for confirmation.

The Committee have accepted the resignation of the Rev. W. E. Rowlands. He joined the Mission as an honorary missionary in 1861 and worked chiefly in the Tamil Coolie Mission until 1884 when he was invalided home, returning to Ceylon in 1907. Between 1861 and 1917 the number of baptized Christians in the Tamil Coolie Mission rose from 400 to about 6000 and the number of baptisms from 30 to 300.

Colombo

WESTERN AND SOUTHERN PROVINCES.—The congregation of Galle Face Church, Colombo, continued to show much liberality in support of the work at Wekande, and members came forward readily for various forms of ministry in that poor district. A Chinese boy and some others were baptized. The fees paid at the hostel connected with the Ladies' College, which was opened in 1917, not only met current expenses but also defrayed the original cost. Several of the non-Christian children of the school became inquirers. Evangelistic Work was carried on in Tamil among the Hindus and Mohammedans, and in Singhalese among the Buddhists. The defeat of Turkey was welcomed by the educated Mohammedans, the surrender of Jerusalem, especially, making a deep impression. Owing to the prevalence of sickness, visiting had to be suspended for a few weeks in the autumn, but the Bible women rarely met with opposition. Work in the jail was hopeful and a woman was baptized at the Home for Incurables who first was influenced for Christ by a couple of Christian patients. Four other Tamil speaking adults received baptism, and ten candidates were under preparation in December, some of them the fruit of work in a night school. Several of the Christians formed themselves into a Tamil Evangelistic Union to maintain a catechist, and themselves engaged in evangelistic work. A visit paid to Colombo by Sundar Singh, the Christian sadhu, already mentioned (pp. 66, 104), stimulated many of the Christians to a more earnest life. The successful close of the war was followed by an improvement in the attitude of the Singhalese towards the workers, who as in former years visited the people in their homes, in the jails, etc. Two former pupils in a mission school who had been lost sight of for some time were baptized, and also a man under sentence of death for the murder of his daughter, at the place of execution; he was allowed to speak to the bystanders and gave a wonderful testimony to his faith in Christ.

Cotta

Some special services conducted by Mr. Wijetunga, of the Children's Special Service Mission, led quite a number of non-Christian boys of the Boys' English School at Cotta to become inquirers, and were helpful also to the pupils of the Girls' Boarding School. One adult was baptized in the Cotta Pastorate, and two girls were under preparation for baptism. The Christians in Mampe Pastorate which covers about a hundred square miles, showed increasing liberality and interest in church work. Three adult baptisms took place at Liyanwela, where Mrs. Dowbiggin, the widow of the veteran Ceylon missionary, the Rev. R. T. Dowbiggin, resides and superintends the work of several Bible women.

Baddegama

The Baddegama district stretches along the coast for twenty-eight miles and extends some twenty miles inland. The year 1918 was one of anxiety and difficulty in this region, owing to the people's lack of money, the rise in prices of food, etc., and sickness. Christ Church Girls' English School gained a first class certificate in the scripture examination; one of the children, sent by her Christian sister, was being prepared for baptism. The village schools also yielded fruit, four young men and a young woman, all adults, who had been educated in them, being baptized at the end of the year. One adult received baptism in the Dodanduwa Pastorate, where some rich young men, educated in mission schools, showed great hostility to Christianity.

Kandy

CENTRAL PROVINCES.—Sixty-two of the staff and students of Trinity College, Kandy, served in the war; ten of them were killed in action, one was drowned while on his way to England to enlist, and one died of disease contracted on active service. Three boys gained commissions on the western front. The school did well in examinations and in inter-collegiate athletic competitions, and a party of cadets marched over the mountains for a distance of fifty-six miles in twenty-five hours to prove themselves fit for combatant service. A social service union in five patrols visited in the lanes and alleys of the town and at the hospitals, etc., and took part in relief work during a severe epidemic of influenza. The spiritual work was aided by a visit from Sadhu Sundar Singh, which led to the formation of an inquirers' class with twelve members. All but one of these were boarders, and it was among them that the work was most fruitful. One of the senior boys, a prefect, was baptized and the Christian lad mentioned in last year's REPORT (p. 90) as having successfully refused a marriage proposed for him to a Hindu girl with a large dowry, had the joy of leading his sister to Christ. Others besides the boys were benefited by Sadhu Sundar Singh's meetings, which were held in the school hall on three days in June, 1918, and were attended by more than 1000 people—Protestants, Roman Catholics, Hindus, Mohammedans, and Buddhists. One result was the formation of what was called the "Kandy United Christian Mission" which held monthly meetings for the deepening of spiritual life in the different churches in turn. Evangelistic Work among Singhalese in the villages was attended with much difficulty and the occasional visits which were all that could be paid seemed to make but little impression. One woman was baptized and also two of the inmates of the training home, "Mowbray." Among the Tamils the kindness shown to them during the epidemic did much to win their hearts. "It is only you Christians," said a Mohammedan woman, "that look after us and care for us when we are poor and ill, our own people do not help us." On the other hand the Mohammedans were not overpleased at the defeat of the Turks, and appeared to find it hard to reconcile the action of Christian nations in the war with the teaching of the missionaries.

"It is only you Christians that care for us."

There were twenty-two men and eighteen women among the C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S. students in the normal department of the Training School at Peradeniya. Bible schools for Singhalese and Tamil agents were held in preparation for their annual examinations.

Peradeniya

Christian work in the Kandian Singhalese Itinerancy suffers from a lack of enterprise and initiative among the people, which results in a scarcity among the Christians of men of sufficient spiritual insight and independence to act as leaders. In the Northern District the religion of the people is said to be a curious concoction of devil worship, Hinduism, and Buddhism. In some of their favourite "dewalas" (temples) images of the Buddha may be seen at a Buddhist feast rudely jostled by frivolous Hindu deities as the latter are escorted out and in from their processions; the images are carried round by a group of Buddhist devotees, headed by their chief and every one smeared with sacred ashes of the cow. The help of the Bible Society which supplies gospel portions at low prices was greatly valued. Fifteen adults were baptized in the Central District, almost all of them the fruit of work in the forty-three mission schools. Most of these are primary schools, but there are English schools at Gampola and Nawalapitiya. Three of the boys in the former were baptized and confirmed. The Nawalapitiya school had to be closed for a time, and afterwards was removed to another town, because of an outbreak of plague which was so fatal that all but six died of the first ninety attacked. It is often many years before the effect of the Christian teaching given in the schools is seen. For example: there was a boy in one of the primary schools who scoffed at Christianity and persecuted Christians. He seemed to be a hopeless case. On leaving school he went to college, and in 1918 attended some of Sadhu Sundar Singh's meetings. He was much impressed by what he heard and avowed himself a Christian, remaining firm even when beaten by his uncle for refusing to take part in a Buddhist service. In the Western

Kandian Singhalese Itinerancy

District the outlook was very bright. Several baptisms were recorded and temperance work was begun with success. Nineteen adults were baptized in the Talampitiya pastorate, and some candidates for baptism came forward among the forty children at the Girls' Boarding School at Kegalle, which has since been transferred to Kandy.

Tamil Coolie Mission

The work of the Tamil Coolie Mission is carried on in three divisions. In the Northern Division the Rev. T. S. Johnson, when visiting the district, was one day told by a Roman Catholic fellow-traveller about a village which the latter's co-religionists were unable to visit and where some of the people desired to become Christians. Arrangements were made for their instruction with the result that several adults were baptized, and the pastor hopes that before long the whole village will become Christian. In the newly-formed Gampola pastorate the people suffered much, first from plague and then from fever, and many of the younger Christians were carried off, while muster preachings were greatly hindered. Several adults received baptism—almost all of them, the pastor writes, won by the influence of their Christian neighbours. In the Central Division yeoman service was rendered by many of the catechists and some voluntary workers, and the Rev. A. K. Finnimore says that he thanks God on every remembrance of them. Thirty-three persons were under instruction for baptism as a result of preaching at musters and in the lines, and many others were more or less definite inquirers. Some who came to the very verge of baptism withdrew at the last moment—one man because of an accident to his wife and child and the consequent reproach of his non-Christian friends. Four adults were baptized in the Dickoya pastorate; fourteen in the Kelani Valley pastorate, where lay Christians were diligent in seeking to win others; and eleven in the Lindoola pastorate.

Nellore

NORTHERN PROVENCE.—There were rather fewer boarders than in 1917 at the Girls' Boarding School at Nellore, and the children were not very responsive to the Christian teaching, though one of them was baptized. The class for industrial work paid its way.

MAURITIUS MISSION

PAST HISTORY

Though geographically more nearly connected with Africa, the little island of Mauritius, on which the Society began work in 1856, is, in a missionary sense, a dependency of India. Two-thirds of the population (377,000) are Indians, either immigrants brought to work on the sugar plantations, or born in the Colony; and among these have laboured Hindi and Tamil speaking missionaries. More than 7000 persons have been baptized, the majority of whom have died or returned to their own country. The diocese of Mauritius was founded in 1854. Dr. Gregory is the present bishop. The Society's work, after undergoing gradual reduction for some years, was finally transferred to the diocese in June, 1919.

Deaths of Rev. C. A. Blackburn

THE Rev. C. A. Blackburn, who was one of the Society's missionaries in local connexion in Mauritius from 1883–1909, passed away on 9 May, 1918. Archdeacon H. D. Buswell says of him: "He was an active and effective missionary, his linguistic gifts especially fitting him for work among the multi-lingual population of this colony."

and Rev. J. Ernest

The Rev. J. Ernest, pastor of Flacq, who died on 24 December, 1918, was the first Mauritius-born Indian to be ordained. He entered the mission school at Crève Cœur as a heathen Tamil in 1867 and was ordained in 1890.

The "father" of C.M.S. missionaries

Two of the three surviving native clergy in the Mission are veterans in the service of the Society, having served a long apprenticeship before being ordained, and Archdeacon Buswell himself is the "father" of the Society's missionaries, having a longer record of continuous service than any other missionary now on the Society's staff. In 1862 he went to Ceylon, and in 1866 he was transferred to Mauritius, where he has remained ever since, having been secretary of the Mission for the last forty-two years.

In view of the withdrawal of the Society from the island in June, 1919, a small diocesan Board of Missions has been formed.

Rose Belle

The Girls' Orphanage at Rose Belle had fifty-one inmates. Only one of the orphans was a non-Christian and she was to be baptized before the end of the year. About 2000 visits of patients were recorded at the dispensary. Archdeacon Buswell had the privilege of baptizing a Hindi-speaking man, who for some time had been under instruction by an independent worker and had suffered much for his faith.

Souillac

A couple of women were baptized at Souillac. The pastor laments the low standard of morality which prevails among some professing Christians.

Vacoas

At Vacoas several persons came forward for baptism and one girl was baptized. The widow of the catechist was under preparation for work as a Bible woman.

Plaisance

The Boys' Orphanage at Plaisance had nearly fifty inmates, two of whom received baptism during the year, while others were to be baptized before it closed.

Quartier Militaire

Several baptisms took place also at Quartier Militaire, where a number of persons were under instruction, and visits of out-patients to the dispensary numbered 4000.

(For statistics of the Mission, see p. xxxix.)

China

The boundaries of China contain probably one-fifth of the habitable world; the population is estimated by some at 250,000,000, by others at 350,000,000, and by others, again, at a still higher figure. The chief religions are Confucianism, Taoism, and Buddhism; but the real religion of China may be said to be ancestor worship. The pioneer Protestant missionary, Robert Morrison, of the L.M.S., reached Canton in 1808, but he could only live there as an employé of the East India Company, and China was not open to missionary effort until shortly after the Treaty of Nanking in 1842. The C.M.S. began work in 1844, and the Wesleyans, Presbyterians, and several American societies at the same time or soon after. In 1865 the China Inland Mission was founded, and is now by far the largest of the 144 missionary societies in the country.

In 1917, Protestant missionary societies in China had a staff of 2263 men and 3637 women missionaries (of whom 1819 were wives); and 846 ordained and more than 22,000 lay Chinese workers. There were then 944 stations with a resident foreign missionary, and 6121 out-stations. The Chinese Christian community numbered about 655,000.[1]

Civil war

THE civil war between North and South in China, caused, so the southern party affirm, by the illegal dissolution of Parliament by President Li Yuan-Hung in 1917, continued with varying fortune to the contending sides and with much suffering to the people throughout the year 1918; but towards its close, President Hsu Shih-Chang, who had been elected in September, proposed that a peace conference should be held, and in November the Canton Government agreed to the suggestion and an order went forth that hostilities should cease. The disturbed condition of the country was a sad hindrance to mission work. It was impossible for evangelists, whether Chinese or foreigners, to travel in the affected districts, and the people, hiding for fear of their lives, could not attend services. Schools were closed because the pupils had been sent by their parents to a place of safety, or because a daily walk to and from school would be dangerous. Much mission property was damaged or destroyed. On the other hand, missionaries were often able to act as intermediaries between opposing forces, and sometimes to prevent the worst ravages of the soldiery.

Its effects on mission work

Another unhappy feature of the year under review was an increase in the growth of the poppy and the traffic in opium. In June, however, the Government signed an agreement to purchase the whole of the surplus Indian opium stocks—1576 chests—with the object, so the Chinese Legation in London stated, of getting them out of private hands, though some claimed that the intention was to resell the stock to a syndicate at a greatly increased price. The step called forth protests, among others, from the British and American Governments, and the Chinese Government, having meanwhile sold 300 chests, determined to destroy the remainder, and the last ounce was burnt on 27 January, 1919. The value of the opium destroyed is said to have been $25,000,000.

Statistics of Protestant missions

The statistics of Protestant Missions in China for 1917, given in the "China Mission Year Book, 1918," show an increase, as compared with 1916, of 160 in the number of foreign missionaries, of 1600 in that of Chinese workers, of 19,800 in that of communicants, and of 58,900 in the total Christian constituency.

Bible translation

Three events which are likely to affect the further progress of Christianity in China call for mention: (1) The completion, and issue early in 1919, of union versions of the Bible in Mandarin and Wenli; (2) The inauguration of a nation-wide interdenominational Chinese missionary society, which has selected the province of Yunnan as its first mission field;[1] and (3) The adoption by the Chinese Government and the missionary body in China of a simplified system of writing, with thirty-nine symbols, by a combination of which all Chinese words can be rendered accurately.[2]

Opening of Tibet to missionaries

The prospect that Tibet will soon be open to missionaries is also of importance. Dr. Shelton, of the Foreign Christian Missionary Society, Cincinnati, Ohio, while itinerating from his head-quarters at Batang, in China, not far from the Tibetan frontier, found several thousands of troops from various districts in Tibet. He had discussions on religion with their commander, with whom he established friendly relations, and who forwarded a letter from Dr. Shelton to the Dalai Lama, asking leave to begin work at Lhasa. Later on Dr. Shelton went to Chambdo to minister to some wounded men at the request of the British Consul at Tacheinlu and the Galon Lama who resides there, and over whom only the two kings of Tibet and the Dalai Lama have authority. The doctor discussed the attitude of the Tibetans towards foreigners with the Galon Lama, and the latter said that if Dr. Shelton would come to Chambdo and build a hospital, he would do all in his power to help him.[3]

SOUTH CHINA MISSION

PAST HISTORY

Hong Kong was occupied by the Society's missionaries in 1862; Pakhoi in 1866; Canton in 1898; Limchow in 1902; Hokshan in 1910; Nanning in 1914; and Yunnan in 1915.

The diocese of Victoria, Hong Kong, comprises the British colony of Hong Kong, and jurisdiction in China in the provinces of Kwangtung and Kwangsi (south of the central branch of the West River) and those portions of the provinces of Kiangsi, Kweichow, and Yunnan which lie south of lat. 28°. The present bishop is Dr. Lander.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

Seven stations are occupied, namely, Hong Kong; Kowloon, Canton, Pakho (south-west of Canton), and Limchow, in the province of Kwangtung; Nanning, the capital, in the province of Kwangsi; and Yunnan, in the province of that name.

Chinese men are trained for ordination or as catechists at the Union Theologica

College at Canton, the C.M.S. students living in their own hostel, and there are Bible women's schools at Hong Kong (St. Stephen's House) and Limchow. A middle school is carried on at Canton for Christian boys; while for Christian girls there are similar schools at Hong Kong (West Point), Kowloon, Canton, and Pakhoi. There are also at Hong Kong a number of other mission institutions, namely, St. John's Hall, a hostel in connexion with the university; St. Stephen's College, where a Christian education on modern lines is provided for the sons of well-to-do Chinese; St. Stephen's Girls' College, a similar school for the daughters of the gentry; and St. Paul's Anglo-Chinese School (for boys), where the sons of Eurasians and Chinese unable to pay high fees are received.

A hospital and leper asylum are maintained at Pakhoi, a dispensary at Limchow, and a hospital at Yunnan. Evangelistic work is carried on in the numerous towns and villages of the large districts.

The staff of the Mission consists of 14 European and 7 Chinese clergymen, 4 laymen, 13 missionaries' wives, and 18 other women missionaries; 4 of the above are doctors and 2 are trained nurses. The Chinese Christian lay agents number 190.

THE Committee have accepted the resignations of Miss E. M. G. Barber and Mr. C. G. Gerken.

HONG KONG.—At St. John's Hall, Victoria, which is for students at the Hong Kong University, some forty students were in residence in 1918; two of the men were led, through some meetings held by Dr. Sherwood Eddy early in the year, to a decision to seek holy orders. A couple of the students in one of the halls directly controlled by the university were baptized. Of the twenty-five boarders at the Bible Women's Training School, comparatively few were connected with the Society; most of the women either already were Bible women or were regular voluntary workers. The last named accompanied the Bible women when visiting, or carried on that work in couples. It is said that as a rule they did not like visiting in the poor or crowded parts of the city; nevertheless their aid was of real value and they did much to shepherd the new converts. Miss A. M. Pitts, who was in charge of the training school, held a weekly class for training personal workers, which had nearly fifty members; after Bible study, the members took in turn the inquirers' class which followed, or led groups in Bible study, Miss Pitts remaining in the background while they taught, but holding herself in readiness to help if appealed to. Victoria

A senior and junior section of the Y.W.C.A. were organized at the Victoria Home and Orphanage, Kowloon, where several girls were being prepared for confirmation. Some candidates for baptism presented themselves at Yaumati, but their ignorance made their preparation a matter of some difficulty. Kowloon

KWANGTUNG PROVINCE.—A conference of catechists was held under the auspices of the Christian Council at Canton in July; fifteen denominations took part and 120 Christian workers were present, of whom fourteen were C.M.S. agents. There were nine students in the Society's Theological Hostel connected with the Canton Union Theological College; one of them gained a first class diploma and was assigned to the Nanning district as catechist. Canton

Holy Trinity School, after a period of depression in 1917, grew considerably, and had the names of sixty boys on its roll by the end of 1918, about half of them being Christians. At St. Hilda's School it was a "year of soul awkening" among the girls. Several of them were baptized, real growth in spiritual life took place among both teachers and children, and three of the girls resolved to devote their lives to the evangelization of China. The Rev. C. I. Blanchett, returning to the city in February after furlough, found cause to believe that Christianity had made great progress of late years. He says that "the Church of Christ is the one institution in China which is making good and is standing out amidst all chaos and disorder as a stable force and a growing power in the land." The work in the city was hindered in the summer by floods. Some parts were under water and the attendance both at meetings and schools suffered, while house to house visiting became difficult if not impossible. But the trial served to reveal the earnestness of some of the women, for they actually waded through the water in order to be present at the Sunday services. The Chinese Christians showed a greater sense of responsibility for spreading the Gospel among their own countrymen and of the privilege of doing so. Meetings were continued in one of the suburbs at the house of Mrs. Lee Cheuk-Shang, the Christian lady referred to in last year's REPORT (p. 96). During her absence in Japan[1] another Chinese worker gave voluntary help. Pirates were still active on the West River, as for many years past, and some of the Christians met with sore trouble through them. One day the robbers plundered ten boats of grain destined for Canton. Complaints having been made to the officials, a band of soldiers was dispatched and surrounded a village near the scene of the robbery, taking nearly seventy men prisoners. The Chinese pastor pointed out that some of these men were honest Christians, but the soldiers replied roughly that all must go to Canton for judgment. Almost to a man they were shot at once without trial, though at the most there had only been ten pirates in the band. Several baptisms took place at different centres in the district, and there was a great deal of activity in the way of church building, but Mr. Blanchett says: "There is still need for prayer that the spiritual activity of these centres may correspond with their building activity. There are many Marthas among them, and we want more Marys."

"The Church stands out amidst chaos"

In the past women patients have usually been greatly in the majority at the Pakhoi Hospital, but in 1918, partly in consequence of the absence of Miss A. A. Bolton for four months at Limchow, the position was reversed. A number of the in-patients were soldiers, and since many of them could read it was more easy to teach them than some of the usual class of patients. The "Traveller's Guide" is said to have met with much appreciation, the soldiers throwing aside newspapers, journals, books, etc. in order to read it. Spiritual work among the men afforded a good deal of encouragement. Owing to the rise in prices only paying patients could be admitted into the leper compound, twelve inmates of which were baptized during the year. Several of the pupils at the Girls' Boarding School also received baptism. Some of the Christians appeared to realize the privilege of seeking to win others and the women in five weeks collected $70 for the pastor's fund, though many of them were widows earning only $1 a month. On the other hand several church members lapsed through the recrudescence of gambling, referred to in last year's REPORT (p. 95). The streets in Pakhoi are said to be full of gaming tables and gambling houses. Men and women think of little else than the lottery and have hardly any desire to hear of the things which concern their peace. Indeed it is said that gambling has stopped all evangelistic effort. Even the Christians were in some degree led astray by the temptation to make money easily. At Kotak work suffered through an unsatisfactory Bible woman, but the school—a mixed one—was prosperous.

Limchow

Dispensary work was carried on at Limchow from March to July, 1918, by Miss Bolton, among her patients being the second officer of the city, while she was also called to attend several of the wealthy classes in their homes. The gambling craze was very prominent in the town; even the children three or four years of age bought lottery papers, and several suicides were caused by it.

Nanning

KWANGSI PROVINCE.—More convenient mission premises were found at Nanning close to the military governor's yamen, and the gospel meetings drew crowded audiences. Sixteen persons, including twelve men, were baptized. At Lingshan, three days' journey from Nanning, gambling was much in evidence. The catechist, an old man, bought lottery tickets, and as he had a previous record of gambling he was dismissed. This action led to discord among the Christians and to the resignation of the schoolmaster.

Yunnan

YUNNAN PROVINCE.—Both the medical and evangelistic work in Yunnan City made steady progress in 1918.

KWANGSI AND HUNAN MISSION

PAST HISTORY

Work was begun by the C.M.S. in the province of Kwangsi in 1899, when Kweilin was occupied. Four years later a forward step was taken by opening a station at Yungchow, more than a hundred miles distant, in the province of Hunan. Hengchow, north-east of Yungchow, was occupied in 1910, and Siangtan in 1911.

The diocese of Kwangsi and Hunan was formed out of the diocese of Victoria, Hong Kong, in 1909, and consists of the province of Kwangsi, north of the central branch of the West River, and that portion of the province of Hunan which lies south of latitude 28°. Dr. W. Banister, a C.M.S. missionary, was appointed bishop, and consecrated in the year named

The work in the Mission is chiefly evangelistic and educational, but medical work is carried on at Kweilin. The women's work in the Mission is under the C.E.Z.M.S.

The staff of the Mission consists, besides Bishop Banister, of 6 European clergymen, 2 Chinese clergymen, 6 missionaries' wives, and 2 other women missionaries. The Chinese Christian lay agents number 71.

Disturbances

A GOOD deal of fighting took place in the province of Hunan in 1918, more especially around Hengchow, which was the last strategic post of any importance in the province to be held by the southerners. At Siangtan also there was some fighting and the roof of the mission house was pierced by bullets. In both of these cities arrangements were made to receive refugees, the Rev. J. Holden and the American missionaries joining with the Chinese merchants in Hengchow in organizing refuges to which women and children could flee when actual danger occurred. When the northerners entered the city there were 15,000 women and children in the thirty refuges which had been provided. There was not so much actual fighting in the province of Kwangsi, but a large number of people flocked from other parts of the country to Yungchow, and the church buildings and schools were for a time given over to afford them protection.

Death of Rev. J. L. Bacon

The Mission has suffered a great loss by the death of the Rev. J. L. Bacon on December 2, which occurred in France where he was working in connexion with the Chinese Labour Corps. He joined the Mission in 1909.

The Committee have accepted the resignation of the Rev. T. Goodchild after twenty years' service.

Kweilin

KWANGSI PROVINCE.—The cause of Christ in Kweilin received a serious set-back through the fall of two of the Chinese workers into sin; indeed, Miss R. A. Bachlor who was at the station for a time, speaks of the work as "having gone to pieces terribly." There were many backsliders, and both the educational work and the work among women were perforce sadly neglected through the shortage of the mission staff. At the dispensary, however, and particularly during the time of unrest, there were more patients than ever before. While the news from the city is sad, that from the district is bright, although many difficulties were experienced through the gambling evil sadly prevalent at the larger centres and through complications with the non-Christians. In one instance a Christian woman having died, the non-Christians arrived in force and seized the coffin, contending that unless the Christians could guarantee that no other woman would die from a similar cause they must perform heathen rites and ensure immunity in their own way. Fourteen people were baptized at Tungpaoshan, where whole families are Christians and the people in general were most friendly, some walking from six to twelve English miles in order to attend the church services. At Kaisheo, also, inquirers came forward, one of them being a well-to-do scholar. The colportage of the four agents of the Bible Society in different parts of the district was full of encouragement.

HUNAN PROVINCE.—At Yungchow there was "advance all round." Many of the men of the congregation voluntarily held evangelistic meetings at different centres in the city and the Christians at their own expense built a good hall in memory of the late Archdeacon Byrde. There was also a new opening for work among the refugees whom the civil war brought to the city, many of whom were men and ladies whom it was difficult to reach in normal times. The boys' school, though closed for a time, did well in the Central China examination. In the district much was accomplished by six agents of the Los Angeles Bible Institution, who together with as many C.M.S. agents formed an evangelistic band, residing at one centre for several months and distributing books and tracts to every house in the city and surrounding country. Through their efforts many adherents were gained at Taochow, whence the work spread to the villages, the Christians at one place partly building their own preaching hall and opening a boys' school, which they themselves financed. At Ningyuan there were "splendid signs of a healthy strong growth" among the Christians. Yungchow

The Boys' Boarding School at Hengchow was closed for a fortnight in consequence of the disturbances already referred to, and the dangers of the roads afterwards prevented some of the students from returning, but in spite of these hindrances and of two virulent epidemics of influenza the average number of students was maintained. Eight students were admitted to the catechumenate and were to be baptized at Christmas. One of the boarding school masters was baptized, as also were two other masters. The two small congregations showed signs of life and activity. Almost every member was a Sunday-school teacher, and the gifts of the people showed that they realized something of the duty of helping themselves and others. Ordinary evangelistic work is impossible in the suburb where the mission premises are situated, for most of the residents belong to the upper classes and are often away at the provincial capital. Hengchow

As at Hengchow, so at Siangtan, politics had an adverse effect upon missionary work. Three times the schools automatically closed owing to danger or the fear of danger. Evening meetings were prevented by martial law, which forbade people to be out in the streets at night, and a depreciation in currency rates of one-tenth of their face value affected the native church receipts. In spite of these drawbacks a good many converts were won. Nine adults, Siangtan including four former pupils of the mission school, were baptized and twelve received as catechumens. At Hotung three men, a woman, and a schoolboy were received into the visible Church. At Nganyuen, where the Rev. Wu Hung-Ching was placed in charge after his admission to priest's orders at the beginning of the year, fifteen adults received baptism. The congregation provided one-fifth of the salary of their pastor in 1918, and promised a quarter in 1919, then a third, then a half, and the full amount in the fifth year. Testimony to the reality of the work accomplished at this place was borne in the "Central China Post," a Hankow newspaper, on 1 January, 1919, by a frequent contributor to that journal. He wrote :—

> On Christmas Eve and Christmas Day I was invited by the members of the local episcopalian church to be present at the services. In previous articles I have often expressed the idea that Chinese Christianity is an infinitesimal quality weighed against the millions of unbelievers. My remarks have offended more than one reader—I take it all back. I have done the Chinese Christians an injury in my ignorance before, and now I ask their indulgence. And why this change of point? Just that Christian Church at Nganyuen—no more and no less. No sane man could any longer declare that Chinese Christians are not the real thing if he had the privilege of being present at those services. In a church, built principally by Chinese subscriptions, with a Chinese clergyman partly supported by his all-Chinese congretion, one saw real worship of the Prince of peace.

FUKIEN MISSION

PAST HISTORY

The Mission in the Fukien Province has a truly remarkable history. Foochow, the provincial capital, was occupied in 1850, and the first eleven years passed without a single convert being won. Two out of five missionaries died during this interval, and two retired. The fifth died soon after gathering the firstfruits of his labours, leaving a new-comer, the Rev. J. R. (afterwards Archdeacon) Wolfe, in charge. Up to 1864 the work was confined to Foochow City. In that year and the following other large cities were occupied by Chinese evangelists. In 1866 the first two or three converts were baptized. Funing was occupied by European missionaries in 1882; Kutien, 1886; Loyuan, 1889; Kienyang, 1891; Hinghwa, 1893; Kienning, 1894; Ningteh, Futsing, Kengtao, and Kaosanshih, 1896; Lienkong, 1897; Sienyu, 1901; Hotung, 1903; Doshun, 1904; Sungki, 1906; Chungan, 1913; Fuan, 1914. The province of Fukien which had previously formed a part of the diocese of Victoria, Hong Kong, became a separate diocese in 1906. The Right Rev. J. Hind, the present bishop, a C.M.S. missionary, was consecrated in 1918.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The work of the Mission is carried on at Foochow, and also at many cities and villages scattered over the northern half of the province. Three of these, besides Foochow, are "fu" (i.e. prefectural) cities, namely, Funing and Kienning, north of the Min, the river on which Foochow stands, and Hinghwa, south of it. The other chief stations are Lienkong, Loyuan, Ningteh, and Kutien, north of the Min; and Futsing and Sienyu, south of that river. The Dublin University Fukien Mission largely supports the work at Funing and Fuan and some of the educational work at Foochow.

Besides the Bishop, who resides at Foochow, the mission staff comprises 18 European clergymen, 8 laymen, 20 missionaries' wives, and 54 single women. Of these 10 are qualified doctors and 13 are nurses. There are 24 Chinese clergymen and 345 male and 380 female Chinese Christian evangelists and teachers.

The chief institutions are at Foochow, some of them in the city and others in the European Settlement on the island of Nantai, in the River Min. They include a union divinity college; the Stewart Memorial School for Bible women; a women's normal school; Trinity College, consisting of an Anglo-Chinese school (St. Marks' College), a middle school (including normal school), and an upper primary school for boys; a boarding school for girls; a hospital and union medical school; and a school for blind boys.

There are also women's schools at Funing, Ningteh, Hotung, Futsing, Hinghwa, Kienning, and Lienkong; boarding schools for boys at Funing, Kienning, Kutien, Hinghwa, and Sienyu, and for girls at Kengtao, Ningteh, Funing, and Hinghwa; and lower primary day schools at a great number of villages.

Medical work is represented by hospitals at Foochow, Futsing, Ningteh, Funing, Hinghwa, Sienyu, and Kienning, besides dispensaries at several stations. Work among lepers is carried on at Foochow, Futsing, Loyuan, Kutien, and Kienning.

A number of the women missionaries devote themselves almost entirely to evangelistic work, in which also the missionaries engaged at the institutions named above take part from time to time. The C.E.Z.M.S. co-operates with the C.M.S. in work among women at Foochow, Kienning, Kutien, Loyuan, and Sungki, and occupies a few other stations as well.

Diocesan Synod

At the synod of the diocese of Fukien, held at Foochow in March, 1918, one of the questions discussed was whether women should be admitted to the councils of the Church. The decision was in the affirmative, and the church councils in the diocese were instructed to appoint committees, composed of both men and women, to consider the best way of carrying out the principle that in this matter women should have equal rights with men, and to report to the synod next year.

Robbers

In many parts of Fukien bands of robbers were actively engaged during the year under review, and in some regions fighting took place between the troops of the North and South.

The Right Rev. J. Hind was consecrated as Bishop in Fukien in October, 1918.

The Committee have accepted the resignations of the Rev. Ll. Lloyd, after forty-three years' service, and Dr. H. M. Churchill.

Nantai Island

The Union Theological School at Nantai Island, Foochow, had fewer students than in 1917, the number varying from sixty-five to ninety, of whom one-third were C.M.S. men; the need of a more spiritually-minded class of men is emphasized. Trinity College, consisting of three schools—an Anglo-Chinese school, a middle school with a normal class, and a primary school—contains in all about 400 boys. The warden, the Rev. W. S. Pakenham-Walsh, mentions three college students in particular; one of them went to the divinity school at Philadelphia for ordination, a second returned to Trinity College as a master, after graduating with honours at St. John's University, Shanghai, and the third took his degree at Shanghai in 1918 and was invited to join the teaching staff at St. John's. Another former student went as the first missionary from the diocese of Fukien to the work of the Board of Missions of the Chung Hua Sheng Kung Hui in Shensi. The normal class had five students, boys who gained their certificate at the middle school at the beginning of the year. Four lads were baptized. The primary school, where the course covers seven years, had a hundred boarders and fifty day boys, the majority of them being sons of Christian workers. Three of the students at the Women's School went out as Bible women, and another to be matron of the mission school. The Women's Normal School had 109 names on its roll. The students were divided into five classes; those in the first three finished their courses, and all succeeded in gaining certificates. Some of the students were sent by missions other than the Society's. The Girls' Boarding School suffered greatly in November from an attack of influenza, which laid low 200 of the children before it passed away. An excellent playground was secured for the school during the year. Several village Sunday schools were carried on by the teachers and elder girls. Two men and two women were baptized as a result of the work of one of the five Bible women employed on the island. New work was begun at Pangdong, a village where great difficulty was experienced at first, as the people said the idols would not approve of admitting Christians to the houses. A school, however, was opened which soon had about thirty pupils, and by the end of 1918 some women were under preparation for baptism.

Foochow Native City

In Foochow Native City ninety-one per cent of those who graduated from the Union Medical College, in which the Methodist Episcopal Mission, the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, and the C.M.S. co-operate, were Christians, and fifty-five per cent were in mission employ. Good service was rendered at the Hospitals by the two Chinese sisters on the staff, one of whom was responsible for the in-patient department and the other for that for out-patients. The in-patients were more numerous than in any previous year, but a dispensary opened by the local government in the middle of the city, at which all medicines and treatment are given free of charge, affected the attendance of out-patients. There were seven probationary nurses, and two candidates sat for the examination of the Nurses' Association of China, both of them gaining honours. Three of the patients were baptized, and four others were to receive baptism at Christmas, while others entered the catechumenate. The Sunday school connected with the hospital flourished; five of the grown-up boys received baptism, and several others hoped to receive that rite at the end of the year. The Bible Women's Training School had twenty-five students, four of them studying with a view to employment as Bible women. The building used for the School for Blind Girls was enlarged, and more accommodation was thus gained for the weaving which is the chief industry. Some of the girls in the school have been rescued from very sad surroundings. One who was admitted in 1918 had been stolen by robbers and then put out on the street, while another was gradually being starved to death by her mistress, who had no use for a blind girl. Many of the pupils in the day schools attended but for a short time; in order to retain a hold on them English was taught to some of the elder boys, and two of these were received into the visible Church.

Evangelistic work

Little Evangelistic Work among men is carried on in the city by any of the missions represented there, but the Rev. A. W. R. Norton devotes himself to reaching men of the educated classes. He was in touch with 215 men, most of them either in government or civilian employ or connected with educational institutions. More men than in 1917 were reading the New Testament, three were admitted as catechumens and one was baptized; two of the new catechumens had been influenced by the meetings held by Dr. Eddy early in 1918. Several women also were baptized as fruit of the work in the city, some of them having been induced by Chinese Christians to put themselves under instruction. It is very difficult for married women to come out boldly on Christ's side; often a woman is convinced of the truth and acknowledges that she would like to be a Christian, but says that her husband or some powerful member of the family will oppose such a course. At Chacang, a suburb of Foochow, the Christian women combined with those attending the North Street Church to collect funds in aid of women's work and they raised $147, the greater part of which sum was applied to the support of two Bible women and the women's school. Special efforts to reach boat-women, among whom a school is maintained, did not meet with much apparent success, although the women were ready to listen and seemed interested in the Gospel, and two of the girls were baptized.

Doshun

At Doshun more than 9000 attendances were registered at the dispensary. Some of the patients afterwards put themselves under instruction. The medical part of the work was hindered by the custom of the people first to have recourse to idols and their own medicines and only to go to the missionaries when every other remedy had failed. Two women in the station class were preparing for baptism and great friendliness was shown to Miss Burton and her Bible women when they visited some of the villages in the spring. That form of work was stopped by the Consul in the autumn because of the bandits, who descended from the mountains, surrounded villages, and often carried off some of the rich inhabitants and kept them until they were ransomed. The bandits respected mission stations, and this made the head men of the villages and others anxious to identify themselves with the Church. "We are suffering from an excess of popularity," writes Miss A. C. Kendall. Past experience at the time of the revolution prevented sanguine hopes from being aroused by the friendliness of the people, but at the same time it could not be doubted that antagonism to Christianity was less than it had been.

Lienkong

Among the students at the Women's School at Lienkong were three whom the consistent life and peaceful death of a Christian woman in their village led to put themselves under instruction. Two of the pupils at the Girls' Boarding School having completed their course entered the normal school at Foochow, and another began training as a nurse. Dispensary work carried on by the daughter of the Chinese pastor caused some people to attend the church services. The work in both the Lienkong and Loyuan districts was under the superintendence of the Rev. T. B. Woods. He speaks of a great improvement among the Christians. Their appreciation of the Holy Communion was greater, and he noticed that those who were most regular in their use of that means of grace were most liberal in their gifts. At one place, with 119 baptized converts, when a collection was made for the missionary work of the Chung Hua Sheng Kung Hui in the province of Shensi, each person was asked to give ten cents, and all but three complied with the request. At that same place the Christians gave half as much again as they were assessed at by the church council, besides opening two new day schools and helping the catechist to such good effect that work was begun in eight villages previously unreached. In other districts also there was an increase of contributions, and the church council closed the year free from debt—a somewhat novel experience. The presence of bandits in the district led to an inrush of people to some of the Churches, and many forsook their idols, having proved their powerlessness to afford protection to their worshippers. In several instances there was a real eagerness to hear the Gospel, as in the case of an aged man who, being too old to climb the mountains which lay between him and the nearest church, sent two members of his family each week to hear what was said and report to him. The bandits did not in every case spare the Christians. In one village three Christian men were among the people who were forced to give money, but happily this exaction did not make them cease attending services. The seventeen day schools in the district were of great value. Several requests for schools had to be refused, one being from three literati who asked that one might be opened in their village for the children of the gentry, and promised $200 towards the expenses. The baptisms in the combined districts during the year numbered seventy.

An inrush to the Churches

Ningteh

Though Ningteh was still without a resident European doctor the number of in-patients at the Women's Hospital again rose, among them being some little slave girls. The Women's School had only about half a dozen students; one who two years before had entered as a heathen received baptism. Two of the elder pupils at the Girls' Boarding School entered as probationary nurses at the hospital at Foochow, and an old girl became a teacher in a kindergarten department which was opened during the year; one girl was baptized. The work in the district was hindered by the lack of an adequate staff, there being only one ordained man, the Chinese pastor. Travelling is a very lengthy procedure, as is shown by the fact that a visit to a remote school occupied nine days, including the time occupied in examination, though the distance each way was only sixty miles. At some centres new inquirers were won and the workers had no difficulty in obtaining a hearing both in the city and in the villages. Two women were baptized in April, 1918.

Funing

The Church at Funing is said to be full of factions. Little effort was made to attain self-support, and little progress could be seen in the work, owing partly to the difficulty the people experienced in making a living and the consequent concentration of their energies on the solution of that problem. However, many more villagers attended the services regularly, and better results would probably be obtained were additional workers available. Five of the pupils in the Boys' Boarding School were being prepared for baptism and some of those in the Girls' Boarding School; while two of the three women in the Women's School, who entered for the examination of the Fukien Educational Association, passed with honours. The last-named school had twenty-two students, two of whom were being trained as Bible women. Fifty-six persons were baptized at Nangdong in December, 1917, and at the end of 1918 there were sixty in the catechumenate. At Fuan both the "Western Learning Class," a school for upper class women to whom English is taught, and the girls' day school had more students than ever before. The women missionaries had numerous visitors, though not as many as when they first took up their residence in the city.

Fuan

Fighting took place at Futsing in the autumn of 1918. More than half the population had fled before it began, but many women and children who remained took refuge in the mission compound. As elsewhere, the troubles caused many to join the Church for protection, and even before the fighting occurred numbers of the people abandoned their idols and put themselves under instruction. But it was difficult to grapple with the opportunity offered of reaching new-comers or even to minister adequately to the Christians, since, besides the European missionary, there was only one ordained man to administer the sacraments in a district where the Methodist Episcopal Church had thirty. Notwithstanding a falling off in the number of patients at the Women's Hospital, and an increase in expenses, the institution had a successful year financially, and there was a better spirit among the Chinese nurses than in 1917. The women workers in the Kengtao district assembled in February, 1918, for their annual examination and Bible teaching, and joined in the work of the week of evangelism. At Kaosanshih, where a women's school was held, and in the villages around, many of the people were attacked by enteric fever and influenza, and in their extremity had recourse to the idols, some families offering as much as $1000 for recovery. An increase in the charge for medicines affected adversely the number of patients at the Dispensary but there were more in-patients than in 1917. Little opposition was offered to the Christian teaching, and three women became inquirers.

Futsing

Kengtao

Hinghwa

The Hinghwa district suffered greatly from the civil war, the city being besieged for some weeks in the autumn. Bandits, too, were very troublesome, and some of the converts suffered at their hands or at those of the more regular troops. The Rev. S. J. Nightingale, writing in December, said: "Business is at a standstill; schools are closed; in large sections of the country it is not safe to work in the fields; a dozen or more of our churches are unable to hold services." The Women's School of late years has steadily increased in numbers, although the fees paid by the women have been doubled; four women entered the catechumenate at the end of 1917, and four more in the following June. The disturbances kept country patients from the Hospital, but many refugees were received, among them a number of women who previously had never been outside their homes except in closed chairs. Two patients and two hospital workers were baptized, and one of the nurses gained the first class in the examination of the Nurses' Association of China.

Sienyu

Sienyu was captured by the combined efforts of the southerners and the bandits in August but the Christians and church property were protected, and more people than usual attended the services. A branch of the Mothers' Union was formed, sixty being present at the inaugural meeting.

Kutien

The districts around Kutien continued, as in 1917,[1] to be infested by bands of robbers, varying in number from ten or twelve to over a hundred. These bands sometimes combined to attack a place of more than average strength, but for the most part worked separately and followed in each other's tracks, so that a village which one day suffered from one band soon afterwards perhaps had to undergo similar or worse treatment from another band. Here and there the villagers united to form a volunteer force to resist the bandits, and when this was done immunity from attack was generally enjoyed. In the midst of these disturbances it was difficult to get the people to pay attention to the gospel message, and the catechists had to spend much time in trying to induce the bandits to mitigate the terms they imposed on some wealthy Christians. On the other hand the troubles appeared to soften many hearts, and while some of the numbers who sought instruction undoubtedly did so in the hope that the Church would afford them protection, there were many genuine seekers. During the year eighty adults were baptized, and sixty-one enrolled as catechumens.

[1] REPORT, 1917–18, p. 104.

The Boys' Boarding School sent up nine candidates to the middle school at Foochow for the competitive entrance examination, and gained eight of the fifteen vacant places, for the third year in succession heading the list of all the schools which sent candidates.

In the latter part of 1918 organized bands of robbers appeared in different parts of the Kienning district, among the men being two baptized Christians, former pupils of the mission boarding school, one of whom had long been under excommunication, while the other for some time had not been in touch with the Church. The unrest there, as elsewhere, led to a great influx of hearers and an extraordinary sale of Bibles and Christian books. The attendances at the Hospital were smaller than usual, and there was some trouble among the Chinese helpers and nurses, but several of the patients showed interest in the teaching given and three became catechumens. The Boys' Boarding School had more pupils than in 1917, and eight of the lads were baptized. Many of the Christians took part in the week of evangelism. Meetings in the city were held in the old imperial temple, which was freely lent and during the week was used as though it were a mission hall; the dragon pillars were covered with texts which were left there during the day without calling forth any objection or criticism. Archdeacon H. S. Phillips writes: "The fact of our being able to use such a place within a stone's throw of where a stone once stood making it a capital offence to embrace Christianity, speaks volumes." The services at Ciongbau were well attended, some of the people walking from sixteen to thirty miles to be present. Sungki was still without a resident European missionary. Thirteen persons were baptized in the Kienyang district in 1918, but most of them hailed from the villages, for at Kienyang itself work was hindered by the mission buildings being outside the city, and one of the Bible women fell into sin and had to be dismissed and excommunicated. At Cudonggai the catechist, likewise, fell and was dismissed, and, influenced by him, the master of the day school disbanded the boys. But there were some brighter spots—Lukao, a large market town where five men were baptized, and Masa, where after some years of little advance a number of men from a distant village began to attend the services and a congregation of from thirty to forty persons was formed. A new Girls' Boarding School was opened at Chungan with fifteen pupils. Dispensary work led to the baptism of an entire family. There were other converts—a man from one of the leading families, a gambler, and an elderly woman—and Miss E. J. Harrison, while saying that progress was "very, very slow," adds that there was an evangelistic and prayerful spirit among most of the workers and some of the Christians. Several persons were baptized at Sintsun, where a new church was built.

CHEKIANG MISSION

PAST HISTORY

China, north of lat. 28°, became the sphere of a separate episcopal jurisdiction, "North China," in 1872, Dr. Russell, of the C.M.S., being the first bishop, and residing in Ningpo. In 1880, after his death, the diocese was divided into two, North and Mid China, and Dr. G. E. Moule, of the C.M.S., became bishop of the latter see; he retired in 1907, and was succeeded in the following year by Dr. H. J. Molony. The Protestant Episcopal Church of America appointed a missionary bishop to China in 1844, who reached Shanghai with a band of missionaries in the following year. In 1908 by an agreement with the American bishops, the province of Chekiang was recognized as Dr. Molony's sphere of episcopal jurisdiction, and his title was changed to "Bishop in Chekiang." Archdeacon Sing was consecrated as assistant bishop in 1918, the first Chinese Anglican bishop. The first C.M.S. missionaries reached China in 1844, and Shanghai was occupied in 1845; Ningpo, 1848; Hangchow, 1865; Shaohing, 1870; Taichow and Chuki, 1892; Tunglu 1913. In the earlier years of the Mission much success was achieved in the numerous towns and villages around Ningpo. Later, in 1877, the Gospel was introduced in striking circumstances into the Chuki district from Hangchow, and again in 1886 into the district of Taichow from Ningpo.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

Excepting at Shanghai, in the province of Kiangsu, the commercial metropolis of China (where the Society has an Anglo-Chinese school open to non-Christian boys and some elementary schools, and also maintains general evangelistic work), the operations of the Mission are carried on in the province of Chekiang. Ningpo, one of the first five ports in China to be thrown open to foreign trade, and Hangchow, another treaty port, are the chief stations, the others being Taichow, to the south of Ningpo, and Shaohing, Chuki, and Tunglu, east, south-east, and south-west respectively of Hangchow.

The more important educational institutions are Trinity College (with its theological class and normal school) and a women's school, at Ningpo; Bible women's classes at Shaohing and Taichow; a higher elementary school at Shaohing; and the Mary Vaughan High School for girls at Hangchow.

Medical work is represented by hospitals at Hangchow, Taichow, and Ningpo. In connexion with the Hangchow hospital there are a lepers' home, maternity home, etc.

The staff of the Mission consists of Bishops Molony and Sing, 15 other European and 28 Chinese clergymen, 8 European laymen, 20 missionaries' wives, and 26 other European women missionaries; 4 of the above are doctors and 4 are nurses engaged at the mission hospitals. There are also 191 Chinese Christian lay agents. The Chinese Church Missionary Society carries on work in the Hangchow district.

Consecration of Bishop Sing

ARCHDEACON SING TSAE-SENG, whose election as assistant bishop in the diocese of Chekiang was recorded in last year's REPORT (p. (105), was consecrated at Shanghai on October 2.

Death of Archdeacon A. E. Moule

Archdeacon A. E. Moule, a veteran missionary, whose name will ever be connected with the Chekiang Mission, passed away at Damerham, Wilts, on 26 August, 1918. A younger brother of the late Bishop G. E. Moule, of Mid China, and an elder brother of the present Bishop of Durham, he sailed for the Far East in 1861, when the Mission was only sixteen years old. For more than forty years, spent chiefly at Ningpo and Shanghai, he was instant in season and out of season in proclaiming the Gospel of Christ, returning to his work after he had been invalided home and appointed to a country living, and to the last holding himself in readiness, should need arise, to cross the seas once more to his beloved Chinese friends. At home, as well as in China, he did much for the land of his adoption. As a missionary deputation he was in the front rank, his intimate acquaintance with Chinese life, his deep earnestness, and the poetic vein which was conspicuous in him making him an effective speaker. He wrote many books on China and the missionary work in which he engaged, and published also some volumes of poems, while in the Mission his literary efforts were of great value.

The Chinese C.M.S.

The Chinese Church Missionary Society in the diocese, which was founded in 1901 and undertook the evangelization of the left bank of the Hangchow River, now has four stations. It has divided its sphere into two parts, and has formed the two older stations into a pastorate under the Hangchow-Shaohing Church Council, making a liberal grant, reducible on the same system as C.M.S. grants in other pastorates. An experienced Chinese clergyman has been appointed to this new pastorate, and the Chinese C.M.S. continues to support the evangelists and educational agents who help him.

Literary work

The Rev. T. Gaunt revised his translation into Chinese of Macnutt's "Preparation for Confirmation," and Mr. A. J. H. Moule continued the translation of Edersheim's "Bible History."

The Committee have accepted the resignations of the Rev. C. J. F. Symons, after thirty-two years' service, and Dr. S. N. Babington.

Shanghai

KIANGSU PROVINCE.—At the distribution of prizes at the Anglo-Chinese School, Shanghai, in January, 1918, Mr. A. C. Clear, managing director of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway, mentioned that two of their senior assistant engineers and the first assistant accountant were old boys of the school, and that about eighteen other former pupils held good appointments in the railway service, and he added that he had made inquiries outside of railway circles, and invariably heard high praise given to boys from the school.

CHEKIANG PROVINCE.—The province of Chekiang shared in what may be said to have been the common lot of mankind in being visited by an epidemic of influenza. At some places whole families died, there was a difficulty in procuring the necessary coffins, and mission work was in some degree dislocated for a time.

Ningpo

The theological class at Trinity College, Ningpo, had five students, who besides carrying on their studies engaged in practical work, addressing non-Christians in a preaching hall, and on Sundays conducting services at outlying villages. Four of the students in the normal class completed their course and took up posts in mission schools; and five boys from the middle school, another department of the college, were admitted to the normal class. Archdeacon W. S. Moule speaks highly of the work of the Chinese members of the staff; they "held together, worked hard, and showed themselves men of piety." Two sessions were held at the Women's School, one in the spring and the other in the autumn, and in addition a short term of one month only was held early in the year for mothers; two of those who attended it were afterwards baptized. There were rather more non-Christian girls than usual among the seventy boarders and seven day-girls at St. Catharine's School, but they were still in a minority; two of them received baptism. The school sent £16 to the Chinese C.M.S. It becomes increasingly difficult to maintain the day schools, owing to the numerous government schools, which are fitted with an elaborate plant, quite beyond the means of mission institutions. Though the Hospital had rather more in-patients than in 1917, especially during the influenza epidemic, there was some falling off in the number of out-patients. Spiritual work was faithfully carried on, not only by the Europeans but also by the Chinese workers, conspicuous among whom was a blind Bible woman. "All are beginning," Miss S. Morris writes, "to realize the importance of using every opportunity of seeking to lead souls to Christ; all are feeling that our Lord's return is imminent." The Congregations showed little numerical growth, chiefly owing to a strict scrutiny of the names on the books, which disclosed the fact that some of the Christians had removed to other places, but partly to the temporary suspension of others from church membership for unworthy conduct. Evangelistic work was carried on in the city and district by various methods; visits were paid to some of the wealthy ladies in Ningpo; in conjunction with the five other missions at work in the city efforts were made to preach the Gospel to the masses and distribute tracts from house to house; and the eight C.M.S. catechists and evangelists twice joined forces, and spent two days preaching the Gospel at a chosen centre in the district and in the surrounding villages.

Taichow

One student in the Bible Women's Training Class at Taichow was accepted for employment in the Mission, and three other women were in residence, drawn from a better class than that usually represented. Miss D. M. A. Leathers, writing of the Girls' Boarding School, mentions that three of the children are supported by friends at home who pray specially for them, and she adds that there were evident signs that the Holy Spirit was working in their hearts. Another girl after a year in the school asked for baptism, but her mother, an earnest Buddhist, took her away, arranged a marriage for her, and beat her when she found her praying. One of the students at the Hospital passed his final medical examination—a real encouragement in view of the many disappointments met with in the past, some of the men having had to be dismissed and others having left before completing their five years' course. At least three of the patients received in 1918 put themselves under instruction for baptism on returning to their homes, and others began to attend services. While the condition of the Congregations continued to cause some anxiety, there were many grounds for encouragement, for the first Taichow man to enter the ministry was ordained, and some of the Christians showed much earnestness, one woman week by week walking about five miles over a mountainous path to attend church, and a farmer placing a large cross under the curved roof of his farmstead, instead of the dragons and fish which are usually portrayed on houses in China, so that all who passed by might know that he was a Christian and was proud of the fact. A special evangelistic effort was made in conjunction with the workers of the China Inland Mission at the Chinese New Year, and resulted in many giving in their names as desirous of hearing more about Christianity. During itinerations, too, and visits to the out-stations, the missionaries were listened to with quiet attention, and many books were sold, but the Rev. T. Thomas, returning after an absence of three years in England, thought that heathenism was more in evidence than of old. He mentions a school of atheism which has come into existence since the revolution, but which is strictly a product of the agnostic literature so extensively circulated of late years by the Japanese. It styles itself the "No God sect," and is composed of those who through modern education have been led to see the uselessness of idols, but have not proceeded to seek the true God. They have as yet no corporate organization. Though at times they will listen to Christian preachers, they refuse to buy or accept Christian literature.

A long walk to church

At the beginning of 1918 there was some trouble among the boys of the Higher Primary Boys' School at Shaohing, but the expulsion of the ringleaders led to an improvement, and the influenza epidemic made the lads more impressionable. The Bible Training School for women had seven members, who threw themselves heartily into the work connected with some special meetings for Christians, a Bible school for Christian women and workers, and an eight days' evangelistic campaign. As an outcome of two special weeks of evangelism held in 1917 several of the most earnest among the Christian women undertook to make a monthly trip to the villages for the purpose of preaching the Gospel, and the men, roused to emulation, followed their example. The catechists at the out-stations had to cope with many difficulties, and in the villages, often extremely isolated, the lives of many of the converts differed but little from those of their non-Christian neighbours.

Shaohing

The Society's staff at Hangchow was greatly depleted, and from an evangelistic point of view, what is termed "union" work largely superseded C.M.S. effort. Considerably more than 1000 Christians joined in united Christmas and Easter services of song. The children's Sunday schools maintained their numbers under Chinese superintendence as well as the boys' and girls' day schools. The mission hall in the Sheep Market Street continued to be a bright spot in the work, both men and women being led to Christ there. Several women in the Hospital were clearly impressed by the teaching given to them and bought books containing the fundamental truths of Christianity. Fifty students graduated from the medical school, which has been registered by the Chinese Government—a recognition which has never before been accorded to any mission medical school. Four of the girls at the Mary Vaughan School were confirmed, and one of those attending another mission school received baptism. In the Hangchow River District, likewise, a number of candidates were presented at Wangdza, where some of the inquirers showed much earnestness in trying to win others, and the women missionaries were warmly welcomed when visiting the villages. Two men and three women were baptized at Tunglu. New work was begun at Fenshui, twenty miles distant, and Tsong-sanhyang, twelve miles from Tunglu, where there are some Presbyterian Christians; about a dozen persons at each place were being prepared for baptism at the end of the year.

Chuki

One of the pupils at the Girls' Boarding School at Chuki, which is attended chiefly by the children of Christians, was baptized at Christmas, 1917, shortly after the confirmation of five others. Four station classes for women converts, inquirers, or non-Christians, were held, for which a fee of one dollar a month was charged. The eight catechists united at times for itinerations in the unevangelized portions of the district, and were greatly helped by a number of voluntary workers in the effort to reach every village, and sell scripture portions in each house. Many of the converts, too, are said to be diligent in witnessing for Christ among their relatives, but at several places, though the missionaries are welcomed and listened to attentively, progress is slow owing to the ignorance of the people. One new out-station, Kading, was occupied, and twenty-seven adults were baptized.

WESTERN CHINA MISSION

PAST HISTORY

The province of Szechwan was occupied by a party under the Rev. J. H. Horsburgh in 1892, but for more than a year it was impossible to rent houses in any place not already occupied by other societies. The cities of Chungpa, Anhsien, Sintu, Mienchuh, and Mienyang (Mienchow) received resident missionaries in 1894; Shihchuan in 1895; Chungkiang and Tehyang in 1903; Mowchow in 1906; Lungan in 1911. In 1895 the Rev. W. W. Cassels, a missionary of the China Inland Mission, was consecrated as Bishop in Western China.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The district which constitutes the sphere of the Society may be described as an oblong, some 150 miles long and 80 miles broad, covering an area of about 10,000 square miles. Mienyang, Chungpa, and Lungan are on the Fow River, while Mowchow is on the Min River, another tributary of the Yangtse, farther west. The remaining stations lie more or less in the intervening area. Much territory is waiting to be occupied, especially in the north and west of this district.

The work is still for the most part directly evangelistic, and is carried on by means of meetings in preaching-rooms, lantern lectures, receiving the people in guest-halls and visiting them in their homes, and by bookshops and colportage

The majority of the schools are junior primary day schools. In addition there are boarding schools for boys and girls at Mienyang, and the Society co-operates in the West China Union University, a diocesan theological training college at Paoning, and a hostel at Chengtu.

There is a medical mission at Mienchuh, and dispensary work is carried on at many of the other stations.

The work of the Mission is in the hands of Bishop Cassels, 18 other clergymen, 4 laymen, 21 missionaries' wives, and 16 other women missionaries. One of the above is a doctor and two are nurses. With these are associated 80 Chinese Christian lay agents.

Civil war

THE year 1918 witnessed no lessening, but rather an increase, in the unrest and disturbances in the Western China Mission. Fighting continued with varying fortunes between the North and South, and not only was there strife between the two parties in the republic, but sections of the soldiers fought among themselves, while rival bands of brigands who appeared in every part of the province contended for the mastery. The people suffered at the hands of all. Their persons were often injured either through their being the direct objects of attack or by stray bullets as others fought; their property was destroyed; they were robbed not only by the bandits but also by the soldiers who, having no certain pay, made levies both on families and individuals. One striking feature of the disturbances was the immunity from molestation which continued to be enjoyed by foreigners. Both at Chungpa and Lungan, the Society's missionaries acted successfully as mediators between the contending factors. Save at Kucheng, one of the Lungan outstations, where the mission premises were three times broken into and one of the most promising Christians was killed, the property of the Mission appears to have escaped injury. At Mienyang, Chungpa, Lungan, Anhsien, Tehyang, and Chungkiang the mission compounds were thronged with refugees in the hour of danger; while in at least one instance missionaries on their journey were allowed by bands of armed robbers to pass without interference.

Immunity of foreigners from molestation

The Rev. A. H. Wilkinson spent the latter half of 1918 at the diocesan hostel at Chengtu, and shared in the work of the West China Union University.

Mienyang

The Boys' Boarding School at Mienyang (formerly known as Mienchow) is worked in two grades, middle and senior primary. In 1918 the first class of middle school students completed their course, two of them gaining the first and second place respectively in the middle school final examination of the West China Educational Union. Eight of the boys and two masters were confirmed and five boys were baptized. In connexion with the boarding school a Sunday school was set on foot, divided into five classes which were taught by a junior master and four boys. In the autumn a teachers' institute was held for the benefit of uncertificated men teachers of the C.M.S. and China Inland Mission; most of the subjects taken were connected with secular education, but there was some Bible teaching in addition. The dangers of the road affected the Women's School at the beginning of the year, but when the northerners fled four of the officers sent their wives to the school; these stayed on for the autumn session when they were joined by seven others and three day students. Two former students were engaged as Bible women, and another went out in the summer as a school teacher. Though the homes of many of the pupils of the Girls' Boarding School were more than a day's journey from Mienyang and the country was in such a troubled state, from fifty to sixty girls, some of whom belonged to influential families, attended the school. Twelve of the children were under preparation for baptism. As soon as any girl showed that she was trying to follow Christ an effort was made to lead her to engage in Sunday-school or some similar form of work. The girls' day school suffered through unrest, but it revived when things quieted down; three of the girls won certificates at the examination of the West China Educational Union. In April when the troubles were at their height, 200 members of the leading families —mostly women—took refuge on mission premises, the new girls' boarding school buildings proving most useful for their accommodation. During the fortnight or longer that they stayed, Bible teaching was given them daily, and when they left for their homes many took Bibles with them and afterwards showed themselves eager for visits from the missionaries. It is hoped shortly to start an inquirers' class for young girls from the wealthy families. Miss A. E. Jones writes: "We feel that now is the time of unparalleled opportunity with Chinese women and girls. Now that they are beginning to come into their own, they are stretching out their hands for anything we can give them." Many army officers—among whom were a number of professing Christians, while others were well disposed towards Christianity—called on the Rev. A. A. Phillips, the secretary of the Mission, and he says that the leading men of the city were never so friendly. Thirty adults, including six women, were baptized, and six women, two of them belonging to the wealthier classes, were received as catechumens. Mission premises were acquired at Lohkiang, on the great northern road between Mienyang and Tehyang, where the local gentry in the past have been hostile. There now only remains one "hsien" city on that part of the great northern road lying within the Society's sphere, where there is no centre for mission work.

Chungpa

An eight days' Bible school was held in May, 1918, at Chungpa. The work in general was greatly helped by the churchwarden, who on two nights in each week opened his shop for preaching purposes and on two other evenings assisted at the regular preaching hall. The dispensary also and the girls' day school proved useful in bringing people within hearing of the Gospel. Among the well-to-do families as well as others a ready hearing was gained when the workers were able to visit them.

Lungan

When work was first begun at Lungan in 1911 a great deal of opposition was met with, but as time passed this gradually lessened, and every one is now prepared to be friendly. The school work was hindered by the fighting which occurred, but the dispensary had a record year, the regular troops of the North and the South and the bandits being treated without distinction ; all alike showed gratitude for the attention they received. The church was full on the women's side, most of those present belonging to influential families, and two women received baptism. At Kucheng where, as already stated, the mission premises suffered considerably, the Rev. R. A. Whiteside, in order to provide money demanded by brigands and to avoid looting, purchased rice from the public granary, and as the market price had risen abnormally he was able to retail it to the poorer section of the population at a rate twenty-five per cent below that of the market, at the same time gaining a great opportunity for preaching to the crowds who desired to purchase. At Shuit'ienho and at Shuitsinp'u, five days' journey from Songpan, and also when travelling to and fro, Miss D. A. Martin found no difficulty in getting large audiences, and was able to sell many books.

Mowchow

Two women and one man were admitted to the catechumenate at Mowchow, where 5000 attendances were registered at the dispensary. Several of the patients were desirous of breaking off the opium habit. The work in general was difficult. Mrs. J. G. Beach says : " The sins and wickedness of this place are very great, and during the last few months the trade in opium has increased at an alarming rate. The officials all get rich on it and so make no effort to put a stop to it. Opium and gambling are in full swing from one end of the city to the other."

Anhsien

At Anhsien the Christians showed a good deal of liberality, contributing to the relief of the distress arising from the flood in North China and of those who suffered at Ts'aohaikai, a village in the district, which was almost burnt down as a result of a quarrel over opium between two rival brigands. The six primary schools were less of a burden upon the finances of the Mission than in 1917, as the parents were more ready to pay fees and buy the reading books for their children. There were about fifty girls in the mission day school in the city, and three of them did well in examination. The difficulties of travelling prevented the missionaries from reaching the out-stations often, but an old Christian woman devoted the whole of her time to going to them, spending from one to two months in teaching and visiting the women in their homes. Four men and four women were baptized during the year and several new catechumens were admitted.

Mienchuh

A women's school for Christians and catechumens was held at Tsentaoch'ang in the Mienchuh district, and was attended by twenty-four women, some of them travelling a distance of twenty-three miles in order to be present. For one hour each day the women were divided into small classes of three, and each woman who could read was put in charge of two backward women—a plan which was found to answer admirably. Visits paid to the people in their homes in the city and at the out-stations were welcomed, and at the fairs in the district, held partly for heathen worship and partly for business and pleasure, it was much more easy to win the confidence of the women than in former years.

Tehyang

At Tehyang the Christians grew in evangelistic zeal and liberality. The dispensary was well utilized, 6000 books were sold during the year, and the people showed much friendliness, especially as many of them had at one time or another found in the mission compound a harbour of refuge. The attitude of the people was well exemplified in December when the victory of the Allies was celebrated. A public meeting, called by the mandarin, was held in the temple of the god of war, and the Rev. D. A. Callum and a French priest represented the European Allies. Mr. Callum was asked to offer thanksgiving to God and also to make a speech, and he says that throughout the proceedings the god of war was quite forgotten and left out of it! In the evening all the chief men of the city, including the mandarin, attended a lantern service, which was repeated for their ladies the next evening, and for the general public on the evening following.

Chungkiang

From Chungkiang Miss C. Carleton reports that there was more life in the work. The boys' day school was flourishing and there were opportunities for teaching some of the ladies who had sought an asylum at the mission house. Several families were keenly interested in the Gospel and nine people were admitted to the catechumenate.

Japan

Japan consists of four principal islands, namely, Honshiu (mainland), Kiu-Shiu, Shikoku, and Hokkaido (Yezo), besides a number of smaller islands. The Japanese Empire includes also Formosa, the Pescadores, and Korea. Japan proper covers an area of 147,000 square miles, and has a population of about 50,000,000. Roman Catholic missionaries reached the country in 1549, but engaging in political intrigues they were expelled, and in 1624 Christianity was prohibited on pain of death. For 230 years Japan was practically closed to the outer world, but in 1853 it began to open to American and European influences, and since that time the country has made extraordinary progress in the adoption of western civilization. Still more recent is the toleration now fully accorded to Christian effort. In 1889 a new political constitution, formed somewhat on the lines of that of the United Kingdom, was promulgated. At the first general election under this constitution, held in 1890, fourteen Christians were elected to seats in the House of Representatives; and a Christian was subsequently appointed Speaker. In 1899 new treaties came into operation by which the country was thrown completely open to foreigners. Lastly, in 1912, the government policy which gave exclusive patronage to Shinto, the official religion of the country (Buddhism, the popular religion, had been disestablished in 1884), was changed, and Christianity was recognized and its aid sought.

American missionaries arrived in 1859, but for several years they could do scarcely any direct evangelistic work. The first British missionary, the Rev. G. Ensor of the C.M.S., reached Japan in 1869. According to the "Christian Movement in the Japanese Empire, 1918," the Protestant missionaries in Japan in 1917 numbered 1014 (men 329, wives 318, and single women 367). There were 831 Japanese ordained men and 2032 other paid Japanese workers, and 122,985 adherents of Protestant Missions. The converts connected with the C.M.S., S.P.G., Canadian Church, and Board of Missions of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America unite to form the Nippon Sei Kokwai, which had 19,863 adherents. The missionaries of the Roman Catholic Church numbered 352 and converts 75,983, and the Russian Orthodox Church had one foreign missionary and 36,265 adherents.

Commercial prosperity

JAPAN has not been immune from the spirit of change sweeping over the world. She has made enormous profits out of the war. Her exports, formerly smaller than her imports, have risen abnormally; factories have sprung up on every hand; huge fortunes have been made in an incredibly short time; and in their eagerness to share in the prosperity of the commercial classes schoolmasters and officials receiving salaries have thrown up their posts and gone into business, twelve out of twenty masters in one school taking this step in a single year. In the haste to amass wealth speculation has been rife, and some wealthy men having to a certain extent "cornered" the rice market, the price of that staple article of food nearly trebled in a few weeks, and serious riots ensued in the summer of 1918. Other prices rise and fall with that of rice, and a general increase in the cost of living occurred which fell hardly on teachers, students, and officials, whose salaries had not kept pace with prices. It is from this class that converts to Christianity have chiefly been drawn, and the missionaries have had to face the problem of poverty and distress among a class not usually reckoned as poor, as well as among the Japanese mission workers.

Rise in prices

Buddhist activity

In the religious world the Buddhists, with the encouragement which the Terauchi Government gave to the national religions, have put forth strenuous efforts to improve their position, imitating Christian methods in Sunday schools and the like, and stirring up teachers to oppose the attendance of their children at Christian services and meetings and warn them against Christianity as anti-national. Still all is not well with Buddhism. A writer is cited in the "Japan Weekly Chronicle" as saying that in spite of the magnificent statistics of Buddhism, which claims more than 51,000,000 adherents, nobody, "except the lower classes," seems to care whether it exists or not. Professor Kimura, of Tokyo University, has affirmed that "the influence of Buddhism has already faded in many quarters" and that "improvements are necessary if it is to exert its influence in Japan in the future." And Dr. R. T. Inouye, also of Tokyo University, has enumerated five great defects in the religion, first and foremost being the character of the priests, the majority of whom are behind the rest of the world in education, morals, and influence. These criticisms of Buddhism, and the appearance from time to time of some new religious cult such as Tareido, or the Great Spirit-Way, which is claimed to be the source of religion, the foundation of all morality and ethics, the basis of all philosophy, and the conclusion of science,[1] perhaps indicate that there is a growing sense that something is needed to give the nation an uplift, and that there is "hunger among those who are not Christians."

Criticisms of Buddhism

Japanese evangelists

It is a hopeful sign that there are some Japanese evangelists at work who draw large audiences. Two men in particular call for mention. Mr. Kanamori conducts successive meetings, preaching the same sermon on God, sin, and salvation at every meeting, and at its close inviting all non-Christians present to sign a card of decision, signifying their acceptance of Christ as their Saviour; in many instances there is no real decision, but there is a good residue of real inquirers. Mr. Kanzo Uchimura, on the other hand, works chiefly through a magazine, "Bible Study," which is read by large numbers of non-Christians as well as Christians. He has lately been deeply impressed by the teaching about the second coming of Christ, and in 1918 held meetings at Tokyo every Sunday afternoon, which were attended by from 500 to 800 people, to study the truth as set forth in the Word of God.

A spirit of compromise

In the Church in Japan, which according to the "Christian Movement in the Japanese Empire, 1918," now consists of 122,985 Protestants, 75,983 Roman Catholics, and 36,265 adherents of the Russian Orthodox Church, there is a spirit of compromise which, unless checked, must affect her witness. "It is urged," says the General Review of the Kiu-Shiu Mission, "that the observance of the Lord's Day is incompatible with modern demands and modern activities; it may be well for missionaries, but will not accord with Japanese customs and Japanese life. Again, it is said that certain business methods are so generally accepted that the Christians must wink at some of the dishonesties and unfaithfulness which are involved. The assertion is often heard from professing Christians that the bowing of the head at local shrines need not involve worship; the individual only performs the outward act and does not worship in his heart."

A time of perplexity and opportunity

The situation in Japan is summed up in the words "It is a time of perplexity and unusual opportunity." Intensive evangelism—the preparation of groups of chosen workers for the task of winning others—is recognized as one great need, and another is a determined effort to reach the industrial classes, not by preaching alone, but also by the display of practical Christian sympathy.

CENTRAL JAPAN MISSION

PAST HISTORY

The Rev. G. Ensor, the first C.M.S. missionary to the Japanese, landed at Nagasaki, in Kiu-Shiu, in 1869, and in 1873 the Mission was extended to Honshiu, the Main Island, and Osaka was occupied. Tokyo received a resident missionary in 1874; Matsuye, 1888; Fukuyama, 1891; Hiroshima, 1892; Hamada, 1893; Yonago, 1902; Kure, 1907; and Yokohama, 1916. In Shikoku, Tokushima was occupied in 1888.

Arrangements were made by Archbishop Tait for the establishment of an English bishopric in Japan, and his successor, Archbishop Benson, nominated the Rev. A. W. Poole, C.M.S. missionary in South India, to be the first bishop. He was consecrated in October, 1883. On his death in July, 1885, he was succeeded by Bishop Edward Bickersteth. In 1893 the Committee undertook, on the invitation of Bishop Bickersteth, to support two new bishops for the southern and northern islands respectively. In 1894 Bishop Bickersteth agreed with Bishop McKim, of the American Episcopal Church, upon a division of the Main Island into the dioceses of North and South Tokyo, Kyoto, and Osaka; North Tokyo and Kyoto being assigned to the American Church. Dr. Boutflower now presides over the diocese of South Tokyo, and Dr. Foss over that of Osaka. A new diocese, Mid Japan, was formed out of South Tokyo in 1912, for which Dr. Hamilton of the Canadian Church, a former C.M.S missionary, was consecrated bishop.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The chief stations on the Main Island are Osaka, the centre of trade in southern and western Japan; Fukuyama, to the west of Osaka; Kure, a naval port, and Hiroshima, on the Inland Sea; Hamada, the chief town of the western province of Iwami; and Matsuye and Yonago to the north-east of Hamada. Tokushima is on the island of Shikoku. All these are in the diocese of Osaka. In the diocese of South Tokyo, Tokyo, the largest city in the empire and the seat of the Emperor's Government, is occupied.

The educational institutions include the Momoyama School for boys, and the Bishop Poole Memorial School for girls, at Osaka; and a Bible women's training home at Ashiya. The C.M.S. men theological students attend the central theological college at Ikebukuro, while the preparatory students attend the American higher school; for the latter a hostel is provided.

Evangelistic work throughout Japan is prosecuted largely by means of English and other classes. Public meetings of an evangelistic character are regularly held at the Whidborne Hall, Tokyo, and at all the stations and out-stations; special services are frequently conducted in, or in connexion with the various churches; and preaching tours are made in the country districts as opportunity offers.

The staff engaged in the Mission consists of 12 European and 15 Japanese clergymen, 3 laymen, 14 missionaries' wives and 18 other women missionaries. The Japanese Christian lay teachers and evangelists number 43.

A depleted staff

THE European staff of the Central Japan Mission was at a very low ebb at the end of 1918. In the course of the year seven workers left on furlough or for war service, while only two returned to Japan. Osaka, the former centre of the Mission, was without any evangelistic missionary, and at least two of the remaining stations had combined with them one or two other stations which were once worked separately.

The Committee have accepted the resignation of Miss E. A. Carlyle.

Literary work

The Rev. G. W. Rawlings edited "Yo No Hikari" ("Light of the World"), a Japanese monthly magazine which had an ordinary circulation of more than 4000 copies, while nearly 10,000 copies, with a special supplement, were distributed among the Japanese Navy at the request and at the cost of the late Miss Weston. Miss A. C. Bosanquet, whose services are lent to the Japan Christian Literature Society, translated Stevens's "Theology of the New Testament."

Osaka

DIOCESE OF OSAKA.—The troubles at the Momoyama School at Osaka, spoken of in last year's REPORT (p. 114), resulted in a good deal of criticism of Mr. Asano, the principal, and although the standing committee of the Mission passed a vote of confidence in him, he resigned his position after thirteen years of excellent work at the school, in deference to an idea current in Japan that the man at the head of an institution is bound to resign or commit suicide if things go seriously wrong. There were no baptisms among the pupils, and the Christian work suffered through the fear of the boys lest there should be some foundation for the reports, diligently circulated, that Christian teaching was anti-national. Happily Mr. Rawlings, writing in November, was able to say that confidence had to a large extent been restored among the boys, and that there were a few promising candidates for baptism, though still the situation was not entirely satisfactory. The Bishop Poole Memorial School had a larger entry than usual, due in part to the financial prosperity of the people and in part to the improved situation of the school which had been removed in 1917 to new premises. Some difficulty was met with through a clever young teacher, who proved to be a Unitarian and did a good deal of harm by throwing doubts on the doctrines of the divinity of Christ and the atonement. Special meetings were held for the girls in the autumn with good results, and the manner in which many of the pupils sought during the holidays to win their relatives for Christ and carried on Sunday schools in the villages where they lived was most encouraging. Some falling off took place in the attendance at the Sunday schools in the city, but two girls among the pupils, about 15 years of age, received baptism. Bible classes were held in a couple of middle schools.

Two of the students at the Bible Women's Training Institution at Ashiya left in the spring of 1918 to take up work in the Mission, and eight new students were admitted, bringing the number up to seventeen. The women were cheered in their evangelistic work by the baptism of a schoolmaster and his wife and family, and of two women for whom prayer had long been offered. Ashiya

"Steady but slow progress" is reported from Hiroshima. The converts showed exceptional liberality, and raised in promises and cash about £120 for a new church. Meetings and classes were conducted for women Christians and inquirers, for nurses, and for schoolgirls. Work among children suffered from Buddhist rivalry and the opposition of school teachers. There was little advance at Shimonoseki, whence the pastor, the Rev. P. C. Nuki, paid regular visits to Chigirishima, a small island in the Inland Sea, with a population of about 2000, all connected with a great copper refining plant. The head of the business is a keen Christian, and the firm paid all Mr. Nuki's expenses and undertook to provide his salary if he would go as a full time worker. The sub-manager and several others received baptism and there were many inquirers. Hiroshima

When the Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Scott left Kure on furlough in the autumn the station was without a European missionary. Services were held in the naval hospital, and on one occasion the naval authorities invited the Japanese pastor to take part in a special service in commemoration of some men who had lost their lives; never before had any but Buddhist and Shinto representatives been asked to take part in the proceedings on such an occasion. Kure

At Fukuyama the hurry to get rich affected the attendance at services and meetings, but at the same time there were many people who had reached the conclusion that religion was a necessity and wished to inquire about Christianity. About twenty high school girls were usually present at a weekly class held for their benefit, and eight of them were only awaiting their parents' consent to avow themselves Christians. Little aggressive work could be done at Fuchu in the autumn, owing to the lack of a mission hall. Fukuyama

In order to prevent the children from attending the mission Sunday school at Hamada the priests opened schools in the temples, in which the methods of the missionaries were copied—hymns were sung and the children had cards given them on which were printed words of the Buddha. At first these efforts were successful, but when the novelty wore off several of the young people returned to the missionaries. Some women and high school girls seemed genuine in a desire to follow Christ, but opposition in their homes prevented them from being baptized. At Misumi, twelve miles from Hamada, the children suddenly ceased to attend the meetings held for them, and a meeting for women which was doing well received a check, a school teacher, at the priest's instigation, having been reprimanded Hamada by her principal for taking some of the students under her care to Christian meetings.

Yonago

Yonago suffered from a series of typhoons of exceptional severity, followed by an outbreak of influenza. A weekly English lesson in the middle school given by Mr. H. Peto led to a Bible class for a few of the boys, and English readings for some of the masters and one or two other Japanese gentlemen, eventually at their own request, took the form of Bible study; but the Rev. J. C. Mann says: "There are few baptisms to record and few catechumens are being prepared." Mr. Peto paid a visit of three weeks to the Oki Islands whence the catechist has been removed.

Tokushima

The annual letters from Tokushima dwell upon the difficulties arising from the war conditions amidst which the missionaries carried on their work. The preoccupation of the people with temporal affairs was felt at every turn, and even a series of meetings held by Mr. Kanamori in May, under the auspices of the American Presbyterian Mission and the C.M.S., in preparation for which 200,000 tracts were distributed in the province, did not attract an exceptionally large attendance. About 1500 people signed decision cards, but many of those who expressed a wish to join the Anglican Church, when approached, showed no inclination for any further teaching. Others were more promising and attended classes, and at the end of the year about ten per cent of the original number seemed hopeful. Both at Muya, where the converts made themselves responsible for almost all the organization of the meetings and defrayed a large part of the expenses, and at Tomioka about one in twelve of those who signed the cards appeared likely to become Christians. Three adults were baptized at Wakimachi, and a young carpenter, together with his mother, wife, and elder brother, was led to become a catechumen; this man took down and burned the ancestral tablets and other symbols which for more than a hundred years had stood on the god-shelf in his home.

Tokyo

DIOCESE OF SOUTH TOKYO.—Five C.M.S. students at the Anglican Theological College at Tokyo completed their course at Easter, 1918, one of them gaining the first place in the final examination. There were three men in the hostel for preparandi students. A Japanese children's missioner conducted several series of special meetings for the young people of the Society's Sunday schools. Fruit of work among the children is often found; during the year under review a mother brought her child to one of the schools saying that while a pupil in it she herself had come to know the Saviour, and another woman began to attend Christian meetings, impressed by the faith of her little child who died singing "Jesus loves me." A dispensary is shortly to be opened at Fukugawa, one of the poorest districts of the city, under Dr. Suwa, an earnest Christian. Mr. J. Cowl made an itineration on the west coast of Boshu, and stayed for a week at Hota, where the Presbyterians worked some years ago but whence they had withdrawn. The Christians there were grateful for spiritual help, arrangements were made to visit them weekly from Tokyo, several were baptized, and others were admitted as catechumens.

Work among Chinese students

The Work among Chinese Students, who are found chiefly at Tokyo, was affected in the spring of 1918 by the return of about half the men to their own land in their patriotic fervour over a supposed secret treaty between China and Japan. But the tide soon began to flow again, and before the end of the year it was estimated that there were between 4000 and 5000 of these students in the latter country. On his way from China to Europe Dr. Sherwood Eddy gave an address to the men in Tokyo, and thirty-seven of them signed a card expressing their desire for further instruction; these were divided into Bible classes, and four of them were eventually baptized. The Rev. W. H. Elwin, who is in charge of this work, brings out a bi-lingual quarterly letter, entitled "The Church's Call to Action," in order to keep in touch with students who have returned to their homes. He received replies from all parts of China and from the United States. One, from a man baptized at Swanwick in 1915, said that at the Chinese college at Changsha where he was a lecturer he had more than thirty men in his Bible classes, one for teachers and the other for students, and added that he wished to give up his position, in which he was receiving more than £30 a month, so as to study for ordination. Both the hostel for men students and that for women students were closed, the latter when the exodus to China occurred. One of the girls was baptized—a sister of the woman baptized in rather striking circumstances at the time of the revolution in China (REPORT, 1911–12, p. 206). Arrangements were made at the synod of the Chung Hua Sheng Kung Hui in April, 1918, by which the Chinese Church at Tokyo is to be regarded as a branch of the Chinese Church, temporarily residing in Japan, and not as a Chinese branch of the Japanese Church; but when Mr. Elwin wrote his annual letter the consent of the Nippon Sei Kokwai had not yet been received.

Yokohama

The "Will and the Way School" for Chinese boys at Yokohama continued its work amidst some opposition to the Bible teaching, and a night school was held four times a week. The Chinese Christians attended the Sunday morning services with fair regularity and their numbers were increased by the advent of two families from South China and by the baptism of a young man, the head of the Yokohama branch of his father's firm. The father himself is a Christian, and another of his sons an inquirer, while two of his daughters-in-law were regular attendants at meetings held during the summer by a Chinese lady, a voluntary worker introduced by the Society's missionaries at Hong Kong.

KIU-SHIU MISSION

PAST HISTORY

When the C.M.S. began work in Japan in 1869, Nagasaki was the scene of its operations. Kumamoto was occupied in 1887; Fukuoka, 1888; Oita and Kagoshima, 1895; Kokura, 1898; Omuta, Saseho, and Moji, 1914; and Kurume, 1915.

The diocese of Kiu-Shiu was constituted in 1893, and in the following year the Rev. H. Evington, a C.M.S. missionary of twenty years' experience in Japan, was consecrated. He retired in 1909 and was succeeded by Dr. A. Lea, a missionary of the Canadian C.M.S.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The work is carried on in much the same way as in Central Japan, Saseho Nagasaki, Omuta, and Kumamoto in the west; Kokura, Moji, and Kurume in the north; Oita in the east; and Kagoshima in the south of the island, are the stations. There is a Bible school for catechists at Fukuoka.

The staff of the Mission consists, besides Bishop Lea, of 6 European clergymen, 8 Japanese clergymen, 7 wives of missionaries, 8 single women, and 20 Japanese Christian lay agents.

THE Committee have accepted the resignation of Miss M. B. Collen.

Nagasaki

A member of a class for schoolboys was baptized in the summer at Nagasaki, and four young men were admitted to the catechumenate; several women were also ready for baptism, but were kept back by the opposition of their relatives and other causes.

Fukuoka

Three students passed out from the Bible School at Fukuoka, which was founded by the Rev. F. W. Rowlands at Saseho some years ago, and has since been adopted as a training institution for the Society's catechists in Japan. Three married men and four single men were admitted during 1918.

Saseho

A good many inquirers were under instruction at Saseho, and the work among the young was carried on vigorously. Much opposition in this was met with from parents and teachers—indeed the antagonism of teachers, always more or less pronounced in Japan, was exceptionally prominent in 1919 throughout the empire. The General Review of the Kiu-Shiu Mission mentions, without naming the places at which the incidents occurred, that in one school the teachers jointly circulated a monthly magazine among their pupils in which, among many points of advice, instructions were given as to how to worship at shrines, how to observe heathen festivals, and how to take care of the household gods; and that the head master of another school issued to all the scholars a printed paper with the following questions: "(1) Who is your tutelary god? (2) When is his festival? (3) How often do you worship him?" To which one of the few Christian children in the large school replied: "(1) Jehovah, the Almighty; (2) Every Sunday; (3) Every day." The Rev. C. O. Pickard-Cambridge, who was in charge at Saseho, devoted the greater part of two mornings each week to correspondence with sailors and country lads, and was enabled by this means to lead some to the Saviour.

Kokura

At Kokura three adults were baptized, but the lack of any Japanese Bible woman was a great hindrance. Yawata received an ordained pastor, the Rev. K. Otobe, but the people were very busy making munitions of war, and there were fewer baptisms than usual. At Nogata, on the other hand, the centre of a scattered district, from which visits were paid to twenty coal mines, thirteen adults were received into the visible Church, the fruit of the work of a Japanese catechist and his wife who have confronted and overcome many difficulties. A new out-station was opened at Ueki, in the extreme north of the Nogata district. The three missions working at Kurume, the Lutheran, the Presbyterian, and the C.M.S., combined to invite the Japan Evangelistic Band to pay a visit of ten days with their tent. Each night the tent, which accommodated more than 500 persons, was well filled, and many were helped by the meetings. One woman was baptized, and five were admitted as catechumens. Kurume

A building designed to serve as preaching place and church was opened at Oita, and meetings were held for hospital nurses and for girls, and some of the latter were being prepared for baptism. Encouraging open-air meetings were held at Beppu, and the Rev. M. O. M. Duke paid a number of visits to Kizuki, where a keen Christian master in the middle school conducted meetings for masters and boys in his rooms, and Mr. Duke was given opportunities of speaking to large numbers of the boys, albeit he was not allowed to preach Christ directly to them. Oita

It is said that there is real life in the little Church at Kagoshima, and that most of the converts are making efforts to win their friends and neighbours. Connected with the congregation is a Y.M.C.A., consisting of some thirty students from the high, middle, normal and commercial schools, and the agricultural college, for whom a special monthly meeting was held to train them to testify for Christ by lip and life. The members form little bands for street preaching when any special services take place, visit the out-stations with the pastor in the summer holidays, and once a month conduct a mission service. Meetings for non-Christians were held in the houses of two of the converts in different parts of the town, and the women missionaries had more openings for visiting than they could utilize. Five women were baptized and six members of a girls' Bible class were received as catechumens. A whole family of lepers, also, was baptized in the city, and on the island of Tanegashima devoted work among those afflicted people was carried on by a young man, himself a leper. Eight adults and fifteen children were baptized on one day at Oguchi, where also other converts were received into the visible Church on different occasions, bringing the total number up to thirty. The secret of this success was the faithful witness of a Christian woman and her husband who is still only an inquirer. Kagoshima

Kumamoto

The increased openings for work for women and the high price of the necessaries of life, caused many women and girls at Kumamoto to work in factories, and the long hours of toil unfitted them to receive instruction when it was over. Work among the children, however, prospered, and at Mijayi, where a catechist was placed in 1917, three adults were baptized. At Omuta, which first received a European missionary in 1914, though the curiosity aroused by the presence of foreigners was passing away, some progress could be traced. There is a little group of Christians and inquirers at Nankan, a town eight miles from Omuta.

Omuta

HOKKAIDO MISSION

PAST HISTORY

For four years the work of the C.M.S. in Japan was confined to Nagasaki, and it was not until 1874 that the northern island received a missionary by the occupation of Hakodate. Kushiro was occupied in 1889; Sapporo, 1892; Otaru, 1897; Muroran, 1907; Asahigawa, 1909; and Usu, 1911.

The Rev. P. K. Fyson, who had worked in Japan under the C.M.S. for twenty-two years, was consecrated Bishop in Hokkaido in 1896. He retired in 1908 and was succeeded in 1909 by the Rev. W. Andrews, a former missionary of the Society. Bishop Andrews resigned in 1918, and the see is now vacant.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

Hakodate, Sapporo, Otaru, Asahigawa, Obihiro, and Kushiro are the chief stations, the last named in the east of the island.

The staff engaged in the Mission consists of 2 European and 10 Japanese clergymen, 2 missionaries' wives, and 6 other women missionaries. The Christian Japanese and Ainu lay agents number 27.

THE Rev. Paul Suzuki passed away in November. He was ordained in 1912.

Hakodate

The addition of two men to the Japanese staff in the Hakodate district enabled the Rev. D. Marshall Lang to open a new out-station and to reopen one which had been closed for some years. The church at Immanueru-Mura was rebuilt at a cost of £100, nine-tenths of the money being given by the converts.

Otaru

The services at Otaru were not well attended, and the people in general were unresponsive. As an illustration of this, Miss G. S. Stevenson mentions the experience of a Japanese agent of the American Bible Society. Going from house to house in the south he was welcomed, the Christians were glad to enter into conversation and often bought a Bible or testament to give away; but in Hokkaido, when he stood in the entrance of a house and stated what his business was a voice from within would reply that as Christians they had a Bible and needed no more, and so he would be dismissed. A Bible-searching competition in connexion with a monthly meeting for Christian women led to fresh keenness in work, and a new Sunday school was opened at the house of some Christians living in a suburb.

Sapporo

An exhibition, held at Sapporo for sixty days to commemorate the jubilee of the opening up of the Hokkaido, brought a large number of visitors to the town, and both Christians and Buddhists took advantage of the opportunity to hold special meetings. All the Protestant Christians,—Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Methodists, Congregationalists, Independents, Baptists, Seventh Day Baptists, Lutherans, and the Church of Holiness,—united for the work, but feeling between the various Buddhist sects rose so high that they came to blows, and their meetings were stopped by the police, while those of the Christians were allowed to continue without any restriction. A hostel was opened for girl students, and work among men and boy students was most encouraging, one being baptized and bringing all his family under Christian influence, while another was prepared for baptism at Tokyo. Archdeacon J. Batchelor made himself responsible for efforts among the Ainu, the aborigines of Japan, at the time of the exhibition, and sometimes had as many as sixty Ainu friends to spend the night with him. He speaks of the Christian Ainu as ready to travel miles so as to attend services, and of the non-Christians as anxious to hear the Gospel, and says that nearly fifty young Ainu women were desirous of being prepared for baptism, but there was no means of helping them. In 1918 he was joined in his work by a man trained at the anglican divinity college at Tokyo, the first Ainu to have received such a good education.

North America

NORTH-WEST CANADA MISSIONS

PAST HISTORY

The Society's work in North-West Canada is among the remnants of the Red Indian tribes scattered over the vast country formerly known as the Hudson Bay Territory, but now included in the Dominion of Canada. In 1822 the Rev. John West arrived at a trading settlement on the Red River, a little south of Lake Winnipeg, and began to gather the Indians round him. Now the Red River District is the flourishing colonial province of Manitoba, and a large part of the Society's work has developed into the settled ministrations of the Church in the Colony. One of the Society's churches has become the cathedral of the diocese of Rupert's Land, which was founded in 1849. That diocese was divided in 1872 into four parts, the three new dioceses being those of Moosonee, Athabasca, and Saskatchewan. In 1875 these dioceses were constituted an ecclesiastical province with the Bishop of Rupert's Land as the Metropolitan. In 1884 the provincial synod divided the diocese of Athabasca, forming the new diocese of Mackenzie River, and at the same time the diocese of Qu'Appelle was formed out of Rupert's Land and Saskatchewan. In 1887 the diocese of Calgary was formed out of Saskatchewan; in 1890 Selkirk (now known as Yukon), on the west of the Rocky Mountains, out of Mackenzie River; and in 1902 Keewatin out of Rupert's Land and Moosonee. Two other new dioceses, Edmonton and Brandon, were formed in 1913. The present occupant of the see of Rupert's Land is Archbishop Matheson (1905); of Moosonee, Dr. Anderson (1909); of Keewatin, Dr. Lofthouse (1902); of Saskatchewan, Dr. Newnham (translated from Moosonee, 1903); of Calgary, Dr. Pinkham (1887); of Athabasca, Dr. Robins (1912); of Mackenzie River, Dr. Lucas (1913); of Yukon, Dr. Stringer (1905). All these, except Drs. Matheson and Pinkham, have been missionaries of the C.M.S.

The Society is represented in eight of the above-named eleven dioceses. In RUPERT'S LAND DIOCESE the Society's work was begun in the Red River district in 1823; and Rainy Lake district was occupied in 1874. In KEEWATIN DIOCESE, York was occupied in 1854; Fort Alexander, 1864; Churchill, 1886. In MOOSONEE DIOCESE, Moose was occupied in 1851; Albany, 1855; East Main Coast, 1877; Blacklead Island, 1894; Lake Harbour, 1909. In SASKATCHEWAN DIOCESE, Cumberland and Devon were occupied in 1840; Stanley, 1852; Sandy Lake (Asisipi), 1875; Battleford, 1877; Prince Albert, 1879; Grand Rapids, 1881; and Fort Pitt, 1888. In CALGARY DIOCESE, Fort McLeod was occupied in 1880; Blackfoot Crossing in 1883; Sarcee Reserve in 1886. In ATHABASCA DIOCESE, Chipewyan was occupied in 1867; Fort Vermilion, 1876; Lesser Slave Lake, 1886; Upper Peace River, 1888. In MACKENZIE RIVER DIOCESE, Fort Simpson, 1858; Fort McPherson, 1861; Fort Norman, 1871; Fort Resolution, 1875. In YUKON DIOCESE, Rampart House, 1882; Buxton, 1887; Selkirk, 1892; Moosehide (Klondyke) and Herschel Island, 1897; Carcross, 1900.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

The majority of the Indians in North-West Canada have by this time embraced Christianity, and the work among them is largely pastoral. Many Eskimo, however, are still unreached by the Gospel.

The Society makes a grant of £110 per annum to St. John's College, Winnipeg, and gives also £137 per annum in scholarships. Homes for Indian children are found at some stations.

The Society makes grants to the salaries of five of the bishops, maintains five missionaries who are in home connexion, and assists by an annually diminishing block grant the work in eight dioceses.

THE Board of Management of the Missionary Society of the Church of Canada has agreed to take over the whole of the Indian and Eskimo work which in the past has been financed and carried on by the Church of England. The grant from the C.M.S. for this work will cease in 1920.

Literary work

The Rev. Dr. E. J. Peck finished the compilation of the first part of a new Eskimo grammar.

Fort Alexander

DIOCESE OF KEEWATIN.—The work at Fort Alexander is carried on among Ojibway Indians on two reserves, their number in all being about 600. The Rev. C. H. Fryer speaks of the outlook as much brighter than in 1917, since a deeper spiritual life was manifested by the people and they responded more readily to appeals to help in the upkeep of their church. He says that the temporal lot of the Indians has improved and that there is much less debt, partly owing to war conditions, which have led to steadier work.

Fort Hope

Lake Harbour

DIOCESE OF MOOSONEE.—Sickness was very prevalent at Fort Hope, where there are still some heathen. When the missionary, the Rev. E. Richards, was absent from the station, services were continued by the chief who is an earnest Christian. Lake Harbour received a visit from Bishop Anderson and Dr. Peck in August. They spent about six weeks at the station, holding services of all kinds, dealing with inquirers, preparing candidates for confirmation, and instructing the two catechists, Luke Kidlapik and Joseph Pudlo, both of whom are highly esteemed by the people. The Eskimo, who had gathered at Lake Harbour in larger numbers than ever before, displayed wonderful eagerness to be taught, and Luke Kidlapik, when asked the meaning of so large a number of inquirers, replied: "It is the Word of God that is moving them." A veritable revival seemed to be in progress. The Bishop held a number of confirmations, the first on August 11, for those who had been baptized in past years, and were the best prepared. Thirty candidates were confirmed on that occasion and seventy-seven at services held later, while during their visit to the station the Bishop and Dr. Peck baptized twenty-seven men, thirty-six women, and forty-seven children. From Lake Harbour they crossed to Wakeham Bay, on the south side of Hudson Strait, and then to Fort Chimo, in Ungava Bay. The Rev. S. M. Stewart, the missionary of the Colonial and Continental Church Society at that station, unfortunately was absent, but Bishop Anderson confirmed thirty-six people and baptized ten adults. Reports indicate that there are at least 1200 Eskimo in Baffin Land, and in the north and west there are many more. Captain French, of the Royal North-West Mounted Police, who since 1916 has travelled 5000 miles in search of the murderers of two prospectors, states that during his travels he met at least 4000 Eskimo, many of whom had never before seen a white man.

Sarcee Reserve

DIOCESE OF CALGARY.—The Indians at Sarcee Reserve are rapidly dying out. The reserve suffered greatly from an outbreak of influenza, which, however, aroused several of the people from their indifference to religion.

Little Pines

DIOCESE OF SASKATCHEWAN.—The Rev. M. B. Edwards, who has been removed from Stanley to Little Pines, describes the work as far from encouraging and says that many of the Indians are Christians in name only.

Lesser Slave Lake

DIOCESE OF ATHABASCA.—The work in the Lesser Slave Lake district has earned the approval of the farmers, who speak of missionaries as doing "a real good work" among the Indians.

DIOCESE OF MACKENZIE RIVER.—Bishop Lucas writes with thankfulness that he was able in 1918 to secure in Eastern Canada workers to fill the vacant posts at Fort Norman, Fort McPherson, and Fort Chipewyan. There were twenty-nine boys and rather fewer girls in the diocesan boarding school at Hay River, a station which has communication with the outer world only eight times a year. The Revs. E. Hester and H. Girling seek to reach the Eskimo of the Coronation Gulf district. At the end of 1917 the former visited a number of camps, in one of them, where lives the most renowned witch doctor in the district, meeting with no fewer than four murderers, who, however, showed him much kindness. In all Mr. Hester met between 300 and 400 Eskimo; sometimes the Gospel was listened to eagerly, at others evidently it was not wanted. Great hardship has to be endured on these trips, the camp usually being a snow house with only an oil lamp to give warmth, though the temperature was 40° below zero.

Hay River

Coronation Gulf

Moosehide

DIOCESE OF YUKON.—All the Indians at Moosehide, three miles from Dawson, are professing Christians and attend the church services; the chief occasionally addresses his people after a service. Julius Kendi, a native catechist, was ordained deacon. The Rev. W. H. Fry in his annual letter for 1917, which though written in December of that year was not received in London until the following July, refers to a visit paid to his station, Herschel Island, in the summer of 1917 by Bishop Stringer who went thither after the unique gathering of bishops and clergy at Fort McPherson, which was mentioned in last year's REPORT (p. 122). Mr. Fry mentions the survival of much superstition among the people and says that even advanced Christians speak of having seen spirits, and believe in the power of the shaman (the medicine man) to cause or cure sickness, stop the wind, and do anything he desires through the agency of demons. In the autumn Mr. Fry made an itineration to the mountain Eskimo of the Herschel Island River District, and found the people very ignorant not only of Christian morality but also of ordinary law.

BRITISH COLUMBIA MISSION

PAST HISTORY

In 1856 Captain Prevost, R.N., drew the Society's attention to the savage state of the Tsimshean Indians on the coast of British Columbia, and a young schoolmaster, Mr. W. Duncan, was sent out. Great blessing was vouchsafed to his labours, and in 1862 the Christian settlement of Metlakahtla was founded. In 1881, however, Mr. Duncan refused to work on the lines of the Church of England and ceased to be a missionary of the Society, and an unhappy schism among the Indian Christians resulted. Peace was in God's good providence ultimately restored, though at a heavy cost. Prolonged disputes about the land ensued between Mr. Duncan's Indians and the Government; and in the summer of 1887 Mr. Duncan removed with some hundreds of the people to a place seventy miles distant, within the United States territory of Alaska. After the departure of the disaffected party the conduct of the loyal Indians was so excellent that the government commissioners, sent in November, 1888, to report on the condition of these disturbed districts, stated that the Metlakahtla church Indians were in happy contrast to all others, and were a credit to their instructors.

The diocese of British Columbia was subdivided in 1879, and the Rev. W. Ridley, formerly a missionary of the Society in the Punjab, was appointed the first bishop of Caledonia, the northern division. The Society's mission stations, with the exception of that at Alert Bay, are situated in that diocese. Bishop Ridley resigned the see in 1904, and was succeeded in that year by Bishop DuVernet.

Kincolith was occupied in 1866; Alert Bay, 1878; Hazelton, 1880; Aiyansh, 1883; and Kitkatla, 1887.

SUMMARY OF PRESENT WORK

Metlakahtla and Kitkatla are on the coast; Hazelton and Giatwangak lie on the Skeena River; and Kincolith and Aiyansh are on the Naas River. Alert Bay, on Vancouver Island, is far south of the other stations. There are industrial schools for boys and girls at Alert Bay, and at Metlakahtla the Ridley Home for white and half-breed children who attend the government school.

The missionary staff consists, besides Archbishop DuVernet, of 5 clergymen, 4 missionaries' wives, and 1 single woman, besides 10 Indian Christian lay agents.

Deaths of Mrs. A. E. Price, Rev. J. Field,

FOUR missionaries, whose connexion with the British Columbia Mission dates back a long way, have been called to their eternal rest. Mrs. A. E. Price died on 13 August, 1918; she was married in 1888, when her husband had already spent three years in the Mission.

The Rev. J. Field, who worked in the Yoruba Mission from 1877–9, in Ceylon from 1882–5, and from 1886 in British Columbia, passed away on August 19. He was greatly beloved by both the Indian and the white population.

Mr. W. Duncan,

Mr. William Duncan, the pioneer of the Mission, died on August 31. He sailed in 1856, and after working for five years among the Tsimshean Indians formed a missionary settlement at Metlakahtla. In 1881 he severed his connexion with the Society but continued to work among the Indians, with a number of whom he crossed into Alaska in 1887.

and Mrs. W. H. Collison

Mrs. Collison, the wife of Archdeacon W. H. Collison, was called to her rest on 9 January, 1919. She had worked in the Mission for more than forty-five years.

Metlakahtla

The Rev. A. E. Price was transferred from Massett to Metlakahtla in the summer of 1918. He says the work among the whites is encouraging but that few of the natives attend the services.

Kitkatla

The Indians at Kitkatla suffered terribly from influenza, and twenty-seven of the tribe died, among them being several relatives of the old Chief Sheuksh, the story of whose dramatic conversion to Christianity was so often told by Bishop Ridley. Several deaths took place at Hazelton, but only one of the eight who died was rattled over by a medicine man, a hopeful sign in view of the revival of belief in the old superstitions which has taken place in the last few years. The Indians were more responsive to Christian teaching than in 1917. At Kincolith work was almost entirely pastoral in character. In January and February when nearly all the Indians are in camp Bible classes were conducted for the women and for men, day schools were carried on, and so on. About the middle of March all the Indians moved on to Fishery Bay for the oolachan fishing, but the number doing so was hardly as large as usual since the demand for the grease and oil extracted from the fish has fallen off, and larger profits can be made from hunting, logging, and other pursuits. Before his removal to Metlakahtla Mr. Price was in charge of Massett, on Queen Charlotte Islands. There was a great influx of whites to the district owing to the demand for spruce for aeroplanes, and the services at the station and out-stations were greatly valued. Indeed at one place, Port Clements, thirty whites and sixty Indians used to assemble for service in a room about twenty feet square.

PROPER FORMS OF A BENEFACTION TO THE SOCIETY BY WILL

No. I.—Form of a Bequest of a Common Legacy

I give and bequeath to the Treasurer for the time being of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East the sum of Pounds free of duty[1] for the general purposes of the said Society such sum and the duty thereon to be paid within calendar months next after my death. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said Legacy.

No. II.—Form of Bequest of the Residue or a share of the Residue

I give and bequeath unto the Treasurer for the time being of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East for the general purposes of the said Society my Residuary Real and Personal Estate [or if a share only of the Residue is intended to be given, then, instead of the words in Italics, say "such sum of money as shall be equal to one-fourth or one-half (according to the intention) of my whole Residuary Real and Personal Estate"]. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said Residue [or sum of money as the case may be]. And as to the remainder (if any) of my general Residuary Estate I bequeath the same, etc.

[1] If so intended.
